PEARL HARBOR TRUTH WILL BE BARED: SHORT

Says 'Loaded Dice' Will Be Thwarted

BY ARTHUR EVANS

Rep. Short [R., Mo.] declared yesterday that congress hopes to unearth the real truth of Pearl Harbor tho hampered by "stacked cards and loaded dice." In Ozarkian style in two speeches he analyzed problems confronting congress from demobilization to reduction of taxes, from lend-lease to the atomic bomb.

Rep. Dewey Short

He addressed the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman at noon and last night spoke at a Republican rally in Lincoln school, Highland Park, under the auspices of the Highland Park Men's Republican club.

Demands Keeping Atomic Secret

In his speeches the congressman urged patience in demobilization—"not too fast and not too much"—maintenance of proper national defense, and retention by the United States of the "know how" secret of making the atomic bomb.

Short, a high ranking minority member of the house military affairs committee and one of the most scholarly members of congress—he studied or taught in nine colleges and universities, including Oxford, Berlin, and Heidelberg—last year introduced a resolution for transmission to congress of the war and navy reports on Pearl Harbor. He was a leader in the fight to bring out all the facts.

Uncle Sam May Be Uncle Sap

Widespread criticism was evoked in Washington, D. C., when Short was left off the congressional committee to investigate Pearl Harbor—five senators and five representatives appointed a month ago.

In his speeches, Rep. Short ripped into lend-lease and remarked that Uncle Sam, who was dubbed Uncle Shylock by our allies after World War I., unless careful may "become a bigger Uncle Sap as the years go on."

In Highland Park Rep. Short asserted that the administration's labor policy has encouraged strikes and dissension. Too many working men have been spoiled by high war time wages, he said, and, by strikes, "willful men" are delaying reconversion.

Harry L. Stone presided at the Executives' club luncheon, and Harold O. McLain was chairman of the Highland Park meeting.

LEND-LEASE SYSTEM

Taking up lend-lease in his address to the Executives' club, Short expressed the view that "if we share too much, we don't have much left."

"This lend-lease has been supposed to be a two-way road," he said. "But the old cow has had her head here in America and we've been feeding her. But her other end has been in Europe, where they

Stay Prepared for Next War, Patton Warns

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gen. Patton, 55, in a formal statement issued at his new 15th army headquarters, put on record today his belief that there will be more wars and that "unless we are armed and prepared the next war will probably destroy us."

Advocating universal military training for America, the veteran army commander, transferred from command of the 3d army early this month after charges that he was slow about ousting Nazis from office in Bavaria, said:

"The one hope for a peaceful world is in a powerful America, and the only means of producing a powerful America is to initiate and maintain adequate means instantly to check aggressors."

Describing himself as a man who has "studied and practiced war all my life," Patton asserted he was "utterly opposed to it, but I am not an ostrich."

Wars Aren't Logical

"Wars are not the results of a set of logical circumstances," he said. "Almost invariably wars are produced thru the efforts of a few unbalanced people who play on the many by exploiting thwarted ambitions and emotions of avarice or revenge."

"Since one can not determine when or where such unbalanced individuals will appear, it is impossible to prophesy when or whom we shall next fight," he added.

Pointing out that the United States has been in nine wars in 133 years, eight involving fighting outside the country, Patton said:

"After each previous war and apparently at present we have been induced as a nation to subscribe to the doctrine that 'in weakness there is strength,' that you prevent wars by disarming—just as you prevent fires by abolishing the fire department.

Next Will Destroy Us

"As a result of this policy of unpreparedness we have always had to improvise armies. In two world wars, America has come from behind to insure victory. The next time a war is thrust upon us our opponents will see to it to the best of their ability that the arsenal of democracy is destroyed or critically damaged before it can become effective.

"Had we been prepared, several of those wars we have engaged in would not have happened and all of them would have been much shorter and less bloody. Unless we are so armed and prepared the next war will probably destroy us. No one who has lived in a destroyed country can view such a possibility with anything but horror."

50 YEARS' WORK AHEAD

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gen Eisenhower expressed belief today it would "take 50 years of hard work" to reeducate Germany in Domocratic ideals, and said that as far as he was concerned

1 DEAD, 16 HURT ON HAYRACK RIDE

26 Pupils on Vehicle Struck by Truck

A hayrack carrying 13 Parker High school girls and their escorts on a hay ride last night was struck and demolished by a trailer truck on route 83, west of La Grange rd. [route 45], in Palos Hills forest preserve. County highway police reported that one pupil was killed and 16 injured, some of them seriously.

The dead pupil was identified as Robert Anderson, 17, of 6832 Normal blvd., after his body was removed to Little Company of Mary hospital.

Injured in Hospital

The injured, also removed to the same hospital, included:

Jean Allenfort, 17, of 6943 Calumet av.; back fractured.

Robert Bennett, 17, of 220 W. 76th st.

Fred Bernhart, 18, of 7308 Champlain av.

Darwin Brown, 17, of 6624 Halsted st.

Joan Fechtman, 18, of 7141 May st.

Donald Hehln, 17, of 6928 Union av.

Barbara Harbick, 18, of 7333 Harvard av.

Eric Jenson, 16, of 6825 Yale av.

Gene Kelly, 18, of 6219 Woodlawn av.

Fred Kinmey, 17, of 6728 Emerald av.

Robert Lepper, 18, of 6938 Stony Island av.

Robert Loftus, 18, of 252 W. 67th st.

Lois Murphy, 17, of 6630 Yale av.

Dorothy Nelson, 17, of 6828 Normal blvd.

David Schofield, 15, of 9639 Yates av.

Betty Wright, 15, of 6921 Normal blvd.

Driver at Police Station

The impact scattered the young riders all over the pavement and smashed the hayrack to bits. Both the hayrack and the truck were eastbound. The hayrack was driven by Raymond Kartzke, 29, of 11529 Prairie av., who told police it was hit as he was turning into the forest preserve.

The truck was driven by A. E. Snyder, 42, of 1340 Emerald av., Chicago Heights. Snyder said he attempted to turn out when he saw the rear of the hayrack, lighted with lanterns, but could not avoid the collision. He was taken to the Bedford Park police station.

The hay ride was an annual affair sponsored by Parker pupils. The students boarded the hayrack at 123d st. and La Grange rd., and were scheduled to return there at midnight for refreshments. All were to be home at 1 a. m.

Ghost Hellcat Flies by Radio; Television Eyes Guide Bombs

Pilot on Ground

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—Development of a pilotless radio controled fighting plane—the Ghost Hellcat—was disclosed today by the navy.

So far as is known, the navy announced, it is the world's only standard military plane in which radio control performs all operations performed by a pilot in taking off, flying, and landing.

The navy announcement gave no details of the Ghost Hellcat's performance or armament, altho it said the plane "fights without a pilot."

Pilot Sits in Truck

It is an advancement over the small, radio-controled target planes used by the army and navy for anti-aircraft training. The small planes are called "Drones" and the Ghost Hellcat has been nicknamed the "Big Drone."

The plane is taken off by a pilot who sits in a truck before a control panel. His signals retract the wheels and start the plane to circling the field. Then control is taken over by another pilot in a "mother" plane who guides the Ghost Hellcat on its mission. Upon its return to the field, the Ghost Hellcat is taken over again by the ground pilot.

Actors Aid Experiments

The controls are so complete that even the tail wheels may be guided to steer the plane on the ground, brakes may be set, and engines governed for the speeds desired for take-off or landing.

Among men who have experimented with pilotless craft over the last 23 years is Reginald Denny, movie actor, who pioneered small radio controled target planes. The navy has designated its target plane the TDD, standing for Target Drone Denny.

Another movie actor, Lt. Comdr. Robert Montgomery, also contributed to the development of the smaller planes. He experimented with launching the small drones from speedboats while stationed at San Pedro, Cal.

Secret Arms Shown

BY WALTER SIMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Dayton, O., Oct. 12—A bomb with television eyes to guide it infallibly to its target was among the hitherto secret aerial weapons shown at Wright field today by the air service technical command.

While planes roared overhead, the army offered a preview of its sprawling two day air forces fair, which will open tomorrow. Radio controled weapons were on public view for the first time.

The television bomb glides on X-shaped wings to its target after being released at about 20,000 feet. Its velocity is held below 300 miles an hour by dive brakes on the tail. Designated GB-4, the red-painted missile has a range of 20 miles.

Bomb Has Transmitter

Carrying the eyes of the pilot of the mother plane on its nose, it is equipped with television camera and transmitter. When the bomb is dropped, a bombardier aboard the mother ship guides the bomb by reference to a television screen, on which the picture transmitted from the camera in the bomb is flashed.

Another type of television bomb is bigger, with stubby conventional wings. A third type has a circular wing, like an oversized collar around the fuselage. These two carry 1,000 pounds of explosives.

Another guided missile is the "Azon" bomb, controled thru radio equipment in the tail.

The planes that won the war—the B-29 and B-32 super-bombers and the P-38, P-47, and P-51 fighters—streaked over Wright field in a display of power. They were followed by the giant B-19, the C-82 flying box car, the C-97, cargo version of the B-29, and the P-59 and P-80 jet fighters.

Plane Noses Over

Misfortune ended the flight of the little PQ-14-B radio controled plane. After flying from Columbus, O., under control of a mother plane piloted by Maj. Douglas H. Whittaker, Monmouth, Ill., it nosed over on landing at Patterson field. Strong crosswinds were blamed for the accident.

Another controled unit shown was the tiny OQ-14, a 135 pound target plane driven at 140 miles an hour by a 22 horse power engine.

It was a great day for the public. A few weeks ago guards looked under the fillings of your teeth for concealed weapons before admitting you to Wright field. Now the army trotted out many of the secret items mentioned by Gen. Arnold, AAF commander, in Gen. Marshall's report this week.

De Gaulle Rules Out Deals Made by Three Nations

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gen. De Gaulle today ruled out three nations negotiations of such matters as Balkan peace treaties, declaring France would consider herself bound only by agreements she helped to make.

[The foreign ministers conference in London became deadlocked on Russia's demand that only the soviet, British, and American governments negotiate Balkan treaties, excluding France and China.]

CROWD IN PANIC WHEN MOUNTED POLICE CHARGE

Report President Offers to Quit

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12 (AP)—Day-long political tension erupted into street fighting between mounted police and Argentine civilians tonight, leaving one person dead and between 40 and 50 wounded, 13 seriously.

Touched off by a saber-swinging police charge against a demonstration in San Martin square, the melee threw thousands into panic. At least five of the wounded were policemen, an indication civilians were fighting back against a force which has spearheaded repressive measures against them.

Take to Armored Cars

After the first clash, armed civilians sniped at mounted officers from doorways, and in one street three police horses galloped off, their saddles empty.

The police abandoned tear gas and sabers for armored cars, rifles, and submachine guns as street corners became the scene of battles.

A crowd, estimated at more than 10,000, had congregated in front of the Officers club, the remnants of a huge demonstration which spent Columbus day in the square demanding the nation's government be handed to the Supreme court and the ouster of President Edelmiro Farrell.

Demonstrators in Panic

Confusion clouded the cause of the tumult. A staccatto sound, as of machine gun fire or firecrackers on a string, threw the demonstrators into panic, and without warning 40 policemen sent their mounts against the throng.

Civilians in cars at the side of the square were seen to draw revolvers and fired their guns, apparently aimed also against the crowd. Eduardo Mallea, an editor of the newspaper La Nacion, said he recognized members of the Nationalist Youth alliance in the melee.

First reports identified the slain man as Dr. Eugenio Ottolenghi, director of a private hospital.

As the shooting subsided into scattered revolver and rifle fire in other parts of the city, doors of police headquarters were closed, its windows shuttered and machinegun emplacements were thrown around the building.

Army Threatens Police

A colonel identified only by the last name of Montes announced for the army that the police would be punished if they shed the people's blood.

[A Reuters dispatch said Montes added it had been resolved to hand over the government to the Supreme court and that this decision would be announced officially to the Argentine people at 10 a. m. tomorrow.]

While apprehension gripped the city, a source close to Rear Adm. Hector Vernengo Lima, named today as naval minister, said that Col. Juan Peron, resigned vice president, had been arrested and placed aboard a gunboat.

Earlier today a group of army-navy officers forced Farrell's cabinet to resign, and a spokesman said they also had the president's own resignation—"to be used at any moment."

NAVAL OFFICER FORGETS $15,000; POLICE FIND IT

Lt. Comdr. Bernard R. Lewis, en route to Milwaukee from the naval submarine base at New London, Conn., stopped in Chicago yesterday and parked his car in a parking lot at 170 E. Delaware pl. Later he claimed the car and went to Milwaukee. There he discovered the loss of a briefcase and telephoned Chicago av. police for help. Policeman Philip ["Tip"] O'Neill went to the parking lot and located the case which had been turned in by an attendant. It contained $15,000 in bonds and securities. Lewis came back for it.

British Shift 2 Liners; Delay Yanks' Return

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Withdrawal of the Queen Elizabeth and the Aquitania from the United States army ferry service threatened today to prevent thousands of American soldiers in Europe from getting home for Christmas as planned.

It was announced in the house of commons that the two British vessels, which have carried more than 91,000 troops across the Atlantic since V-E day under lend-lease arrangement, will be returned at once to their Cunard line owners for the repatriation of British troops.

Surprise to Army

The British action, which the United States army indicated was a surprise, came as a jolt to thousands of Americans "sweating it out" for transportation home. It was announced officially that transfer of the two liners would mean a loss of shipping space for at least 125,000 men during the next three months.

An army statement said an unspecified number of American Victory ships were to be traded temporarily to the British for continued use of a third liner, the Queen Mary. Presumably, the Mary will be at the disposal of American authorities for the remainder of the redeployment program.

The troops scheduled to come home on the Queen Elizabeth and Aquitania included 80 point men who fought in Europe. While their departure has been definitely delayed, they will receive the highest priority and the last of them may be en route early in November. However, there were no guesses as to when 70 point men may get shipping.

Want More Shipping

"If the shipping allotment for this theater is increased to compensate for the loss of these ships," the army's statement said, "December shipments will be stepped up to meet the target of having only 707,000 men remaining here by Jan. 1."

British Minister of War Transport Alfred Barnes, announcing the liners' transfer, explained that the surrender of Japan had made the reallocation necessary. He said that while the Pacific war continued, ferrying American troops across the Atlantic was believed to be the best use of the vessels.

It was reported the Queen Elizabeth soon would start carrying Canadians homeward and that the Aquitania would be used, at least temporarily, to transport Australian soldiers to their homes.

65,000 Yanks Delayed

An army statement in Paris said a shipping slow-up, over which the army had no control, from east coast United States ports had postponed the homeward travel of 65,000 Americans from the European theater.

The statement, from the Oise section headquarters, did not specify the cause of the slow-up or in which ports it had occurred. The army transportation corps office in Paris said the delay was not specifically the result of the strike by New York longshoremen.

Action Arouses Senator

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12—Sen. Knowland [R., Cal.], aroused by London reports that the British liners Queen Elizabeth and Aquitania are being withdrawn from American troop carrying service, today said he will investigate the use of more navy vessels to bring American fighting men home.

"We should know the basis for this sudden removal of the British ships from our troop carrying service before we conduct any further negotiations on ending the allied shipping pool," Knowland, who resigned an army major's commission to take his senate seat, said.

WANTS A-BOMBS TO UPROOT FEW STUMPS ON FARM

Oak Ridge, Tenn., Oct. 12 (AP)—A Newport, Ark., farmer, has written "the atomic bomb company" here asking about atomic bombs for stump-uprooting purposes.

"I have some stumps in my field that I would like to blow out," his letter said. "Have you got any atomic bombs the right size for the job, if you have, let me know by return mail and let me know how much they will cost. I think I would like them better than dynamite."

The letter was delivered to Tennessee Eastman corporation whose officials are not decided on an exact answer,

ALLIES TO TEAR DOWN PART OF FARBEN EMPIRE

40 Big Factories in American Zone

BERLIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—The allies have confiscated the entire holdings in Germany of the octopuslike I. G. Farbenindustrie, without whose vast industrial output the Nazis would have been unable to wage war, and have outlawed the Nazi party.

Lt. Gen. Clay

Lt. Gen. Lucien D. Clay, administrator of civil affairs in American occupied Germany, announced tonight that a part of the 300 plants owned by the huge trust would be dismantled and taken by the allies as reparations. Plants devoted to the output of the implements of war will be destroyed, and only some which turn out nonwar products, mostly pharmaceuticals, will be left in operation, he said.

Clay made it clear that the allied seizure affected only holdings within Germany. He said he did not know what would happen to Farbenindustrie's foreign holdings, which extend over a fair sized portion of the world.

Allocation Under Discussion

Allocation of the Farben plants for reparations still is under discussion, Clay said.

He estimated that about 75 per cent of Farbenindustrie's plants in Germany were intact. Forty of the plants are located in the American zone, with the headquarters and one of the biggest units at Ludwigshafen.

The confiscation included all of Farbenindustrie's currency holdings. Pre-war assets of the trust were estimated at 5,000,000,000 reichmarks —$2,000,000,000.

Col. Edwin Pillsbury, who directed seizure of the plants in the United States zone of occupation, said investigation showed that the combine controled virtually all German chemical production, supplied the Nazis with needed foreign exchange, engaged in industrial sabotage, checked on chemical production in every country, and hampered production outside Germany.

Value Plants at 1 Billion

The plants in the American zone leased to the trust had a pre-war value of $307,800,000 while construction costs alone for the plants all over Germany and in Czechoslovakia amounted to $762,800,000, Pillsbury estimated.

The decree outlawing the Nazi party made revival of the party and any of its affiliated organizations a criminal offense, and ordered confiscation of all their properties and records.

Actually the decree put into writing what has been largely carried out by the allies in the conquered reich.

Urge Seizure of Assets

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—The United States and Russia, it was learned today, are urging the immediate seizure of German assets in neutral countries, a proposal opposed by Great Britain on legal grounds.

The British were said to take the view that it would be better to persuade neutrals to turn over the holdings on "moral grounds" rather than by use of force, contending that "a decree would be worthless and unwise unless we can get their coöperation."

The American answer to the projected legal technicalities has been that the allied powers, thru their control council, establish international law every day, even within Germany in reviewing sentences of war criminals.

The Russians maintain that the Potsdam declaration gave the council power to promulgate a decree seizing German assets abroad.

100,000 Americans Still in Britain, Commons Told

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 12 — More than 200,000 officers and men of the allied forces, half Americans, are still in Britain, Glenvil Hall, financial secretary of the treasury, disclosed in the house of commons today.

JAPAN SHAPING CONSTITUTION TO M'ARTHUR ORDER

Social Reform Planned; Budgets Slashed

TOKYO, Oct. 13 [Saturday] (AP)—The Japanese cabinet met today to take first steps toward the revision of the nation's constitution, as ordered by Gen. MacArthur in a directive calling for fundamental social reforms.

Tokyo newspapers predicted the draft of the changes would be ready for the scheduled diet session in December.

Domei agency said the cabinet slashed 2,521,000,000 yen from 24 special accounts in the budget by suspending a series of war time expenditures. At the current 15 to 1 exchange rate this would amount to $168,000,000.

Billion Cut Earlier

The cabinet already had cut 1,779,000,000 yen from the budget general account in seeking economies.

Domei predicted the diet in its next session would overhaul the nation's constitution for the first time in 57 years and bring it into line with MacArthur's demands.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye was quoted as saying the constitution may be changed to take nearly all powers from the emperor and establish a constitutional monarchy. When asked if that would force Hirohito to abdicate, the former premier said the emperor was "seriously concerned."

To prepare the ground for drastic government changes, Dr. Soichi Sasaki, an authority on Japan's constitution, took over the task of advising Marquis Koicho Kido, the highest ranking consultant for the emperor.

Orders Women's Suffrage

The new constitution is expected to provide for MacArthur's orders for women's suffrage, labor unionization, abolition of secret police systems, advancement of education, and revision of monopolistic industrial control.

Russian, British and Chinese troops will join Americans in the occupation of Japan, but there has been no official word from Washington as to the size of the allied forces or the date of their arrival, an allied headquarters spokesman said today.

Discussions about the incoming troops have "been in the mill for at least 30 days," said the spokesman for Lt. Gen. Robert K. Sutherland, chief of staff to Gen. MacArthur. "We have received official word from Washington that they are coming, but have been waiting for Washington to announce the fact and details of the combined occupation of Japan."

Radar Was Ineffective

MacArthur's headquarters was notified that the Japanese home naval and air fleet headquarters had been abolished in compliance with MacArthur's directive. The overseas fleet headquarters was kept active, however, "to insure order within the forces under its command," Japanese authorities said.

Fresh disclosures of American investigators made it clear that, however trying the situation under an occupation, its would have been worse had Japan continued the war. Fifth army air force experts established that Japan's radar defense was so ineffective it could not be determined whether planes approaching the homeland were friend or foe, how many there were or how high.

The Japanese had no effective method of plotting positions of their own planes. They had no homing beacon and no air-sea rescue system for pilots forced down, said Col. E. Blair, Garland, Rochester, N. Y.

TRUMAN TAKES AFTERNOON OFF TO ATTEND PLAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—President Truman took the afternoon off today and went to a matinee. He saw American business men lampooned and heard some disparaging lines about the chamber of commerce, along with some earthy American four letter words.

And he saw the American newspaper portrayed as an institution that fired a reporter—after protests by advertisers—for writing an editorial favoring the shipment of arms for the Russians to use in repelling the Germans.

The play was "The Rugged Path," by Robert E. Sherwood, the New Deal playwright who used to compose the speeches of the late President Roosevelt. Spencer Tracy of the movies was the hero. He was very noble. So were most of the others concerned except any one who expressed a distrust of communism.

The President and Mrs. Truman had Gov. and Mrs. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington as guests in the Presidential box. The Trumans' daughter, Margaret, sat in an adjoining box.

Caprice of Typhoon That Struck Okinawa

B-29S RUSH FOOD TO OKINAWA'S ISOLATED YANKS

13 Sailors Are Among Typhoon Toll

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Super Fortresses swooped down on typhoon torn Okinawa today, rushing 284 tons of food to the island's 150,000 isolated American troops.

The 132 mile wind that left 13 American sailors dead or missing and 100 soldiers injured Tuesday disrupted all but air borne sources of supply.

Sunk, damaged or beached were 127 naval vessels, and others were unable to unload at port facilities that had became a litter of splintered wreckage.

The typhoon swept on northward, killed at least 69 Japanese on Honshu, flooding 8,000 homes and ripping out 80 bridges before thundering on out to sea.

Bright sunshine warmed Honshu today for the first time in a week, but it brought little cheer to Japanese farmers whose already inadequate rice crops were heavily damaged.

50 B-29s Carry Food

Fifty B-29s began emergency deliveries of food to Okinawa's American garrison today, dropping all other tasks—even their jobs of flying replacements to permit return of the Okinawa veterans to America.

Other Super Fortress formations will carry twice today's tonnage of food and other urgently needed supplies from Guam daily for the next three days, air forces headquarters reported, and additional deliveries were planned from Saipan next week.

Flyers were hastily assigned to the emergency job from the 314th and 315th bombardment wings of the 20th air force—veterans of bombing missions over Japan. Bomb racks this time carried 10,000 pound loads of rations.

Fear Heavier Toll

Officers feared reports of the Okinawa toll were incomplete, since communications were disrupted on the island. Hospital ships in the area were called in to evacuate 1,250 hospital patients who survived the storm.

[Five big four engine navy Skymaster transports from Guam slipped in and out during lulls and evacuated 157 war wounded even before the storm had ceased, naval air transport service headquarters at Oakland, Cal., reported.]

Brig. Gen. Lawrence Lawson, Okinawa base commander, said that all personnel not needed for garrison duty should be removed immediately because of food and shelter shortage.

Losses of installations of all types were heavy, he reported, and the litter of wreckage was reminiscent of the first days of the American invasion when big guns had leveled virtually every building.

There were four Japanese dead. They were prisoners of war killed by the collapse of a building.

OFFER REWARD FOR RETURN OF BODY OF U. S. LT. COL. DEWEY

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 12 (AP)—Annamese nationalists have offered a reward for the recovery of the body of Lt. Col. A. Peter Dewey of Washington, D. C., so that it may be turned over to allied authorities. Dewey was the son of former Chicago Congressman Charles S. Dewey.

The reward was announced in a leaflet which especially exempts Americans from further molestation and points out the Stars and Stripes as a simple identification. Dewey was shot to death in recent disorders in this troubled French colony. Return of his body was demanded by British Maj. Gen. Douglas Gracey Oct. 3 and the Annamese leaders agreed to comply.

They also agreed to release French hostages, but 120 allied citizens are reported still in Annamese hands.

Expansion of the French toehold from Saigon has been under way since 5 a. m. today under the continuing semblance of a truce. A large explosion which signaled the beginning of the movement provoked some fire. Isolated incidents continue, including the surrender of some Annamese.

Inosuke Furuno of the Domei agency announced its dissolution. The new agency will take over it's facilities.

(Koyodo will be owned by 60 member papers, of which one-third will elect the members of the board of trustees. The agency will specify dropping of the commercial services formerly carried by Domei and concentrating on news only, freedom from government control, and establishment of contacts with agencies abroad.

BELIEVE BRITISH SEEK TO AVERT JEWISH CLASH

Radio Rallies Jews

TEL AVIV, Palestine, Oct. 12 (AP)—Palestine authorities today hunted a defiant secret radio station attempting to rally Jewish "resistance" forces, while American troops on leave were hurried out of the tense Holy Land. The radio station, believed to be a mobile unit, shortly before midnight broadcast: "Listen to the voice of Israel! This is not a terrorist station. This is the station of Hebrew resistance."

BY ALEX SMALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Oct. 11 [Delayed]—It is generally believed here that the Palestine government has received orders from London to do its utmost to avoid clashes between the British army and the Palestine police on the one hand and Jewish rioters on the other.

That is the only way to explain conduct of the police in clashes so far. Semi-official spokesmen refuse to commit themselves. Firearms will be used if absolutely necessary, I learned from reliable sources, but only in self defense. The police will not fire either to attain objects or to save face.

For the moment the Arabs are sitting quietly on the side lines.

"All Depends on London"

From Haifa it is reported that the local Jewish population is jubilant at the success in freeing 208 illegal immigrants from a detention camp at Athlith, but serious opinion in Jerusalem considers such a celebration premature.

"It all depends on London" is a common saying, and at this moment the essence of the Palestine situation. What happens in this country may stir local pulses and rouse huzzahs from Zionists thruout the world, but in the not far distant future all that will count will be the decisions at Whitehall—probably taken in concert with Washington.

Let no one make the mistake that the British at this moment do not have force enough in Palestine to suppress any rebellion. Probably the Palestine police, 6,000 strong, alone would be sufficient, but there also is available a military force which it is safe to estimate at more than 60,000. This includes the 3d air borne division which recently arrived. Another infantry division is en route.

Seek Complete Solution

Mere maintenance of law and order, however, is not the British object. On account of the immense influence of Zionists thruout the world and much more because of the delicate situation in all the middle east, the British are determined to iron out this wrinkle completely.

Police and military officials wonder just how far Zionist armed force will go and if the country is in for a period of guerrilla warfare somewhat like 1929 and 1936. Scarcely an official is not distressed by the killing of a British constable near Athlith, but all are gratified that there was no open clash with the Jews.

And no one is at all amused at the latest exploit reported in Jerusalem—armed men disguised as British troops breaking into a military depot at Rehoboth, not far from Tel Aviv. These raiders presumably belonged to a terrorist organization calling itself the "national army" or Irgun tsvai leumi. Their booty consisted of 300 rifles, latest model .50 caliber machine guns, and a great quantity of British uniforms. The last item is particularly disquieting as indicating future ruses and strategems on the part of the Irgun.

Except in some places behind closed doors, Jerusalem is calm, almost indifferent. Till the present there has not been a single sign of hostility between the Jews and Arabs locally. One feature of the situation is the alarming and sensational reports which come into Palestine from outside regarding developments here.

TRUMAN ASKS CABINET AID IN RECONVERSION

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—President Truman has called upon his cabinet and other federal officials for "vigorous and united action" looking to early adoption of his reconversion program.

The White House today made public letters in which the President assigned responsibility to each of the officials for promoting the proposed legislative program—ranging from domestic control of atomic energy to "full employment" measures.

The letter, dated Oct. 4, called for immediate reports on the status of the many proposals embraced in his last message to congress.

Labor Secretary Schwellenbach was given primary responsibility to press for fair labor standards and unemployment compensation legislation. Watson B. Miller, federal security administrator, was told to push the national health program.

Two Jap Beheaders Identified

'I Was Magnificent'

TOKYO, Oct. 13 [Saturday (AP)—A Japanese naval interpreter, who boasted in his diary he "magnificently" beheaded an allied prisoner of war, is in an Australian prison camp awaiting trial, it was disclosed today. He is Kenneth Yunone, captured at Hollandia. His diary contained this passage:

"I myself with my own Japanese sword beheaded an enemy soldier prisoner. This was a new experience for me. But I screwed myself to it.

"I really believe I was magnificent. Amongst the Japanese onlookers there were many who declared their admiration for my skill in making such an excellent stroke."

six repatriated missionaries. They accused him of participating in the killing of four American aviators in another case also. He formerly studied at St. John's college, Winnipeg, Canada.

TOKYO, Oct. 12 (AP)—Allied authorities today identified publicly the sword-wielding Japanese soldier in the widely circulated photograph of the beheading of a captured Australian aviator on New Guinea. A search for the sword wielder is under way.

The identification, like many others in pending atrocity cases, was made possible thru use of an organization which has been one of the most closely-kept secrets of the Pacific war. Hundreds of Nisei soldiers scrutinized thousands of captured Japanese documents, working often under fire.

Some of the documents they found disclosed the identity of the executioner as a man named Yoshino, allied authorities announced. A moon-faced, laughing Japanese in the background of the picture was identified as a soldier named Yamashita.

SWEDEN FEARS REDS WILL SEEK BASES IN NORTH

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 12—Reported United States plans to keep its Iceland base are causing anxiety in Swedish political circles in view of Iceland's position on trade lanes to Murmansk and Archangel, Russia. It is feared that Moscow may counter by demanding not only Kirkenes and other Norwegian territory but also increased control of the Baltic by keeping Danish Bornholm and asking Sweden to lease a base on Goetland Island.

An editorial in the Stockholm Social Democratic newspaper Aftontidningen, asks why the Americans are not leaving Iceland despite their promise to evacuate at the end of the war. "The answer appears easy," the editorial says, "furnishing perhaps also the answer to why the Russians find it so difficult to leave Bornholm despite the fact there are no Germans there.

"The struggle for bases between great powers is now so obvious they no longer take the trouble to hide it. It is difficult to believe, for instance, that Americans are sending 600 airplanes to Copenhagen just to amuse the Danes. Russians therefore view even Nordic coöperation with deep mistrust."

PLANE SEEKS MISSING WORKER

Gary police yesterday sought Anton Magda, 52, of 318 E. 16th av., Gary, a steel worker, whose cap, shoes, and glasses were found in a swamp area north of 15th av. in the suburb, where Magda went Wednesday to hunt mushrooms. A plane search over the area was unavailing.

LEADERS BACK SUPERHIGHWAY EAST OF RIVER

Rally Behind County Plan to Aid Slum Clearance

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Leaders in civic, religious, parent-teacher and other organizations representing 200,000 or more north side voters, home owners and tax payers, will meet next month, it was announced yesterday, to determine action concerning a slum area which they characterize "a creeping blight threatening the whole splendid district along the lake from the loop to Diversey parkway and bounded on the west by the river."

They contend the section in question is probably the worst in the city. It is bounded roughly by Chicago and North avs., Clark st., and the river. In it dwell 33,700 whites, 9,000 of them foreign born, and 5,500 Negroes. So ramshackle are the dwellings that rents are down to an average $11 to $19 a month.

Super-highway Help Sought

One of the projects to which the citizens look for help in getting rid of the blighted area is the new Northwest highway, originally projected to be built east of the river as far north as Belmont av., thus running directly thru the slum area. This great automobile speedway, elevated or depressed, is to be constructed at a cost of some 58 million dollars with the city, county and state sharing the expense.

It is to extend diagonally across the city from the Douglas airport, southwest of Park Ridge, to a section just west of the near north side and loop and then to connect with the Congress st., improvement.

The general plan is to provide an automobile artery for traffic from the far northwest side and suburbs to the fast developing near north side as well as the loop. Congress st. is to provide a similar highway from the southwest and west.

County and City Plans Differ

Next month's meeting is being called by Randolph Bohrer, vice president of the North Central association and chairman of its civic committee. Bohrer says the meeting will be asked to set up committees to consider whether the Northwest super-highway shall be built partly east of the river or whether it is to run west of the stream to a spot near Union av. and Ontario st.

As projected by county engineers, the highway would take the east route, cutting thru the heart of the north side's "creeping blight" slum, with its rock bottom land values. If it is laid as projected by city engineers, it would follow closely along Milwaukee av. and miss the slum, but higher priced property would have to be acquired.

Benefits to the city as a whole from the Northwest super-highway, and from the proposed east or west of the river routes, were discussed yesterday at a meeting of north side civic and business leaders.

Bohrer Advocates East Route

Those attending were Bohrer, Peter L. Bukowski, an official of the Cosmopolitan National bank; Maj. Robert H. Reid of R. H. Reid & Co.; Hampden Winston, president of the North Central association; Murray Wolback, realtor, and others.

Bohrer said he believes he can demonstrate that the east route is by far the most advantageous "from every standpoint."

"The cost to the city, county, and state certainly will be much lower if the highway is built for a mile or more thru one of the city's most blighted slums where property values already are destroyed and the right of way may be acquired at bottom prices," Bohrer said.

"Built east of the river, the highway will contribute to slum clearance, will tend to lift property values now ebbing to nothing, and in no way will interfere with outlying business for it does not cut thru business districts.

Danger to Business Stressed

"Put it on the west side of the river, paralleling Milwaukee av., and it not only will destroy business for that splendid business street, but will destroy property values all along the way. It is the history of super-highways that they become automobile speedways, benefiting only the far outlying districts and the terminals, which in this case are the loop and near north side."

Turning to the east of the river slum Bohrer gave statistics from United States housing reports, based on the 1940 census, to demonstrate the nature of the highway property which would have to be acquired there.

Here are figures he produced showing conditions in some of the blocks the highway would cross and some adjacent thereto:

No. of dwelling units.	Built prior to 1899.	Needing repairs.	Without bathtubs.	Average monthly rent.
164	82	4	100	$14.18
79	75	31	62	11.74
218	217	12	148	14.70
99	99	5	59	18.39
80	80	36	49	14.40
119	104	77	88	13.74
185	46	40	86	18.17

Other Conferees in Agreement

The boundaries of the first block listed, Bohrer said, are Sedgwick, Orleans, Oak and Locust sts.; the second, Sedgwick, Orleans, Hobbie, and Oak; third, Hudson, Sedgwick, Oak, and Locust; fourth, Franklin, Hill, Wells, and Hobbie; fifth, Orleans, Hobbie, Franklin and Oak; sixth, Mohawk, Elm, Cleveland, and Hobbie, and seventh, Larrabee, Blackhawk, Mohawk and Clybourn.

"All these," Bohrer concluded, "lie almost in the center of the slum and the proposed highway route east of the river. The first six blocks are peopled almost entirely by Negroes; the seventh lies nearer North av., and is peopled by whites. Figures for rents would be even lower were it not they often are based on owner occupancy."

Bukowski, the banker, Maj. Reid, Winston, and Wolback agreed. "Your outline is absolutely sound," Bukowski told Bohrer.

DE GAULLE SAYS HE CAN'T HELP UNFIT PRISONERS

Asserts French Lack Means; Share Food

BY ROBERT SAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 12—"War prisoners should be treated humanely in accordance with international conventions," Gen. de Gaulle today told a meeting of the French and foreign press in Paris. He said the whole question of German prisoners of war in France is being discussed by French and American authorities and expressed the hope that a practical working agreement will be reached soon.

Ignoring a report by the International Red Cross that German prisoners of war were not being housed and fed properly by the French, De Gaulle said the truth of the matter was that many German prisoners were in a deplorable condition when turned over to the French government by American authorities. France lacks the means either to care for unfit prisoners or to send them back to Germany, De Gaulle added, tho it agrees the unfit should be sent home.

Share France's Food

De Gaulle asserted, however, that employed prisoners receive the same rations as French workers and that prisoners employed in mines or at other heavy work receive extra rations the same as French manual laborers. The general admitted that it was partly his fault and that of his government that the public had not been properly informed of the situation.

Asked how long German prisoners of war will be kept working in France, De Gaulle said their status as prisoners would end automatically the day that a state of war between France and Germany officially ceased to exist. He added, however, that the Germans must rebuild what they destroyed in France and that prisoners of war probably will be succeeded by German workers under contract.

Doesn't Want New Reich

De Gaulle said France will continue to oppose the constitution of a central administration in Germany, its policy being to establish autonomous, local administrations in the various territories under French authorities.

"We do not want to see another reich," he said.

U. S. Charges 2 Officials of Firm Broke WPB Rules

A criminal information charging J. S. Bahcall, president of the Western Supply and Furnace company, 1016 St. Charles rd., Maywood, and Louis S. Bahcall, secretary-treasurer of the firm, with violating war production board regulations, was filed yesterday in federal District court. Asst. U. S. Atty. Raymond L. McClory said that during 1943 and 1944 the men ordered constructed on the company premises a two story brick building costing $10,000 without the necessary priorities. Regulations restricted building costs to $2,000, McClory said.

FRENCH STARVE WAR PRISONERS, REPORTER FINDS

BY DAVID DARRAH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 12—Investigation of the German prisoner of war camp at Cormeilles-en-Parisis, a fortress near Paris, today gave complete substantiation to the International Red Cross' charges that French authorities are starving prisoners, providing poor housing, and violating other Geneva convention rules for the treatment of war prisoners.

The Cormeilles fortress houses 1,500 German prisoners of whom 400 are able to work. These men are among 700,000 prisoners transferred by the American army to the French for reconstruction work—a practice stopped yesterday under Gen. Eisenhower's orders pending investigation of the Red Cross' charges.

Prisoners observed in the Cormeilles courtyard were extremely dirty. They were dressed in coats or capes torn and dirty and too big or too small. All appeared emaciated and had the yellow look of undernourishment. Great numbers had no shoes and were barefoot or wearing wooden sandals made by themselves. They walked slowly and painfully like old men.

Only 100 in Hospital

Eleven hundred of the 1,500 were considered too feeble to work. Nearly all had gastroenteritis. Only 100 of the sick were hospitalized, there being no accommodations for more. The camp commander said 10 men die every month. Seven hundred were described as being so ill they will be permanently useless and are being repatriated.

The Cormeilles prisoners are lined up at 8 a. m. daily to receive an imitation coffee, made of burned grain, and a piece of bread. At noon and at 6 p. m. they get a quart of vegetable soup and about half a pound of bread. On Sunday they receive 50 grams [slightly less than two ounces] of meat. Except for an occasional Red Cross food package, distributed collectively, they get no other rations. They get no individual Red Cross packages.

Some of the prisoners said they did not always get the ersatz coffee in the morning and that they received a pint of soup rather than a quart. The camp commander, however, denied this, and displayed a menu which called for 300 grams [approximately 11 ounces] of bread daily, 50 grams of meat weekly, 70 grams [slightly less than 3 ounces] of fat weekly, and 70 grams of sugar weekly.

Less than 1,000 Calories a Day

Camp authorities admitted that this provided less than 1,000 calories a day. They insisted, however, they could do no better on the 19 francs [38 cents] a day allowed by the budget for each prisoner. They said the International Red Cross had promised packages but none was received regularly.

Prisoners sleep on concrete floors in crowded rooms. There are no mattresses and only a few straw mats. Many prisoners have no blankets. Often three prisoners share one blanket. After 8 p. m. they are in darkness. They abound with vermin and spend much of their time delousing each other.

Some of the prisoners said they had been beaten by camp guards and put in jail for trifling or no offenses. Camp authorities denied this but admitted that prisoners who showed signs of bad treatment had been received from other camps.

Better Off on Farms

During the summer, many prisoners worked on farms where they fared better. But the farmers now have less work and wish to be rid of their prisoner labor. Camp authorities, with conditions already bad, are refusing to take the war prisoners back.

The newspaper Figaro recently printed articles exposing the war prisoner camps but no reaction came from authorities here until the Red Cross protested.

'HEY, MOM!' VETS SHOUT AS THEY SPOT PARENTS

Chicagoan Is Among Ship Arrivals

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 12 [Special]—A shipboard reunion of 12 women and sons, husbands, or sweethearts who had been prisoners of war in Japan was staged by the army here today.

Among the women was Mrs. George Engel, of 1139 S. Whipple st., Chicago, who greeted a son, Master Sgt. Fred S. Engel, 23, a radio operator on a B-24 which was shot down in the South Pacific in January, 1943.

The army made the reunion possible by flying the 23 women here from San Francisco, where it had previously mistakenly informed the women the transport, the Gosper, was to dock.

Complete Surprise to Vets

The army brought the women to Pier 91 in a bus just as the transport was being made fast.

Arrival of the women was a surprise to the men, who shouted, "Hey, Mom," from the deck.

The women were hustled aboard the Gosper and Mrs. Engel, plump and motherly, met her son on the deck. She had last seen him on Labor day, 1942.

"Sit down, Mom," the sergeant said, as tears streamed down the cheeks of both.

Family Chipped In for Fare

Mrs. Engel told her son that the family in Chicago is well. The family consists of the sergeant's father, George; a brother, George Jr., and a sister, Mary, 23. Mrs. Engel had been able to make the trip because a family collection had raised $98.27 for her fare.

She told him that for a year after he had been shot down, the family had word only that he was missing. In January, 1944, a card from the International Red Cross had been received stating he was a Japanese prisoner and a few weeks later one card had been received directly from him.

Engel said he is anxious to see "my girl." She is Alexia Balizet, a WAVE on duty as a pharmacist's mate in a navy hospital at Oceanside, Cal.

STAY PREPARED FOR NEXT WAR, PATTON WARNS

"the ban on Nazis will be permanent."

"If any one believes we're going to leave anything for Germany to prosecute another war, he's crazy, that's all," Eisenhower asserted.

The American commander expressed irritation with press criticism, "mostly by implication," of United States policies and administration in occupied Germany. He said the criticism to which he referred was mostly inferences that "we are not going to carry out the Potsdam agreement in detail. We got our orders from Potsdam, and they are right down my alley. I say let Germany find out what it means to start a war.

Directed to Rout Nazism

"I would not stay here five minutes if I thought that for expediency we should modify the Potsdam agreement by one iota.

"We were directed to root up nazism in any shape or form we find it. I hope that is not too great a task for us."

Eisenhower said he hoped the press would strive to show accomplishments, as well as shortcomings, of the military government administration.

"Any man in my organization who I learn is not executing our policies with his heart as well as his hand," he said, "will be placed in a job where he won't need his heart."

He predicted some unrest and "shrunken stomach" in Germany this winter, but said he believed "we will get thru it without any general uprising."

Must Nourish Democracy

Referring presumably to the criticism that was directed against Gen. Patton's administration of the military government in Bavaria, Eisenhower asserted:

"I no more believe in soldiers running a government one moment longer than absolutely necessary than I believe in hinduism."

He asked correspondents to remember that "there are thousands and thousands of men here working to make this thing go," and nodded agreement when his deputy, Lt. Gen. Walter B. Smith, remarked:

"Evil forces were predominant in Germany for too long a time. Democracy is a tender plant and it is up to us to nourish it here."

[In Berlin Eisenhower's deputy, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, said Germany would have to be occupied "for at least a generation if we stay to do the job we have set out to do."]

Nazis Can't Vote

Eisenhower also announced that Nazis would not be allowed to vote in forthcoming elections, asserting that "a Nazi is a Nazi until he proves himself otherwise and the burden of proof will fall upon the individual."

At the same time, Maj. Gen. C. L. Adcock, head of the G-5 [military government] section of the United States forces in the European theater, explained plans to withdraw most military government personnel from the lower levels of German administration during the next few months.

The ultimate objective, Adcock said, is to give the Germans administrative control up to the "land" [state] level, with top administrative heads responsible to the allied military authorities. He expressed hope that this could be achieved by June.

Three "lands" have been established in the American zone. They are Hesse-Nassau, with headquarters at Wiesbaden; Baden-Wurtemberg, with headquarters at Stuttgart, and Bavaria, with headquarters at Munich.

300 PRISONERS TELL HOW JAPS TRIED TO BURN THEIR CAMP

SHANGHAI, China, Oct 12 (AP)—Three hundred allied "political prisoners" held by the Japanese narrowly escaped mass cremation, they reported today, when their drunken guards poured kerosene around the prison camp near Peiping on hearing of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima.

The internees, including some of the most influental business men of Shanghai, were returned here yesterday aboard a United States army transport. They told of a tense scene as the kerosene was poured about their camp and how they escaped a fiery death only because one Formosan guard captain succeeded in restoring order before the torches were applied.

Many of the prisoners were Americans. They first were interned at Saiphong camp, in Shanghai, then were moved to Fungtien camp near Peiping three months ago.

TRUSCOTT TO BE STERN

BAD TOELZ, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, new commander of the American 3d army, said today he will pursue a stern policy of denazification in his control zone, regardless of its effect on German economy.

He made the announcement at his first press conference since he succeeded Gen. Patton, who was removed from the command after criticism that denazification was proceeding too slowly.

"I have left too many white crosses across North Africa, Italy, and France not to be in complete sympathy with any policy designed to eradicate, root and branch, the evil force of nazism," said Truscott. "It is essential that every occupation soldier keep in mind what we have fought for," he added, saying he deemed their "reeducation necessary."

REPORTS U.S. WILL ASK ACCESS TO DARDANELLES

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12—The United States will propose to Turkey that the Montreux convention be modified to permit warships to pass freely thru the Dardanelles in accordance with the allied nations charter, it was learned today.

Turkey, it is understood, has accepted in principle the revision of the Montreux convention, which gives her the right to limit the passage of warships thru the Dardanelles.

The Turks have ratified the charter, thus obligating themselves to negotiate a new agreement granting "rights of passage" to forces of the allied nations.

PEARL HARBOR QUIZ MONTH OLD; NOTHING BARED

Probe Record Reveals Suppressions

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12—One month after congress voted an investigation to determine the responsibility for the naval disaster at Pearl Harbor, not one single fact about the truth of the catastrophe has come from the joint congressional committee.

The only contribution the committee has made is to announce that its five senate and five house members will visit the scene of the greatest naval defeat in history.

The only news that has come out about Pearl Harbor consists of stories of the various attempts to suppress the facts.

Suppression Continues

The suppression of the facts, which began under the late President Roosevelt, has been continued under his successor, President Truman, altho there have been many promises to get at the truth.

Roosevelt, it has been revealed, edited the report of the investigation commission he named, which was headed by Supreme Court Justice Roberts. Roosevelt denied courts martial to Rear Adm. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Short, commanders at Pearl Harbor. Roosevelt suppressed the army and navy investigations of the disaster, which traced blame to higher levels in the state, war, and navy departments, but did not mention the White House.

52 Pages Missing

President Truman made public these reports, which singled out six top figures in the Roosevelt regime for varying degrees of blame. These are Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff; Adm. Stark, former chief of naval operations; former State Secretary Hull, and Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, then chief of the war plans division, who since served with distinction in France; and Kimmel and Short.

Not until after the reports were released was it learned that 52 pages of the army report, which were the key to fixing the responsibility for the tale of unpreparedness, had been suppressed.

President Truman approved both the editing by Roosevelt of the Roberts report and the suppression of 52 missing pages of the army report.

Report Code Broken

On Aug. 30, after Japan had surrendered, he was asked about the missing 52 pages and said that he didn't know that they would ever be made public.

This was regarded as a reference to the fact that the Japanese diplomatic and military codes had been broken or information about the codes had been obtained from other sources.

The Australian minister of war reported the Jap code had been broken. Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.], dean of the house and chairman of the rules committee, said he was honor bound not to reveal information beyond the fact that the Jap codes had been broken.

Secrecy Bill Introduced

The cracking of the Jap code has been a focal point of the effort to suppress the facts of Pearl Harbor. Early this year a bill was introduced in congress providing a heavy penalty for any one revealing "top secrets." Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] charged the top secret was Pearl Harbor and blocked passage of the measure until an amendment was attached to it. The measure is still in the house, where Republicans have blocked its passage.

The silence on Capitol hill on Pearl Harbor has become an impenetrable fog in the war and navy departments. Ranking officers avoid any discussion of the topic. Lower ranking officers do the same, stating frankly they fear they might jeopardize their careers. They have no wish to run counter to the administration's hush hush policy.

The senate voted the investigation Sept. 6. The house voted the investigation four days later. Sen. Barkley was named chairman of the committee. His selection, which had been expected to go to Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, was considered a step to protect the memory of Roosevelt.

Walsh Passed Over

Walsh had the 52 missing pages in his possession at the time the selection was made. He was prepared to release these pages. Altho he was the logical man to head the investigation he was passed over, because he was considered anti-Roosevelt.

On Sept. 15, in an exclusive dispatch, THE TRIBUNE revealed that Gov. Dewey of New York had prepared a speech for delivery in the 1944 Presidential campaign telling the whole truth about Pearl Harbor, but was moved to withdraw the speech by two high ranking officers of the army and navy on the ground he would be denounced for giving aid and comfort to the enemy.

Six days later the same story in a national picture magazine created a sensation. Gen. Marshall was named as having induced Republican Presidential Nominee Dewey to cancel the speech.

On Sept. 25, William D. Mitchell, Democratic attorney general in the Hoover administration, was selected as counsel for the committee.

Bengal Has Enough Food for This Year, Says Casey

LONDON, Oct. 12—With a little help the teeming province of Bengal in India should be able to feed itself this year despite poor harvest prospects, Richard R. NO NEW TRIAL FOR LAVAL, SAYS GEN. DE GAULLE

Attorneys Confer with General

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—Attorneys for Pierre Laval said Gen. De Gaulle listened for 10 minutes without comment tonight to their plea that he order a new trial for the condemned former Vichy premier.

De Gaulle, who told newspaper men earlier he would "certainly not" issue an order for a new trial, also met with the head of the board of computations, who automatically submits high court death sentences to De Gaulle for clemency.

The attorneys sought the new trial on the basis of new evidence received by them which they said would "explode" the treason case against Laval. The Paris newspaper Liberation said it had learned that Laval's execution was set for Wednesday.

Court Gets Threatening Letters

High court Justice Paul Mongibeaux, who passed the death sentence on Tuesday, said he had expected the defense attorneys to interview De Gaulle, but that he did not consider the new evidence claimed by the defense sufficient to warrant reopening the case.

He reported he was receiving "heaps of letters" daily threatening him and his family because of the Laval conviction.

Laval's attorneys asserted they had uncovered proof that Laval had plotted to hand over his government to De Gaulle in 1944, and that he aided in getting information to the allied general staffs.

As to the first contention, Mongibeaux dismissed it with this comment: "In August, 1944, the Germans were losers, and that only shows how easily Laval switched sides."

Say New Evidence Pours In

As to the second contention, Mongibeaux said:

"In France it has always been seen that politicians on ceratin occasions will give help to political adversaries. In the case of a man like Laval you cannot tell what his real reasons were, whether he did not get some advantage in return, altho I am not saying he received money."

Laval's attorneys asserted their new evidence was contained in depositions and documents "pouring in from all over the world" since Laval's sentence was pronounced.

NEW SUBMARINE, NAZI WAR SECRET, COMING TO U. S. FOR STUDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Oct. 12—A specialist, Lt. Col. Patrick F. Dolan, has loaded fast German speed boats and a new U-boat on ships to be sent to the United States for study of the characteristics that give them their seemingly effortless speeds.

The submarine, a German war secret, can do 21 knots under water and can remain submerged for a month. It uses for fuel hydrogen peroxide, which releases oxygen for crew and engines. It carried a crew of eight. The 206 ton craft was raised from a harbor bottom with a crane.

BUDAPEST UNDER TERROR REIGN; 40 SLAIN WEEKLY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 11 [Delayed]—An average of 40 Hungarian civilians are killed weekly at night in Budapest and an average of one Budapest policeman is slain nightly, according to a statement by the police department today. The local police are permitted to carry rifles or pistols, but are prohibited from using arms against allied soldiers.

"One reason so many policemen are killed is that certain occupying troops want to get their pistols," said an official.

A score of Russian deserters are killed weekly as the Red army military police try to capture them. It is estimated 60,000 Russian deserters are hiding in Budapest, many living in the homes of civilians whom they terrorize into concealing them. An official said a policeman found the corpse of a Russian on a sidewalk two weeks ago, and reported it to the nearest Red army military post. The Hungarian policeman was arrested and disappeared.

QUISLING MAKES PERSONAL PLEA TO NORSE COURT

LONDON, Oct. 12 [Reuters]—Vidkun Quisling today told the Norwegian supreme court, which is hearing his appeal against the death sentence, that he considered it extraordinary that a man like he should be sentenced to death for treason, the Oslo radio reported this afternoon.

"Both I and my government always resisted the German demands," the former puppet premier said. "The charge against me throws a misleading and false light on the whole of my struggle for Norway. No one felt the weight of the German occupation more than I and the members of the nasjonal samling [Quisling's party]."

Quisling also said that in his conversations with German leaders before the invasion of Norway he never gave them any information which could not be found in any reference book. The supreme court will act on Quisling's appeal tomorrow.

NAZI GENERAL'S LIFE IN HANDS OF U. S. OFFICER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, Italy, Oct. 12—Gen. Anton Dostler of the German army was taken late today to a prisoner of war camp at Aversa, near Naples, after being sentenced to be shot by a firing squad.

He had been convicted of having ordered the execution of 15 United States soldiers—two lieutenants and 13 enlisted men—who were captured and shot by the nazis after landing from rubber boats to blow up a railway tunnel hundreds of miles behind the Axis front. The men were shot at Punta Bianca on March 26, 1944.

The verdict and the sentence were announced this morning in the Rome palace of justice by an American military commission. It had deliberated during the night after the close of the four day trial yesterday.

Up to McNarney

The case against Dostler will now go to Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, supreme allied commander in the Mediterranean theater, for final review. McNarney, who could commute the sentence or reverse the finding, is expected to announce his ruling within two weeks.

If he confirms the death sentence, it is believed Dostler will be executed at Aversa a few days after the ruling is issued.

Dostler, who commanded the German 75th corps in north Italy, was the first enemy high ranking officer to be tried for violating the laws of war, and representatives of the commission that will conduct the war crime hearings at Nuernberg, Germany, were present.

Dostler Hears His Doom

The announcement of the verdict was quietly dramatic. The courtroom was packed as Dostler, short and stout, entered with his American attorney, Col. Claudius Wolfe, and the prosecutor, Maj. Frederick Roche, came in another door.

Maj. Gen. Lawrence C. Jaynes, president of the trial commission, called Dostler before him.

"It is my duty to inform you," Jaynes told him, "that the commission, in closed session and by secret ballot, at least two-thirds of the members concurring, finds you guilty."

"Again in closed session and by secret ballot, at least two-thirds concurring, the commission sentences you to be shot to death by musketry."

Dostler stared ahead. There was no sign of emotion in him except a slight tightening of his jaw and a clenching of his fists. He then stepped away and bowed stiffly. He thanked his prosecutors in English. Military policemen took him out to a sedan. He walked swiftly, head high.

TELLS HADAMAR DEATHS

WIESBADEN, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Heinrich Ruoff, an attendant at the Hadamar insane asylum, told an American military court today how he and an assistant had killed some of the 400 Poles and Russians put to death at the camp, but insisted "I never did anything wrong." Six men and a woman formerly employed at the nazi insane asylum are on trial.

Ruoff said the killings were done with poisons and injections. Most of the Russians and Poles who went to death, he testified, were suffering from undernourishment and some had tuberculosis of the bone.

Dr. Adolf Wahlmann, the only physician at the asylum, admitted he knew what was being done at the camp, but charged Alfons Klein, the supervisor, with responsibility.

"Nasty weather never stops Edwin from exercising the dog."

BELSEN CHARGE DENIED

LUENEBERG, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Elizabeth Volkenrath, who was head SS [elite guard] woman at the Belsen, Germany, and Oswiecim [Auschwitz], Poland, concentration camps, retorted "it's a lie" when accused today of selecting victims for the gas chamber. Her only admission was that she slapped women prisoners for infractions of discipline.

The prosecutor, Col. T. M. Backhouse, said Russia had made available a documentary film of the Oswiecim camp, and asserted he would ask the court for permission to show it on Monday. The film was said to show people inside the compound and plans of the gas room and crematorium.

Juana Borman, accused by witnesses of killing a woman by setting her dog on her, denied the charges.

NAZIS' MOVIES TO BE SHOWN AT CRIMES TRIAL

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 12 (AP)—Thousands of feet of motion picture film taken by Germans at the height of nazi power will be introduced as prosecution evidence at the war crimes trial of 24 archnazis.

Investigators said today the film contained pictorial records of German military and political policy in the reich and occupied countries. It will be exhibited in the courtroom. Some of it has sound track.

Rules of procedure for the trial, at which Hermann Goering and other nazi leaders will be defendants, are being worked out by the four-power tribunal in Berlin.

4 SHIPS CARRY JAP WOMEN AND CHILDREN HOME

First Internees Are Sent from Manila

BY ROBERT CROMIE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 13—Five hundred Japanese women and children will leave here today aboard four small Japanese war vessels, en route to their home land. It is expected they will be the first to reach Japan from reconquered areas.

The trip will take six days from Manila to the Japanese port of Kure. Undoubtedly it will be extremely uncomfortable, since 50 women and youngsters will be crowded into holds about 25 by 20 feet, where they must sleep on straw mats when the weather prevents their being on deck.

The first group of 350 reached the docks last night. They were loaded on board ship at once, as throngs of curious Filipinos and GIs watched. Some of the older women were stiff from a five hour stay in boxcars. Some of the younger kids were practically walking in their sleep. Those who spoke English said they had been well treated while held by the Americans. All seemed in good health.

Filipinos Throw Stones

They said the only incident of the trip from the camp, 25 miles away, was when a few stones were thrown by Filipinos, none of which hit any one. The American authorities normally move trains loaded with Japanese prisoners at night to prevent such happenings. Night or day, however, all trains are accompanied by armed guards.

The four Japanese coastal defense vessels being used for the trip are the first ships flying the Japanese flag to enter Manila harbor since hostilities ceased. According to a Domei newsman aboard one which docked yesterday, the captain of his ship was uneasy at the prospect, and was much surprised to be greeted politely when a pilot boarded the ship.

Each ship is of approximately 900 tons, and is supplied with food and medical equipment for use on the homeward trip. One Japanese doctor and nurse will be aboard each, also returning prisoners. The little convoy also carried 250 bags of rice totalling 25,000 pounds—a gift from Hirohito to prisoners still held here.

125,000 Prisoners Held

Japanese prisoners still held thruout the Philippines number more than 125,000, including both military and internees, of whom perhaps 600 will be tried as war criminals.

Among about 1,600 women and children in custody, many young women and most of the children were born in the Philippines. Some are wives of soldiers or business men, and many have no idea where their men now are. All indicated they are anxious to see Japan.

The loading yesterday was done under supervision of the United States army transportation corps.

TRIBUNE WORKER TELLS OF WRECK THAT KILLED 338

Staff Sgt. Al Bayless

The collision of the liner Queen Mary with the British cruiser, Curacoa, in which the cruiser was split in two and sunk, felt like a "very light jolt" aboard the Queen Mary, Staff Sgt. Al Bayless, 25, a member of the Tribune auditing department, said yesterday.

Bayless, discharged Oct. 9 as a member of the 12th air force after 46 months in the army, was en route to England in October, 1942, when the Queen Mary struck the smaller ship off Donegal, Eire. The accident cost the lives of 338 men.

The sergeant was aboard the second convoy to Africa and was based, as a radio repairman, at Oran and Sardinia before his establishment at Pisa in September, 1944. He is visiting his brother, John Bayless, 6320 Minerva av., also an employe of THE TRIBUNE.

KEEP LITTLE FELLOWS ON TAX ROLLS: GEORGE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—Sen. George [D., Ga.] chairman of the senate finance committee, today proposed reducing rather than wiping out income taxes for 12 million persons with low incomes.

George announced that his committee would open three days of hearings Monday on the tax bill, which was passed yesterday by the house.

The house bill calls for a reduction of 10 per cent or better in all individual income taxes in addition to eliminating them altogether for the 12 million "little fellows." It is estimated this cut would reduce taxes $2,527,000,000. The bill also cuts corporation taxes $1,888,000,000 in 1946. With these two cuts and a reduction July 1 in excise taxes. The house bill would reduce taxes a total of $5,350,000,000 in 1946.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—President Truman today bestowed the congressional medal of honor on 15 army heroes and predicted they'll be the type of citizen who will help carry the nation to world leadership.

The decorations were presented to the three officers and enlisted men in a mass ceremony at the White House.

Among the 15 were Corp. Melvin Biddle, 21, Anderson, Ind., who killed 17 Germans with 19 shots and knocked out three machine gun nests in the battle for the bulge, and 2d Lt. John C. Sjogren, 29, Rockford, Mich., who killed 43 Japanese and destroyed nine pillboxes last May 23 in fighting near Negros in the Philippines.

VIOLENCE REIGNS AS JAPS GIVE UP MANCHURIA RULE

Reds Ship Machinery to Ukraine

PEIPING, China, Oct. 6 [Delayed] (AP)—Manchuria, as it is being cleared of its Japanese overlords by Russian-Chinese occupation forces, is in a state of upheaval, travelers from there reported today.

The description of the violent transition period as the puppet state of Manchukuo shed 15 years of Japanese domination was supplied by a group of 14, including French Consul General Rennere at Mukden and his wife and daughter.

They said the group had been invited by soviet officials to leave Mukden within 36 hours, because their passports lacked soviet visas.

Japs Disarmed

The plane carrying the group landed last night at the unlighted west air field here, using lights of two army jeeps for landing guides.

The Japanese troops of the Kwangtung army have been largely disarmed by the Chinese, but looting, shooting, and rape were common during the past month, despite efforts of the Russian commander of Mukden to maintain order, some of the travelers asserted.

They reported that Japanese work parties had been put to work in the great Fushun coal fields, the largest open cut mines in China, and that other work parties were dismantling factories and heavy industries for removal to Russia. The French consul said heavy crates of Japanese-built machine tools, lathes, and engines were marked for the Russian Ukraine, via the Transsiberian railway.

Desert by Hundreds

Rennere said the Japanese arms were received by the Chinese communist 8th route army, which gained 1,500,000 new recruits in a recruiting duel between Generals Tchung Keu Ling and Li Lun Tchang, both of whom claimed to represent the Yenan government. Ling was commander of the 8th route army which moved into Mukden. Tchang was commander in Jehol and Chahar provinces.

When the 8th route army was ordered to disband after the agreement between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Gen. Mao Tze-Tung, chief of the Yenan Communists, the new recruits deserted by the hundreds to the country, taking their newly acquired arms and clothing with them, and immediately increasing the banditry problem in the area, Rennere said.

Further complicating the transition period, the French official said, was a profusion of administrative officials who appeared before the Russians finally took over.

USE WAR TRIALS TO RUSSIANIZE FINLAND, CHARGE

BY HAL FOUST
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 12—The Finns, the majority of whom are opposed to communism, charge that the Reds are using the war crimes investigations as an instrument for Russification of a country promised its independence under the terms of its armistice with the soviets and Great Britain. Men are being arrested and homes and offices searched without warrants by the national police, headed by Moscow-trained Finns.

Under the armistice Finland was to try its own war criminals. At the first hearing in the diet on proposed legislation for these trials, in accordance with the constitution, a war crime was interpreted as meaning an offense against the rules of warfare laid down by the Geneva convention.

Then came an edict from the Kremlin, with the forcefulness which has given the Communists domination over the country's industry and government and has even introduced Russian into the curricula of the public schools. "War crime" was to be defined by legislation to mean any act provoking the Finnish-Russian war or any act which prolonged it.

Ordered to Ignore Law

Furthermore, the prosecution was directed to ignore the opinion of Finland's Supreme court on the constitutionality of laws, including this mandated one. It was thru the enforcement of this law that the national police became a source of terror like the GPU [Russian secret police], with whom they coöperate, to all Finns who are not Reds. These police are under the minister of the interior, Y. K. Leino, who served a prison term in the 1930s for communistic activities and whose father-in-law, Otto Kuusinen, formerly was general secretary of the comintern.

One Finnish politician risked Moscow's displeasure by outspoken denunciation of the war crimes legislation. He holds a public position and has a personal record above suspicion. He is the Rev. Johannes Virtanen, a member of parliament and a Lutheran minister of Vaasa. As an army chaplain in both Finnish wars he was known as the "happy go lucky preacher."

Paint Nation Black

"It was amazing," he told the diets when the war crime question was first presented, "how certain quarters [Red] in parliament vie with each other in painting the Finnish nation black. Our own war stricken people now find themselves beaten by the flog masters in parliament. It has been painful to listen to these frothers at the mouth condemning Finland before the world as being guilty of war crimes."

In his argument against the war crimes legislation enacted under Red pressure, Virtanen contended that any evidence of faulty judgment would not be an evidence of criminality.

"If it could be shown," he said, "that there has been diplomatic activity deliberately aimed against the interests of the country and its people, this should be severely prosecuted according to the prevailing law. But if love of country, and its defense, are criminal, then barbed wire must be drawn all around the boundary of Finland."

Issue Decrees; Fail to Consult Allies

BY HENRY WALES
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 12—Marshal Vorisholov of Russia yesterday informed Gen. William Key, commander of the American military mission here, that the soviets intend to exercise censorship over American newspaper dispatches.

When Key pointed out that terms of the Potsdam agreement, signed by Generalissimo Stalin, provided that Hungarian armistice terms instituting censorship be used as a "basis for revision," Vorisholov insisted that the accord merely said that they be used "as a basis." He denied the words "for revision" were included, blaming the difference on translation.

Harriman Asks Delay

W. Averell Harriman, the American ambassador, telegraphed Key from Moscow that "no useful purpose would be served by raising the censorship issue now." The general then said the matter must be decided at higher levels—meaning between Washington, D. C., and the Kremlin.

Key admitted that despite the allied control council established here for a four nation administration of Budapest the Red army is applying unilateral decrees without consultation with its French, British, and American colleagues. He said the situation cannot be helped because the Russians captured Budapest and the Red army alone occupies Hungary.

Delays Up to 80 Hours

The question of censorship here was climaxed by the inauguration of direct commercial radio [RCA] with America via the Hungarian postoffice. However, Russian censorship results in delays up to 80 hours as Red army censors only work between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. [with no Sunday work] and make translations of all the dispatches filed.

Temporarily the American mission is permitting reporters to send their dispatches over the army radio to Frankfurt for relaying to America.

RUSSIA UNDER CLASS SYSTEM, MUNDT ASSERTS

PARIS, Oct. 12 (AP)—Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.] said today that a class system has evolved in Russia with "all kinds of special privilege" for certain classes, and that "the old one for all and all for one idea has been drowned in the Volga."

Stopping here with Rep. Bolton [R., Ohio] after a tour of 20 European and near east countries, Mundt told a press conference that "Russia has gone a long way from the doctrines of Karl Marx and the Russians readily admit it. Those doctrines were interpreted by Lenin—and have now been modernized by Stalin."

He said he learned that many persons in the military and government classes were not required to pay income taxes and that even ration cards, regulating what may be purchased, differed with certain classes and provided for special price discounts.

In the factories, the representative said, he noted conditions of piece work speed-up wage rates "that no union leader in America would dare to propose." Mrs. Bolton added that factories she visited had poor lighting and inadequate safety precautions.

N. Y. PORT TIE-UP BLAMED ON PLOT BY REDS AND CIO

AFL Union Head Condemns Unauthorized Strike

BY CHARLES GOTTHART
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 12—The story of a Communist plot behind the water front strike that has converted the world's busiest port into a "ghost harbor" was told today by Joseph P. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's association and an arch enemy of communism.

"Communists inspired by Communist dominated CIO unions have seized this opportunity to infiltrate into the ILA and gain a dominating position thus far repulsed by loyal American AFL members," he said in an interview.

Altho members of Ryan's union are the ones out on strike, the walkout was not authorized by the union leaders. Ryan repeatedly has asked the strikers to return to work.

Insurgents Oppose Return

The strike has developed into a rank and file rebellion against the union leadership. The majority of the men twice have voted to return to work, but insurgents halted the back to work movement in both instances.

The New York Shipping association has met the strikers' demands for increased wages and improved working conditions, but the strikers have presented a new series of demands and the principal stumbling block has been their insistence on specified load limits to be carried in cargo nets.

Ryan's union is considered one of the bulwarks against communism among waterfront workers and seamen. Most east coast seamen belong to the Communist dominated CIO National Maritime union headed by Joseph Curran, while the AFL retains the shore workers.

The insurgents are headed by William E. Warren. Identified by Ryan as a former CIO organizer, Warren is described as the temporary head of the rank and file group. Warren said tonight they were out to depose Ryan "as life time president of the ILA."

"The Communists are trying to dishonor our longshoremen and discredit their war record, which has been praised by the navy," Ryan said. "One of their motives is to further the Communist movement in Italy by preventing the shipment of supplies to that stricken country and thus laying the groundwork for a Communist uprising there."

Names Red Leaders

Ryan asserted Communist agitation behind the strike was directed by Curran, Ferdinand C. Smith, NMU secretary exposed as a Communist supporter, and Harry Bridges, west coast CIO water front czar who escaped deportation as an undesirable alien.

"Communists distributed thousands of handbills printed by the CIO among the longshoremen whom we were trying to get back to work —urging them to remain out and prolong the strike," Ryan said.

Aim at Key Industries

"They grabbed at the opportunity to carry out their known goal of seizing control of key industries, including shipping and communications. I learned of their goal 20 years ago as a member of a committee investigating a fur workers' strike and have done my utmost ever since to thwart them."

In pinning the communist label on the strike fomenters, Ryan was joined by Eugene Sampson, business agent of one of the ILA locals.

The Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, has carried daily articles upholding the strikers. Free copies of the paper were passed out today to the strikers idling along the waterfront.

"My son is on his way home to take over my practice, and I'm going to be his first patient."

AFL, CIO DELEGATES WILL ATTEND PARIS WORLD LABOR PARLEY

PARIS, Oct. 12 [Reuters]—Representatives of both branches of the United States trade union movement—the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations—will be among the 500 delegates from 50 countries at the international labor conference opening here Monday.

The conference is expected to call for world-wide action for full employment and inflation control.

A draft resolution to be presented solicits measures to eliminate shortages of capital and consumer goods, and urges that the primary consideration in taxation policy should be its effect on the volume and structure of employment.

Canadian Legislators to Get $2,000 Pay Increase

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 12—Members of the Canadian house of commons are to have a pay increase of $2,000 per year. At present they are paid $4,000 for each session of parliament, subject to income tax. J. L. Ilsley, acting prime minister, today gave notice of legislation to provide them with another $2,000 per year to cover expenses.

FORD TO RESUME WORK MONDAY AT ALL PLANTS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12 [Special]—The Ford Motor company today flashed the green light for resumption of full production thruout its automotive empire on Monday after a month-long shutdown caused by strikes in September among a number of the parts-making companies.

M. L. Bricker, general superintendent of the company, said 35,000 workers would be recalled at the Rouge, Highland Park, Lincoln, and other manufacturing plants, including the Ford village industries. They will rejoin 5,000 others who resumed work in the last few days.

A force of 40,000 represents the peak in personnel at this time, altho when maximum production is made possible by completion of reconversion, Ford again will employ about 100,000, it was said.

British Labor M. P.s Hope to Raise Old Age Pensions

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The British Press association said today that Labor members of parliament were hoping to increase the basic old age pension from the present rate of $2 a week to $3 or $4. Approximately 4,000,000 persons now are receiving pensions.

LA GUARDIA ASKS STEVEDORES TO RETURN TO JOBS

New York, Oct. 12 (AP)—The CIO National Maritime union and three other unions, announcing their support of 35,000 to 60,000 striking longshoremen, said today seamen aboard strike bound vessels in New York harbor would prevent the movement of any ship by shutting off steam power.

Mayor Fiorello La Guardia meanwhile made a radio appeal to the longshoremen, asking the men to return to work tomorrow. He promised them that if they did so negotiations between the AFL International Longshoremen's association and the New York Shipping association would be concluded within a week.

Later, however, an insurgent rank and file committee of the union, claiming to speak for the striking longshoremen, said it had rejected the mayor's appeal and would not respect any agreement reached by Joseph P. Ryan, ILA president.

Army Makes Appeal

In Washington the army and the war shipping administration called on the strikers to return to work to prevent further delay in the return of veterans from overseas. War Secretary Patterson and Vice Adm. Land, war shipping administrator, telegraphed Ryan to use his influence to get the men back to work. Ryan has declared the tieup was unauthorized and has appealed to the men to return.

A WSA official said the glut of shipping in the harbor had risen to 389 ships on the 12th day of the strike.

Joseph Stack, port agent for the maritime union, said the NMU ordered its members today "not to move ships strikebound by the longshoremen's strike."

Refuse to Move Frater

Stack, also acting as spokesman for the joint seamen's action committee, said the three other unions that would refuse to move strikebound ships were the CIO American Communications association, a wireless operators' group; CIO Marine Cooks' and Stewards' association, and the Marine Firemen, Oilers, Water Tenders, and Wipers, an independent union.

The dispute centers about differences over the load to be carried in cargo nets.

William E. Warren, temporary chairman of the insurgent rank and file committee, announced the striking longshoremen were "ready to sit down immediately" with army representatives or ship owners "to work out an effective program for the speedy loading and unloading of troopships or ships carrying supplies for troops" and that pending such an agreement "will immediately service ships which are obviously serving the armed forces."

Foil Holdup

Police yesterday sought two bandits who tried unsuccessfully to rob the Pulaski-Lake Currency exchange at 311 N. Pulaski rd. The bandits fled when they were unable to get inside the cashier's cage and Miss Mary Anderson, a cashier, telephoned police.

The bandits held handkerchiefs to their faces after entering the office by cutting steel bars on a window. Enraged over their inability to penetrate the cashier's cage, one of the robbers fired a shot into the bullet-proof door lock.

Two years ago, Miss Agnes Olson, a cashier, died after robbers used poison gas in a robbery attempt there. Two of the bandits were later captured. One was sentenced to life imprisonment and the other executed on a charge of murder in connection with another currency exchange holdup slaying.

RECESS COAL PARLEY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—Labor Secretary Schwellenbach failed again today in his effort to settle the soft coal strike, when a conference of coal operators and miners adjourned until tomorrow at 10 a. m. with no hint of progress.

Schwellenbach said he had no statement except that the United Mine Workers and bituminous operators are still "in the process of arguing."

John L. Lewis, head of the UMW, wants bargaining recognition for his foremen's union, the United Clerical Technical and Supervisory Employes. The operators insist that foremen are part of management.

STEEL LOSSES CLIMB

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP)—As the six state soft coal strike took an increasing toll in steel output today, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation reported that by next week its Pittsburgh district steel loss will rise to 100,000 tons a week. It added that by midnight Monday the number of its workers furloughed in western Pennsylvania will rise to 10,000.

The coal walkout in 21 days has made 200,000 of the nation's bituminous coal diggers idle and has cost a production loss of more than 8½ million tons.

Negotiations between United States Steel corporation subsidiaries and the CIO United Steel Workers on a demand for a $2 a day increase have been adjourned until Oct. 23. Companies involved are Carnegie-Illinois Steel, American Steel & Wire, Colonial Steel, National Tube, and Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad.

FEW PICKETS AT STUDIOS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 12 (AP)—Movie strikers maintained pickets in limited numbers at Warner Brothers and Universal studios today, altho a national labor relations board election has been won by their AFL Conference of Studio Unions.

In Washington the labor department named Earl J. Ruddy of Los Angeles as federal conciliator to settle the dispute.

SHIP WORKERS STRIKE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12 (AP)—More than 5,000 AFL ship repair workers in 14 shipyards of this area went on strike today in support of demands for an 11.6 per cent pay differential over workers on new ship construction. The NLRB has rejected their demands for an increase from $1.20 to $1.34 an hour in ship repair wages.

UNITED NATIONS GROUP VOTES TO SCRAP LEAGUE

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The united nations executive committee, by a 10 to 2 vote, today recommended dissolution of the league of nations and that the new world peace organization take over its nonpolitical functions.

Russia and Australia objected that such a move might make the united nations just a continuation of the league. They proposed that the league be kept going as now until after the united nations organization has been established.

Wellington Koo of China declared it was important to see some of the league's technical functions continued. It was clear he was referring to narcotic traffic controls.

Today's recommendation provides for a meeting of the members of the old league to move for dissolution and appointment of a small united nations committee to contact the league and facilitate transfer of assets.

[General Eisenhower may be the first secretary general of the united nations, the London News Chronicle's diplomatic correspondent suggests.]

U. S. Resumes All Types of Mail Service to Poland

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—All types of mail, including parcel post, now may be sent to Poland. Announcing this today, the postoffice department said each parcel is limited to weight of 11 pounds and only one parcel a week may be sent by one person to the same addressee. Contents are limited to items which are not perishable. Registry service on parcels is not available. Packages weighing up to a pound will be accepted for air mail delivery to Poland.

PROBE STRIKES, CONGRESS TOLD BY CIO LEADERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—A CIO leader told congress today it ought to investigate current strikes in the nation.

The investigation was proposed at a meeting of CIO delegates from nine southern states with their congressmen. Paul Schuler, New Orleans, La., representative of the CIO Textile Workers' Union of America, told the session:

"My congressman told me there is an undercurrent of feeling in the house that labor unions have formed an ungodly alliance with some one to destroy the economic system of our country.

"That's not true, and congress ought to make a full investigation of these strikes and let the chips fall where they may. If that is done, it will be found in most cases that the employers were unwilling to bargain in good faith with the unions."

• Cargo compartments furnished with tie-down fittings, flexible compartment arrangement, skid strips for heavy cargo, steel door sills. Tricycle landing gear means plane rests level on ground. Wide range of loading does not adversely affect flying characteristics.
• Passengers may place own baggage in racks at rear of cabin without interfering with other passengers' entry or exit. Or, if they prefer, baggage may be checked through.
• Baggage racks are also accessible through man-sized door from rear cargo compartment with no interference to passengers entering or leaving. Thus, overflow baggage from racks may be passed into rear cargo compartment, or vice versa.
• Large, wide passenger door and cabin aisle permit two-way traffic. Service personnel need not enter cabin since all equipment is accessible through belly hatches, wheel-well, outside panels. The 202 is designed for under-wing pressure fueling . . . oil tank servicing from ground.
• Tricycle landing gear with steerable nose wheel facilitates ground maneuvering and parking, as do reversible-pitch propellers.
• Passenger comfort is stressed by such features as exceptional stability . . . automatic heating and ventilating system, independent of aircraft's engines and controllable from hostess' station . . . new style adjustable seats offering ample leg room.
• Other features include thorough soundproofing . . . spacious lavatory . . . indirect cabin lighting with reading lights for each seat . . . non-frosting cabin windows . . . special light and call bell on each seat to summon hostess.
• The Martin 202 is engineered specifically to meet Air Transport Association specifications. Not just designed for the airline but by the airline—custom-built by Martin—to the most exacting standards of the air traveler.

2 RIVAL UNIONS AGREE ON VOTE AT HARVESTER

UAW to Vie with UFE for Control of 5,800

The International Harvester company and two CIO unions which claim jurisdiction over 5,800 employes of McCormick works of the company agreed yesterday to a consent election among the employes to decide which CIO union is to represent its employes, Robert Rissman, chief field examiner for the national labor relations board, announced.

The election has been tentatively set for Nov. 6. It will be held as an outgrowth of a petition to the board by the United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers' union [CIO], which claims it has jurisdiction over farm implement workers rather than the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' union [CIO]. The UFE now has the bargaining rights for the employes.

Merger Sought by CIO

The national CIO recently urged the UFE to merge with UAW. But the membership of UFE purportedly voted not to affiliate, so the UAW has set out to organize workers claimed by the UFE.

The tentative date for holding the ballot was agreed to because the UFE also has a strike vote petition before NLRB as a result of its demands on the company for a 30 per cent wage increase. If the strike vote is set by NLRB for the week of Nov. 5, then the consent election will be held Nov. 13, Rissman said.

A strike vote will be taken among 8,400 long distance and local telephone operators Monday in protest against the national telephone commission's delay in granting a $6 weekly wage increase for employes of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, Mrs. Anne Benscoter, president of the Illinois Telephone Traffic union, said. Edwin R. Hackett, attorney for the union, said the commission held hearings on the union's demands in August.

Employed Thruout State

The union's members are employed in the Chicago office of the company and in its branch offices thruout 100 cities in Illinois.

A strike which has tied up the manufacture of troop sleepers at the Haskell & Barker plant of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company at Michigan City, Ind., continued yesterday.

A strike of 450 employes of the Harlich Manufacturing company, 1417 Jackson blvd., which started Monday, was ended yesterday by the employes. A dispute over wages caused the walkout. The Binder Help and Specialty Workers' union [AFL] agreed to call off the strike and hold further meetings to discuss the dispute. Local 182 of the AFL international union, had previously been erroneously said to have been involved.

File Strike Vote Petition

Henry G. Burger, international organizer of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen, and Helpers' union [AFL], said that 235 local unions of the IBT, representing 75,000 drivers employed by 3,190 trucking companies thruout 12 middle western states, had filed a petition for a strike vote with the NLRB.

The IBT and the employers have been negotiating a new contract to supplant one that expires next month. "The negotiations are not progressing to our satisfaction and we want to protect ourselves in the event we become stalemated," Burger said.

LICENSE COURT'S FILES EXAMINED BY BAR PROBERS

A Chicago Bar association committee yesterday was making an examination into License court records in the cases of Joseph Winkler, his son, Jack, and Henry Rice, who have been granted 57 continuances on charges of violating the city building, health and fire ordinances.

Whether the committee will make a general inquiry into License court cases will be up to the association's board of governors afte. the committee reports. It was disclosed that another committee, which has been making a general survey of the Municipal courts for the last seven or eight months, will report probably next December.

Chicago av. police reported that a warrant issued by Judge Frances Borrelli a week ago for the arrest of Joseph Winkler on a charge of violating building ordinances had been served. This case is set for Wednesday when other charges also are due to be heard. The elder Winkler posted $100 bond for his appearance in the case.

CHARGES REDS FOMENT BRITISH DOCKS STRIKE

Unionist Claim Meets Trotzkyite Denial

BY JAMES SLOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 12—Almost 50,000 British dockers tonight scorned appeals of the government and union authorities to return to work, and continued their wildcat strike, which has tied up more than 400 ships carrying cargoes of 160,000 tons of meat and other foods. They were told by the minister of fuel and power that their action was jeopardizing fruits of the Labor party's recent election victory, and by union officials that the strikes were fomented by communist agitators.

Soldiers Unload Food

The dockers demand a 40 hour week and daily wages of $5, an increase of $1.60. Their walkout, begun 19 days ago, has crippled at least 13 key port areas and is jeopardizing the nation's food supplies.

Troops are unloading food at Liverpool, Manchester, and Sunderland and others are expected soon at Manchester and Hull.

The minister of fuel and power, Emanuel Shinwell, said the wave of wildcat strikes sweeping the country was unjustified.

"I'm a socialist, not an anarchist," he said, "and want order and reason in our industrial relations." The strikers' refusal to permit legal arbitration machinery to settle the disputes, he added, may "destroy the great democracy we've just attained."

Unionist Hits Trotzkyites

The "revolutionary Communist party [Trotzkyites]" was accused by Arthur Deakin, secretary of the transport and general workers' union, of fomenting the strikes. He said the Trotzkyites had made preparations to continue the strike even before it began. The Trotzkyites denied the charges.

THIEF, 16, HELD TO JURY FOR KNIFING DEPUTY

Troy Lee Allen, 16, of Benton, Franklin county, who stabbed a deputy sheriff Thursday at the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, was held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $3,500 on a charge of assault with intent to murder by Justice of the Peace Walter Nurnberg in Geneva.

State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel of Kane county said that he would take the case before the grand jury Monday. The deputy sheriff, Raymond Hayes of Franklin county, the victim of the assault, was able to return to Benton.

Deputy Hayes was taking Allen to the institution on a commitment for auto larceny when the prisoner drew a knife and stabbed the deputy while in the latter's car. Deputy Hayes' wife, Dora Lou, who was in the car, went to the assistance of her husband. Allen had been sent to the school twice before for burglary and parole violation.

Court's New Black Maria Will Be Streamlined

The 23 year old black maria which the Municipal court has used in transporting prisoners will be replaced Monday by a new streamlined, escape and bulletproof vehicle capable of carrying 40 prisoners, Albert J. Horan, Municipal court bailiff, said yesterday. The old vehicle, which has been consigned to the junk yard, has traveled more than 150,000 miles and carried more than 18,000 prisoners, Horan estimated.

Acting as Observers

Navy representatives who yesterday were placed in four government seized oil refining plants in the Chicago area will act only technically as administrators, a navy spokesman said yesterday.

Notices of navy control were posted and offices set up in plants of the Sinclair Oil company, Socony-Vacuum Oil company, and Cities Service Oil company, all in East Chicago, and the Texas company, Lockport. A navy lieutenant and two shore patrol members were installed at each plant.

The navy officers will not sign pay rolls nor take an active part in management, the navy said.

The navy's prime interest, the spokesman said, will be to effect a settlement of the wage dispute in which the Oil Workers' International union [CIO] has sought a 30 per cent increase and the companies have offered 15 per cent.

ASK 1½ BILLION BACK WAGES IN THE PHILIPPINES

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 12 (AP)—The farmer-labor auxiliary service filed a claim with the government today for 1 billion 500 million dollars back pay for the period of Japanese occupation—then offered to waive the claim if the 57 legislators who collected $15,000 each in back salary would return the money "for more pressing public needs." The claim was part of a general protest against action of the commonwealth legislature in voting itself $1,500,000 for salary lost as a result of the Japanese occupation.

The farmer-labor organization based its demand on the work its members performed thruout the occupation as workers in bolo battalions, labor corps and farmer corps. Other protests took the form of parades and mass meetings.

Speaker Jose Zulueta defended the back pay appropriation and the clause in the appropriation bill which permits legislators who fought as guerrillas during the occupation to accept payment from the United States. Zulueta served as a guerrilla.

LEGION HONORS COLUMBUS WITH RITES AT STATUE

The 453d anniversary of Columbus' discovery of America was observed yesterday by members of 288 posts of the Cook county council of the American Legion in ceremonies at the Columbus monument in Grant park. A wreath was placed at the monument by Comdr. Arthur D. Weber of Columbus post, No. 1492, sponsor of the ceremony with the council.

William G. Burns, commander of Cook county council, was the principal speaker and Eliodor M. Libonati, Legion Americanism commission chairman, was master of ceremonies. The legionnaires attended high mass preceding the ceremonies at the Church of the Assumption, 313 W. Illinois st.

Schools, banks, and all city, county, and state offices, except the police and fire departments, were closed during the day. Federal offices remained open.

AUSSIES TO OUST 1,200 INDONESIAN SHIP STRIKERS

CANBERRA, Australia, Oct. 12 [Reuters]—Prime Minister Chifley has announced that more than 1,200 Indonesian seamen in Sydney, who refused to work on ships loading supplies for Java, would leave Australia for the Netherlands East Indies within the next few days in the British ship Esperance Bay.

COAL TIEUP HITS 4 STEEL PLANTS IN CHICAGO AREA

Four steel and iron producing companies in the Chicago area—Carnegie-Illinois Steel, Inland Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Republic Steel—disclosed yesterday they face a production crisis because of strikes by miners of volatile coal needed to make coke for blast furnaces.

Carnegie-Illinois said it has lost 15,000 tons of pig iron and an equal amount of steel, and faces a loss of 63,000 tons of pig iron and 53,000 tons of steel by the end of next week if the coal strike continues.

One coke oven battery—70 coke ovens make a battery—has been closed at Carnegie-Illinois' Joliet coke plant. Two of the remaining three batteries there are expected to go down next week. Most of this coke supplies the South Chicago works.

Two Coke Batteries Down

Two coke batteries are down for repairs at the Gary works and if coal is not forthcoming, six more are expected to be idle out of a total of 15 batteries.

Carnegie-Illinois has shut six blast furnaces. By the end of next week only two of the 12 blast furnaces in the Gary works and two of the 11 at the South Chicago works will be going, it was said.

Inland Steel said two of the seven blast furnaces at its East Chicago plant are out of operation and hours of work are being curtailed.

One Blast Furnace Shut

Youngstown Sheet and Tube said one of the three blast furnaces at its South Chicago works has been closed. Coke oven operations at the company's Indiana Harbor plant have been reduced altho two blast furnaces remain in operation there. The South Chicago plant has lost an estimated 450 tons of iron.

Production has been slowing gradually at Republic Steel's plant, an official said. The company has lost 35 to 40 per cent of its normal production of coke and iron.

GLOBAL AIR HEAD HOPES FOR SOLUTION OF LANDING RIGHTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 12—Dr. Edward Warner, president of the provisional International Civil Aviation organization [PICAO] of 36 nations, said today he was hopeful that the global body can do something soon to gain landing privileges for giant super-airliners on a scale that will make mass air transportation between America and Europe possible.

He outlined the work of the organization's committees studying this problem at a press conference today.

"Under the pre-war flight agreements [still in effect] each nation, American or European, was allowed to make two round trips across the Atlantic a week," he said.

"There was no limitation on the size of the aircraft because in those days there were only small airships. There is a general feeling everywhere that this system of designating the exact number of flights is out of date and too rigid and that there ought to be some means of adjusting the service offered to the amount of traffic available."

PRAGUE HAILS CZECH GENERAL

LONDON, Oct. 12 [Reuters]—Marshal Ivan Koney, soviet commander in chief in Austria, was given a great welcome upon his arrival in the Czechoslovak capital today, the Prague radio reported. He was told to hold "an important conference" with his generals.

PEARL HARBOR TRUTH WILL BE BARED: SHORT

Asserts Congress Will Thwart 'Loaded Dice'

have been milking her dry. It is time to talk strongly.

"Russia and England have been carrying their hats in hand to Washington, asking for more. I've never voted to give them a dollar. There are a lot of crown jewels over there—I've seen some of them—which would bring a pretty figure even in Chicago. I'm not going to take butter and bacon, cornpone and sowbelly from the mouths of my constituents in the Ozarks so that over there they can wear their jewels.

"I've been farther under the barn down in the Ozarks looking for eggs than the Russian seekers for lend-lease ever have been away from home."

PEARL HARBOR INQUIRY

The Missourian took up Pearl Harbor and the efforts for a real investigation.

"We hope to get to the bottom of Pearl Harbor, but it's hard to go up against a marked deck. I'm afraid the cards are a little stacked and the dice loaded. And you don't want to fix the jury before you go to trial.

"That is a method that has been employed in this country for the last 12 years until at this hour America has reached a new moral low.

"The Presidency has been prostituted and commercialized and exploited until the stench in Washington will remain in the nostrils of decent, patriotic citizens for decades to come. I speak in righteous indignation and holy wrath."

TAX REDUCTION

Passage of the tax reduction bill by the house Thursday, Rep. Short said, was the first about face in New Deal philosophy.

"We granted you a little relief yesterday," he said. "Only 10 voted against the tax bill, which will give reductions of 10 to 40 per cent. The significance of the bill is that it is the first time since the advent of the New Deal—some one called it the New Steal—the first time since 1933 you have got any reduction at all. So it is suggestive in that it shows we have about faced and are now headed in the right direction.

"Even with the reductions, we are going to worm and corkscrew 25 billion dollars out of the taxpayers next year. And that ain't peanuts to an Ozark hillbilly."

DEMOBILIZATION

"Demobilization is being speeded up," he said. "Last month 600,000 were discharged by the army and in October there will be 800,000. By next July there will be discharged six million men from the army alone. This is about as fast as we can operate. Demobilization should be carried on in an orderly manner. Let's be a little patient and understand the enormous complexity of the task. We must keep a cool head, calm nerves and warm feet. We're doing better than in the last war."

Short said that demobilization is the foremost problem in Washington and that the task is bringing letters by the bushel daily to congressmen.

"Since V-day every one wants to let George take care of the country," he said. "Is it to come to pass that after suffering as we have in the war, we are going to let the sands of victory run thru our fingers because we are impatient to get every one out of service?"

Opposes Teen-Age Draft

In his Highland Park address, Rep. Short said that soldiers 18 and 19 years old will not make good policemen and should not be used in armies of occupation. If the drafting of youths under 20 continues, the country will face, within 10 years, a serious shortage of physicians, lawyers, and other professional men, he predicted. Men having long combat records are entitled to come home, he said, but the public will have to realize that these men must be replaced with others.

The fiasco at the London meeting got a comment from the speaker.

"Thank God that Jimmy Byrnes has spoken out and says we are not going to compromise further," he told the Executives' club. "I hope he sticks to it."

"Painfully we are going the way we did after the first World war. Then it was Uncle Shylock. Uncle Sam becomes a bigger Uncle Sap as the years go on. We are going to find out how we got into the war."

Urges Reading Marshall Report

Short urged his hearers to read Gen. Marshall's report on the war.

"America's industrial capacity, managerial ability, the men who fought on land, sea and in the air—they won this war," he said. "The war has left us supreme, and we've got to exercise our responsibility. We don't want to become maudlin, mollycoddles or weaklings. Superior force is the only language some people can understand. I wish it were otherwise, but it ain't so."

The main thing is to safeguard the American form of government and way of life, Short declared. He added that it was endangered from within rather than from without.

The United States, he said, must let Great Britain and Russia understand "that for more than 150 years we've had a republican form of representative government and a system of individual initiative and enterprise, which has given us the greatest nation on earth. We don't want to change it."

PUCCINI'S OPERA 'LA BOHEME' ON THEATER OF AIR

"La Boheme," Puccini's opera about life in Paris' colorful Latin quarter, will be broadcast in English tonight on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network from 10 to 11 p. m. from the stage of Medinah temple.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak.

Marion Claire, soprano, will be starred as Mimi, the frail flower girl, and Richard Tucker, tenor, will play opposite her as Rudolph, the poet. Supporting roles will be sung by Penny Perry, soprano, and Bruce Foote, baritone. The dramatic cast includes Laurette Fillbrandt, William Everett, Sondra Gair, and John Barclay. Music for the production will be furnished by the Theater of the Air orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

Boy, 5, to Live After Loss of Leg, Foot Under Train

100 POUND LIGHT FIXTURES TOO HEAVY TO STEAL

Thieves failed yesterday in an attempt to steal six ornamental bronze light fixtures which they removed from the swimming pool on the former Edith Rockefeller McCormick estate at 1185 E. Westleigh rd., Lake Forest.

The fixtures were found by Policeman Myron Hiscox in an automobile stalled on the estate near the lake front. The 100 pound, 6 foot fixtures, each worth about $1,000, had been sawed off bases at the pool. A seventh fixture had been removed, but police did not know whether it had been taken by the thieves.

In the automobile, which had no license plates, a bill of sale to a Waukegan, Wis., man was found. Police are searching for him and for an ex-merchant marine seaman whose service discharge book also was found in the car.

CANCEL LIQUOR LICENSE AFTER SALE TO MINORS

On the recommendation of Police Commissioner Allman, the liquor license issued in the name of Mrs. Myra Seppie, 940 N. State st., proprietor of the tavern at that address, was canceled by Mayor Kelly. Police charged that employes of the tavern had sold liquor to minors. The mayor revoked the cigaret license held by Theodore Centella, proprietor of the cigar stand in the Civic Opera building, where it was charged bets on horse races were accepted over the counter. The license of the billiard parlor at 1832 Wabash av., owned by William Javine, where police recently raided a dice game, also was revoked.

TWO WEEK-END EVENTS TO HELP FUND CAMPAIGN

The Community and War fund will be in the spotlight today and tomorrow, for two special events will be held to promote the drive for $13,040,700. A camera contest for service men and women will be sponsored from 1 to 5 p. m. today in the Wedgewood room of Marshall Field & Co., and at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow a special concert will be given by the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall.

Prizes in the camera contest will be a complete post-war wardrobe from shoes to hat, a new suit and merchandise certificates totaling $70, all donated by the store. The winning pictures, which must include a Community and War fund poster or insigne, will be selected on the basis of originality and not on the type of camera used. Props, lighting, backdrops, and Jon Sierra models will be provided. A limited number of camera and rolls of film will be available for soldiers and sailors who do not have their own equipment.

The concert tomorrow will be conducted by Désiré Defauw before leaders in the fund drive. Speakers during the intermission will be Mayor Kelly, chairman of solicitation for the fund among governmental employes, and Edward L. Ryerson, president of the Orchestral association and a member of the board of directors of the fund.

EX-CITY WORKER LEAVES $75,000; SEEK RELATIVES

The public administrator's office yesterday started a search for relatives of Mattis Akeson, 81, well-to-do retired city maintenance engineer who died Wednesday in Alexian Brothers hospital.

After Akeson's death, Jack Rubens, chief investigator for the public administrator, found that the retired engineer had a $50,000 savings account and $25,000 worth of securities in a safe deposit box. Rubens said bank officials reported that Akeson had refused to draw a will.

Akeson lived in a $4 a week room at 879 N. La Salle st., and appeared to be poor. He went to County hospital as a charity patient, Rubens said, but later paid a $1,500 bill when it was discovered he had sufficient assets. Rubens said Akeson, born in Sweden, was a naturalized citizen.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 708 N. Wells st.

D. A. R. BOYCOTT PLEA REJECTED BY MRS. TRUMAN

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—President and Mrs. Truman today deplored the exclusion of Hazel Scott, a Negro pianist, from the D. A. R.'s Constitution hall, but Mrs. Truman turned down a demand that she boycott a D. A. R. tea party.

Hazel Scott

She told Rep. Powell, [D., N. Y.], husband of the pianist that her date to attend the tea given this afternoon by the Daughters of the American Revolution was made before the controversy arose and "is not related to the merits of the issue."

In messages to Rep. Powell, a Negro, the President and Mrs. Truman criticized "race discrimination" and "prejudice."

Use of Hall Refused

The controversy started when the D. A. R. refused to permit use of the hall for a concert Oct. 20 by Miss Scott, former night club musician. The D. A. R. explained later that its rule limiting the hall to white artists only was "in accordance with the prevailing custom of the District of Columbia regarding schools, auditoriums, theaters, hotels, restaurants, clubs, canteens, playgrounds, etc."

Powell protested Oct. 1 to Mr. Truman, asking for "action." He followed this up with a telegram, made public today, urging that the President's wife stay away from the tea.

"I can assure you," he wired, "that no good will be accomplished by attending and much harm will be done. If you believe in 100 per cent Americanism you will publicly denounce the D. A. R.'s action."

An Issue in the War

Today the President replied to Powell's original protest, saying in part:

"One of the marks of a democracy is its willingness to respect and reward talent without regard to race or origin.

"I am sure that you will realize, however, the impossibility of any interference by me in the management or policy of a private enterprise such as the one in question."

Regrets "Conflict"

The White House made public the President's letter and a telegram from Mrs. Truman to Powell, both dated today. Mrs. Truman told the congressman the invitation from the D. A. R. was extended and accepted prior to "the unfortunate controversy."

"Personally," the President's wife added, "I regret that a conflict has arisen for which I am in no wise responsible. In my opinion my acceptance of the hospitality is not related to the merits of the issue which has since arisen.

"I deplore any action which denies artistic talent an opportunity to express itself because

ARMY DESERTER AND 2 SEIZED ON THEFT CHARGES

An army deserter and two young men were arrested by police yesterday in connection with an automobile theft and a series of store burglaries.

John Dresden, 15, of 1853 W. 33d st., was seized early in the day while seated in a stolen automobile in front of the store at 1110 W. 35th st. He admitted, police said, that he was serving as lookout for two friends who were in a candy store. Police investigated and found the rear door of the store had been broken open. The men were gone. Dresden, questioned by Policeman Joseph Donohue, juvenile officer, named his companions as Fran Danihel, 16, of 1745 W. 33d st., and William Capriza, 19, of 3256 S. Hamilton av.

Both were arrested in their homes by Donohue. Capriza, who deserted from Camp Hood, Killeen, Tex., was turned over to army authorities.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by BEN MARKLAND

Oct. 12, 1945

MOST middle western farmers accepted the recent frosts calmly, much in the manner of big league baseball players who have learned that it does no good to question the umpire's decisions.

The farmers' umpire is the weather, and when it brings spring rains, summer drouths, or early frosts, the farmer loses little sleep. The weather often is harsh, but the farmer takes it in stride.

The men on the Fox river farms were philosophical about this week's frosts, and believed losses will be very small. Their placidity may be due in part to the fact that they planted no soybeans, which was a crop damaged in northern Illinois.

Corn Loss to Be Small

Corn losses on the farm will be small. The 480 acres of corn were planted for feeding to live stock, so the only effect of the frosts will be that of changing the form in which it is placed before the hogs and cattle.

Fifty-seven acres of corn has been cut and stored in the silos, and a three acre patch near one of the feedlots [partly damaged by frost] will be cut with a binder and fed to hogs.

At least 380 acres, planted before May 27, was sufficiently mature so it wasn't damaged. All will be picked and cribbed in the usual way. That leaves only 42 acres, less than 10 per cent of the total crop, requiring special handling.

Planted May 30-31

The damaged corn was seeded May 30 and 31, the final two days of the planting season on the Fox river farm. With normal summer and fall weather it would have matured in September, but the numerous rains and subnormal temperatures retarded the curing process.

Most of the ears in these late planted fields are mature, but many stalks late in the season produced nubbin ears which have a high moisture content. If the entire crop were binned, these small ears might spoil much of the stored grain.

The men plan to pick this corn as it is needed for feeding. Hogs will get most of the soft ears picked in the next few weeks, and later the frost damaged ears will be fed to cattle.

★The GARDEN★

SEPTEMBER and early October rains left most middle western gardens so muddy that it was impractical to mound soil around celery stalks for the blanching process. There still is time to blanch celery by artificial methods, however.

The Wheaton farm gardener hilled most of his celery in August. That which was not blanched by soil is being blanched by wrapping the stalks in 10 to 12 thicknesses of newspaper tied with string. This method of excluding direct sunlight will whiten and tenderize the stalks in three weeks.

Four inch drainage tiles also may be placed over the stalks to blanch them. Neither of these methods protects the stalks from severe freezes, however.

SAYS U. S. LACKS DETAILED STORY ON LEND-LEASE

Addressing the English Speaking Union in Orchestra hall last night, Robert Pattinson Winfrey, director of the British Provincial Newspapers, demanded to know if "the whole story of the comparative war efforts of Great Britain and the United States had been told to the peoples of both countries."

He charged that Anglo-American finance relations had been strained by the failure of the American government to present a "fact and figure" statement of American participation in lend-lease for both American and British reference.

Winfrey asked "how many Americans realize" the drain on the resources of the British nation and the damage to home property which he said would amount to 4 billion 800 million pounds.

JAP BLUNDER AIDED YANKS AT BATAAN, SAYS MAJ. TISDELLE

A Jap blunder made possible the gallant four month resistance by American troops on Bataan, Maj. A. C. Tisdelle told army officers of the 6th service command in a talk at headquarters in the Civic Opera building yesterday. Tisdelle was the aide de camp of Gen. Edward P. King Jr., commander of the Bataan force, and recently returned to Chicago after 40 months as a prisoner of war.

Maj. A. C. Tisdelle

Tisdelle said the Japs' blunder was their failure to destroy by bombing the huge Calumpit river bridge over which Gen. MacArthur withdrew both his northern and southern armies onto Bataan. If the bridge had been destroyed, the last ditch fight on Bataan would not have been possible because American engineers had no equipment to erect a temporary structure.

Another puzzle of the campaign, he said, was the Japs' failure to strafe long lines of men and equipment retreating to Bataan. For many hours the army vehicles moved almost bumper to bumper undisturbed by enemy aircraft, he said.

355,000 KILLED IN U. S. IN WAR TIME MISHAPS

War time accident casualties in the United States from Dec. 7, 1941, to V-J day Aug. 14, 1945, totaled 355,000 killed and 36 millon injured, including 1,250,000 permanently disabled, the National Safety Council reported yesterday.

The traffic toll alone was 94,000 killed and 3,300,000 injured. Home accidents killed 118,000 and injured 16,500,000. Total American World War II. casualties were 1,070,524.

The council said it released the report with no thought of implying that war time activities on the home front compared in danger with actual fighting. "The figures are presented merely to show the enormity of the accident toll and to emphasize the importance of preventing accidents—in war or in peace," the council said.

RULES NEGROES MAY BALLOT IN DIXIE PRIMARY

Macon, Ga., Oct. 12 (AP)—Negroes are entitled to vote in Democratic white primaries in Georgia under a decision handed down today by Federal Judge T. Hoyt Davis of the middle Georgia district.

The decision was in a suit filed by Primus E. King, Columbus, Ga., who brought action against members of the Muscogee county Democratic executive committee. King was denied the right to vote in the 1944 primary. Davis ruled King was not permitted to vote because of his race, and that this constituted violation of the 14th, 15th, and 17th amendments to the United States Constitution.

Counsel for the committee said they would appeal the decision.

In Alabama, Federal Judge C. B. Kennamer dismissed a suit at Montgomery against two members of the Macon county, Ala., board of registrars, charging refusal to register a Negro for voting.

WARNS MONDAY IS OVERSEAS GI GIFT DEADLINE

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen yesterday warned that midnight Monday is the deadline for mailing Christmas packages to service men overseas without written requests. He said 567,587 packages have been sent from Chicago up to yesterday, a 50 per cent decrease from the comparable period last year. Parcels addressed to service men moving from one area to another will be forwarded, he said.

All Guard Units to Come Back to U. S. Within Year

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—The war department is planning to return all national guard divisions to the United States within a year. A circular letter from the national guard bureau to state adjutant generals disclosed today that the plan is to deactivate all divisions overseas within a short time after their return, retaining them under federal control while a troop basis plan is prepared for a post-war national guard.

STOOGE'S PROGRESS

The senate had to ignore the recommendation of its own commerce committee to confirm the nomination of ex-Congressman McKeough, a CIO payroller, to the maritime commission. Postmaster General Hannegan, the administration's patronage boss, got busy to prevent adverse action on one of President Truman's nominations. The real victory, however, went to the CIO and its political action committee, for which McKeough worked. That organization demonstrated that under Truman, as under Roosevelt, things have to be cleared with Sidney.

McKeough clearly is unfit for his job. He is unfit for the reasons that the commerce committee advanced in recommending against confirmation, but he is also unfit by reason of general incompetence. He has been a second-rater all his life. When his party picked him to run for the senate in this state no one was more surprised than he. The very night that he accepted the designation he confessed that he was nothing but a stooge for the late Boss Nash.

When the voters of Illinois knocked him off the public pay roll he became a stooge for Hillman of the PAC and for Joe Curran, the communist boss of the CIO maritime union. On the maritime commission he will continue to be their stooge. To the exact extent of McKeough's influence in the commission the American merchant marine hereafter will be run, not for the benefit of the American people and American national defense, but for that of the CIO dues chest and Curran's boss, Joe Stalin.

Sen. Overton, who presented the adverse report of the commerce committee, opposed the nomination because there is a bitter fight going on between the CIO and the AFL for the union dues of American merchant crews. Curran's communist outfit is top dog in the Atlantic and an AFL union, some of whose leaders are old time IWW radicals, represents the majority of crews in the Pacific. No one can do a more thoro job of hating the Communists than a former wobbly and, even without the national rivalry between the two parent organizations, labor relations in the merchant fleet are, as Sen. Overton told the senate, bound to be explosive. With a CIO payroller on the maritime commission the AFL leaders will think, and will be justified in thinking, that the cards have been stacked against them by the government.

Quite obviously the appointment of an AFL member in place of or in addition to McKeough would have been no remedy. The fundamental political error in the McKeough appointment is the one of which the New Deal administration has been guilty literally thousands of times in the last 12 years. It consists of investing interested persons with administrative power. This certainly was not a New Deal innovation in the science of government, but no administration ever exploited it so shamelessly as have the followers of Roosevelt and Truman.

The administration of the national labor relations act was never placed in the hands of persons who conceived it their duty to administer that act impartially for the benefit of all the people of the country. Instead, it was put in the hands of active partisans of organized labor who used the act as a weapon in the hands of unions. The only times there were ever any schisms in the national labor relations board were when rival unions fell out over spoils.

The duty of the maritime commission is to act for all the people of the United States in encouraging the development of an efficient merchant marine. The maintenance of good labor relations on shipboard is, of course, germane to the commission's duties, but a commission representing all the people would represent, among others, the employes on the ships. There is no excuse for giving one faction of these employes a special representative on the commission.

In the legislative department of our government we still follow the pattern set by the founders of the Republic. Members of congress still are presumed to represent all of the people of their districts or states. In the administrative government our pattern is growing closer and closer to Mussolini's corporative state. The department of labor does not represent all of the people, but is conceived to be a branch of the government which permits organized labor, and more particularly the bosses of organized labor, to use the stick of government to beat their opponents. Similarly, the department of agriculture is conceived to be a special preserve in which farmers shall use the governmental power in their own special interests instead of for the general interest of the country. The department of commerce is an exception. Heaven knows whom Henry Wallace represents, but it certainly is not the business men whom he has taken such a delight in harassing for 12 years.

As Sen. Hart of Connecticut points out, there is doubt of McKeough's legal qualification for his post. The act creating the maritime commission bars from its membership any one who in the three years before his appointment has been identified with shipping interests or "any business associated with shipping." This was adopted as a proper provision to prevent confusion of public and private interests by ship owners. Morally, if not legally, it bars McKeough, the indirect payroller of the maritime union. But in an administration that clears everything with Sidney legality is a minor consideration and political morality is clear out the window.

IMPERIAL HYPOCRISY

The Netherlands information bureau, the Dutch government's propaganda agency, is busy these days presenting evidence to show that Dr. Soekarno, the leader of the Indonesian independence movement, is a Japanese puppet. The evidence consists largely of quotations from Soekarno's utterances during the war as they were reported by Domei, the official Japanese agency.

Taken at their face value, the quotations prove that Soekarno preferred Japanese imperialism to Dutch imperialism. In Dutch eyes, that is no doubt a very serious offense, indeed, for the Dutch feel strongly that the profits of the exploitation of Java and Borneo belong in Amsterdam rather than in Tokyo.

Less interested observers will wonder why the Dutch claim to rule Java is any better than the Japanese. Both claims were founded upon conquest and were maintained only by the use of force. On that theory the American claim to Java is better than either the Dutch or the Japanese, because the Dutch couldn't hold Java against the Japanese and the Japanese couldn't hold it against the Americans. Needless to say, America has no ambition to rule the Javanese. There is no reason why we should recognize the Dutch claim. To do so would be to denounce the principles on which our nation was founded.

The position of the Dutch in this matter is surely absurd. They have just as much right to rule Java—no more and no less—as the Germans had to rule Holland. The spokesmen for Holland say that if Java is left to the Javanese, the country will be torn with dissension. If so, that only proves the falseness of the claim that over the years the Dutch administration has been devoting itself primarily to preparing the natives for self-government. If that were even remotely true, the end of colonialism would cause no serious trouble.

What is true of the Dutch claims to Java and the neighboring islands is, of course, equally true of all the other pretensions by all the other colonial powers. The colonial system is founded upon greed and hypocrisy. The British say they keep order in Malaya with a view to protecting the Malayans from each other. In truth, the English in Malaya and the French in Indo-China employ armed force to make the natives work for their foreign masters at a few cents a day. Who are the Dutch propagandists to say that Soekarno is a scoundrel?

MILITARY TRAINING

Sen. Knowland of California has come forward with a plan for universal military training that deserves careful study. The plan has much to recommend it.

It is the senator's idea that every young man should be prepared for military service, but he believes that there are other ways of receiving training than in regular army camps. The ROTC in high school or college is one such way. Another is service in the national guard. Still another is membership in the organized reserves.

Under the senator's plan, every boy on reaching the age of 18 would be registered for conscription as is now required. At 21, he would have to go to camp for a year's training unless meanwhile he had learned his military fundamentals by continuous service in the ROTC, the guard, or the reserves.

The advantages of this arrangement are obvious. Boys would be prepared for possible service without seriously interrupting their schooling or their careers. Sen. Knowland's plan would also avoid the creation of a huge regular army which history shows can readily become an instrument of tyranny. There is surely much to be said for making it as difficult as possible for a President to use armed force for the seizure of property and the coercion of citizens. Any one who isn't alarmed at the use of the army for such purposes in recent years is short-sighted, indeed. Sen. Knowland's plan accords with the constitutional provision for concentrating the nation's reserve of military strength in the militia.

The brass hats in Washington will reply that the training so provided will be inadequate. If it is, the fault will be theirs. In truth, the ROTC has proved itself in this war, furnishing the army with tens of thousands of able officers who did not suffer in comparison with their comrades from West Point. In candor, too, the army will be forced to concede that the national guard acquitted itself with great distinction in this war, in spite of the fact that it has always been the army's step-child.

This newspaper believes in military training, but it knows that the opposition to it, always strong, is stronger than ever today because of accumulating evidence of misuse of military power at home and abroad. We have seen the seizure of Montgomery Ward & Co.'s property and many similar incidents in this country. We have also seen how reluctant the army has been since the end of the war to demobilize and how our army abroad has been used all too often as an instrument of tyranny. These are alarming symptoms, and they point the need for caution.

Sen. Knowland's plan, as we said, merits careful study. It promises to give our young men the rudiments of military training without exposing the country to many serious abuses.

NO RECOGNITION OF FLYING TIGERS

[Arizona Republic, Phoenix]

No recognition apparently has been given by our government to the Flying Tigers commanded by Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault who did such an excellent job of battling the Japs in the air and on the ground in China long before this nation got into the war. They gave the struggling Chinese forces a helping hand in their unequal fight against the Japs.

According to the general, the Flying Tigers have never received any pensions, disability claims or other government benefits and have never been awarded service ribbons or combat stars. The general believes his men are entitled to all of these things and most Americans will agree with him. The Flying Tigers did much to hold the fort in China while we prepared and while we were jumping from island to island. All of them are American boys and they certainly dealt the Japs some stinging blows during the time they flew their P-40s over the war areas in China. It seems just that some recognition should be given these boys.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

F. R. S. writes: "In a group of men stationed in camp with me are many without enough points for discharge and too many for us to be sent overseas. Most of us are about 30 years old. We have been told we are being kept in service because the government does not want too many men thrown on the labor market now. Can this be true?"

There is an act passed Oct. 3, 1944, public law 458, 78th congress, which says the war and navy departments shall not retain persons in the armed forces for the purpose of preventing unemployment or awaiting opportunities for employment.

W. E. S. asks: "Where should I mail premiums on my national service life insurance after I am discharged from the service?"

All veterans, no matter which arm of service they served, should, after discharge, mail premium payments on national service life insurance to collection subdivision, central office, veterans' administration, Washington 25, D. C.

MR. PEPYS TAKES IT

13th Oct.—Am glad the season for hanging around a radio box or a telegraph ticker, getting breathless over the so-called world series, is over and done with. Especially because most of the games happened on days when I had to be hitting the ball myself. Holding the breath for a week, I find, is disturbing to one's equilibrium, and is never credited on the personal box score.

But in spite of time out for play-by-play chatter, have worn the nib off my fountain pen autographing and addressing my new Linebooks for its contributors. Found that my best speed for this job, which includes many fussy motions, is 25 an hour.

Immediately after the Cubs had gone down for the fourth time and out, the gloaters began to buzz around me like satirical gnats, pretending to commiserate but hoping I would display acute suffering. But I fooled them by singing merry roundelays and speaking of the fine turn of the weather. Have known those Cubs since they were Anson's Colts and can take them for better or worse, come weal, come woe.

Now Indian summer arrives, I suppose, because McCutcheon's cartoon is to be printed tomorrow. According to my book and the Old Farmer's Almanac, that's two weeks earlier than usual. Am ready for it, because during the last month have often felt like giving the climate back to the Indians.

MY MOTHER'S HANDS

Aristocratic hands, and yet so strong,
Adept at making doughnuts, pies, and bread,
At darning sox or patching pants instead,
Quick to correct when boys did knowing wrong.
Such gentle hands, as with a sacred song,
They soothed a fevered, tousled little head
Or smoothed the blankets on a rumpled bed
Or held a baby close when nights were long.
Forever busy, those unselfish hands,
For others thru so many years bestirred,
Lie quiet now, so peacefully, and blessed
Within the hand of Him who understands,
Who in His gracious mercy spoke the word,
"Come unto me . . . and I will give you rest."

Why Hotel Clerks Look Haunted

S. Wesley Bigg approached the hotel clerk with his most affable smile.

"I want a room for two days, as usual," he said.

"We always take care of our patrons," replied the clerk. "But under present conditions they engage rooms by the shift, three in every 24 hours. I can give you room 208 for the morning, 209 for the evening, and 210 for the swing shift; then the order will be reversed. Otherwise we have some excellent sleeping bags that the army surplus supply office highly recommends for hanging tight guests in the spare linen closets."

"No," snapped Mr. Bigg. "You tell your manager that when he asks for accommodations at my institution he will get the same satisfaction." He walked away.

Turning to Mazie, the cashier, the clerk said, "I knew that fellow was crazy when he asked for a room. What institution do you suppose he is an inmate of?"

"Inmate? Institution?" echoed Mazie. "You just qualified for your unemployment pay. Mr. Bigg is chairman of our bank."

Echo of Beer Garden Era

Recent mention of the old Windsor theater on N. Clark st. brings to mind another place of amusement in the early 1890s which was directly across the street. This was Engel's Garden, where young bloods of the gold coast would gather on Saturday nights for a few drinks and a good vaudeville show.

Engel's seems to have been a try-out place for new variety acts. Among its contributions to stage history was the colored team of Williams and Walker.

Into each life some rain must fall, but an O'Leary gets it in bucketfuls because of questions such as, "Are you any relation to the O'Learys who set Chicago afire?" HUMAN AND DOG BITES

ADULTS seldom use their teeth as a weapon. But should they do so, great damage could be inflicted. The practice is common among children and this fact almost makes me believe that the tendency is one of those instincts which civilization curbs in a hurry. It is well known that mental patients may bite when agitated and I would be interested in learning whether primitive peoples employ their incisors for fighting.

The majority of human bites seldom become infected but, should the exception occur, the results may prove distressing. Even tho we do not inject a poisonous venom, the bacterial residents of the mouth are implanted into the tissues, bringing on inflammation. The area becomes swollen, red, and painful. If pus collects, drainage is demanded. Others develop "blood poisoning" or lymphangitis.

Self-inflicted bites are not unusual among sensitive teen-agers and nervous individuals, especially during moments of excitement or suspense. The nails are the favorite site and, in many cases, digging is so extensive that infection in and about these structures is inevitable. The cuticle may also be attacked.

Some nibble on their knuckles or thumbs and, in time, blemishes develop which are indistinguishable from warts or other tumors. The inside of the cheek is another choice locality. Here, too, growths appear which may be mistaken for the lesions of various diseases.

Dog and cat wounds may become irritated and lead to abscess formation. The sharper teeth penetrate deeply and in the fingers, where there is little flesh, the bone may be struck. Regardless of the extent of the injury, thoro cleanliness with soap and water is called for. As an added precaution, a drop of fuming or strong nitric acid should be inserted.

Since dogs are more likely to be rabid than other animals, victims of bites are always fearful of this complication. Anxiety is increased after a youngster has been nipped by a stray. Whenever possible, the canine should be isolated and observed for a period of two weeks. If, at the end of this time, there is no evidence of rabies, release is in order and no further trouble need be anticipated. On the other hand, should the beast become sick or die, its head is sent to a laboratory and examined carefully.

The Pasteur treatment, or one of its modifications, is given immediately to those bitten by a mad dog or one showing suggestive symptoms. If the animal cannot be identified, it is also wise to start the injections. Common sense is required in making the decision. Some advise beginning the vaccine at once in wounds of the shoulders, neck, or forearms. If, at the end of 14 days, the hound is proved healthy, the shots may be discontinued.

The decision depends on the circumstances under which the accident takes place. If a pet becomes excited thru playing or teasing, he frequently uses his teeth in the commotion. But it must be remembered that all animals, household or vagrant, can receive and transmit the virus. Immunization and muzzling of dogs are the chief methods of prophylaxis.

PRESSURE READINGS

Mrs. B. W. writes: Please explain what the numbers mean in blood pressure readings.

This depends upon the alterations in vision. Stronger lenses may not be necessary for many years. By having the eyes examined at least every two years, the need can be noted.

Mrs. R. writes: Is it possible to have an ovarian cyst without knowing it?

Yes, indeed. The disorder may exist without symptoms.

Even as You and I

The intern and the eminent neurologist listened in an agony of impotence to the delirious outpouring from the veteran on the cot. Better death than this homecoming. Seven campaigns, three years of carnage and chaos had failed to drain his immense reserves of vital power. Then, on his return, a quick collapse—and an aimless cascade of words:

"— a just peace — just, but rigorous, without the severity that embitters or the softness that appeases —mercy, to regenerate—not vengeance, to enslave — for vindictive reprisals only accelerate the bull movements that ascend in vertical rather than horizontal swings, gathering impetus from selective strength and the irresistible pressure of surplus funds, but retreating marketwise when technical corrections search in vain for profligates in foxholes—no debauchees, no wastrels, however long separated from family ties and uplifting influences of American homes, yet with the Stars and Stripes floating over adjacent island bases, we can repel all vicious spirals of wages and prices that delay reconversion long overdue, while every friend of labor, every friend of capital demands decent living conditions for the mechanic and the millionaire, confident that unbridled power will always tyrannize, whether in the hands of demagog or plutocrat, extremist or reactionary, disciple of H. G. Wells of Dostoyevski, well warned that a weapon that can raze a whole city must never be committed to the irresponsible hands of H. G. Wells, Dostoyevski, Aldous Huxley, Hemingway, Olsen, Johnson, June Haver—"

It faded out into merciful coma. The intern shivered: "The horrible irony of it all is in the contrast. When he landed, he was clearheaded and robust. But after four days in America—"

"I know, I know," soothed the great neurologist. "But I always hope—always. We shall see him deteriorate; but when he's twice as bad as he is now, he'll quit talking gibberish and always think it. Then he can embark on a career of usefulness and distinction. He'll be just like the rest of us."

Message for Elaine

Go tell that dame in Evanston
Who calls herself Elaine
I know the jerk she didn't meet
That midnight in the rain.

And I know what his real name is
—And it's not Lancelot.
He kids himself that he's a wolf.
I'll certify: he's not.

In Drearlove Road [you spelled it wrong]
I dated him one night;
And—well, I'll cut the story short.
He didn't treat me right.

He talked of love, he sang of love

But he's the one, I'm glad to say,

Vincent Starrett, poet, criminologist, and author of a monograph [now rare], "On Certain Pathological Tendencies of the Frontal Sinus," paused recently at this desk to report the newest statistics.

"I have been greeting all persons, friend and stranger," he said, "with the question, 'How's your cold?' In 99.7 per cent of the cases the reply has been a prompt and extensive recital of symptoms, followed by an amateur prognosis, hopeful or desperate. Only 0.3 per cent said, 'Cold? I have no cold.'"

BRITISH CON GAME IN DENMARK

Chicago, Oct. 10—I cannot help but think that America's trade interests are being permanently and adversely affected as a consequence of what is going on inside the so-called "sterling bloc," the shaping and security of which is given top priority at the expense of Europe's starving millions.

Before the war Denmark contributed better than 50 per cent of the total world exports of butter, bacon, and eggs. Her productive capacity is reasonably intact. She has sent shipload after shipload of food to Great Britain, on the promise that the ships would return loaded with coal. The ships, it is reported, returned empty. That is one reason for the spoilage of food. There's not enough coal to generate electricity for the refrigeration plants.

Anglo-Danish trade "agreements" recently resulted in the British arbitrarily setting the price on Danish butter in line with the price of New Zealand butter, which is of an inferior quality and must be transported exactly halfway around the world. The price set is below pre-war prices. On top of that the British demand credit because, they say, the prices on British industrial products are sure to be lowered. In addition, Danish butter is demanded at the same price anywhere inside the "sterling bloc."

All of this amounts to the Danes being forced to subsidize British shipping, which continues to operate on "navicerts." Denmark was one of our best customers, with an annual trade balance varying between 1 to 4 and 1 to 7 in our favor. The drastically lowered prices on Danish products and her involuntary barter "agreement" with the British are bound to result in drastically reducing Denmark's purchasing power, and consequently, her potentiality as a customer of American business. Our exports to Denmark in 1939 amounted to $23,882,000.

FED UP

IWO JIMA, Sept. 29—Here on Iwo Jima are roughly 200 doctors with no work to do and with no possibility of doing medical work now that the war has ended. We all want to get back to do some work in the States. All we get is a brush-off. We are fed up with the treatment accorded us by the common, garden variety of military authority. As long as we are in the service we are not free men, we cannot express ourselves, and furthermore, we dare not. Hell—the enemy would give us just as good treatment. We have no chance of getting out of the Pacific unless you people back home break up army politics. We know we are not needed here, yet selfish and rank conscious C. O.'s declare us essential. We've done our parts well during the war—for God's sake—can't we get out of the damn service and go home now?

THE 12TH STREET ALPS

Chicago, Oct. 1—Your editorial of yesterday on the failure of the railroads to adopt escalators in their stations is a point well taken. Not only have the railroads failed to adopt escalators in Chicago, but in one railroad station [12th Street] where the railroad is on the same level as the street, they force all passengers to walk up one flight of stairs for the privilege of walking down again to the same level from which they came!

KILLING TIME

OAHU, T. H., Sept. 30—We heard that the war ended Aug. 12, but you can't prove it by us.

We are AAF men, between the ages of 26 and 34, with between 36 and 49 months' service behind us. At least half of us are married. We left for overseas Sept. 17, about eight days after the war department made an overnight decision that all V-J day 36 pointers would stay in the United States.

This is the log of our casual shipment—and I do mean casual:

July 10-Aug. 10—Departed home stations on delays in route.

Aug. 13-15—Arrived AAF overseas replacement depot, Kearns, Utah.

Aug. 15-Sept. 9—Killed time with incidental squadron duties.

Sept. 9—Departed Kearns for staging area.

Sept. 11—Arrived Vancouver barracks, Wash.

Sept. 11-17—Killed more time with squadron duties.

Sept. 17—Departed Portland, Ore., sub-port of embarkation, bound for Tinian.

Sept. 25—Arrived 13th replacement depot, Oahu, T. H., as result of breakdown of equipment aboard transport.

Sept. 25—Present—killing more time with squadron duties.

So far as any one here knows, we are still traveling under orders which were cut before V-E day, to fill requisitions made out months before that date. But we must be going along just for the ride because no attempts were made to fill gaps in the shipment which were left when men were "scratched" at Kearns and Vancouver for reasons ranging from sick in hospital to 50 points on V-J day or 45 on V-E day.

THE BOYS IN THE KNOW

Chicago, Oct. 10—I was glad to note this morning that your editorial writers had dug out the angle of real estate speculation in connection with the Clearing airport that I discussed in my letter of June 11, which you published on June 25.

I wonder, however, if, by the time we get around to buying Douglas, the same situation in regard to land values will not exist there. In other words, will Douglas be able to expand with land selling at from $200 to $500 an acre, or will the same "boys in the know" have jacked the prices up to the $2,200 suggested for land near Clearing?

MARRIAGE TEST

Chicago, Oct. 9—1. I should like to know if Illinois is the only state in which a medical test for marriage is required. 2. Please tell me in what states the test is not required.

L. G.

1. No, it is not.
2. The requirement of the health examination has the almost unanimous approval of informed persons. If one of the parties proposes evasion of this salutary requirement, even on plausible grounds of economy or secrecy, it is a basis for suspicion that such party would not pass the examination and hence is a reason for the other party to talk with a doctor as to the seriousness of the risk. We are reluctant to assist in a proposed evasion of the Illinois requirement.

$30,000 IS PAID ON ROOSEVELT'S N. Y. ESTATE TAX

Discount Made Pending Complete Inventory

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 12—Approximately $30,000 was paid toward the tax liability on the reported 2 million dollar estate of Franklin D. Roosevelt, to cover the portion of securities, cash, and real estate taxable by New York state, it was learned today.

Altho an inventory will not be completed for several months, the payment was made to obtain the 5 per cent discount allowed under New York law if the estimated tax is paid within six months of death. Roosevelt died April 12.

The $30,000 payment is low on an estate of this size, largely because a portion of the late President's inheritance of nearly 1 million dollars from his mother is not subject to tax against his estate.

$48,431 Paid on Estate

A New York tax of $48,431 was paid by the estate of Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt after her death in 1941, and under state law there will be no second tax on a portion of this estate because less than five years elapsed between the deaths of legator and legatee.

The late President had not obtained actual possession of his mother's fortune because of delays resulting from the involved nature of the estate, but received an annual income of about $50,000 from his mother's securities, it was learned.

Earle R. Koons, attorney handling Mr. Roosevelt's estate, declined to make the tax payment public, but the $30,000 figure was learned from informed sources. The figure was said to be sufficiently high to cover all contingencies, so that there is a possibility of a rebate.

U. S. Tax Is Not Paid

Koons said the executors may decide to make a public statement soon, but withheld the tax information at this time to avoid speculation over the size of the estate until more definite information is available. The federal inheritance tax has not yet been paid.

In addition to the property in New York, there is taxable property in Washington, D. C., Georgia, and New Brunswick, Canada. The family mansion at Hyde Park, N. Y., is to be converted into another Roosevelt memorial, removing part of the property from the tax rolls and lightening the estate's tax obligation. The estate includes one of the most valuable private stamp collections in existence.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 13—Burgoyne Cries 'Enough'

"GENTLEMAN JOHNNY" BURGOYNE was feeling very low in spirits 168 years ago this morning. Plainly, he had allowed himself to be caught in a trap. The army of 10,000 British regulars and auxiliaries, which he had led from Canada to Saratoga, N. Y., had been cut to pieces in three battles. He had received no word from Gen. Howe, who was supposed to be coming up the Hudson valley to meet him in Albany.

Burgoyne called his staff together Oct. 13, 1777, to review the situation. They were surrounded by almost 14,000 American soldiers; their boats were gone; their provisions could not last more than three days, and there was no more rum.

"We have got to see about making some kind of a treaty with Gates [the American commander]," Burgoyne said. He did not use the word "surrender."

An American cannon ball zipped thru the tent while the officers were conferring, and all of them agreed Burgoyne was right. His adjutant, Maj. Kingston, was sent out with a white flag to ask that Gates receive an officer to discuss the situation. Gates consented to a meeting at 10 a. m. the next day.

At the appointed time, Maj. Kingston appeared and, after he had been led blindfolded to American headquarters, he handed Gates a message from Burgoyne asking "honorable terms." Gates handed Kingston his reply: Unconditional surrender.

This message was taken to the British commander, who rejected it and submitted a counter-proposal that his troops be allowed to march out of their lines with the honors of war before laying down their arms and that they be returned to England under parole, not to fight again in North America.

Gates agreed to the new terms because he had heard that British Gen. Henry Clinton was on his way north. On Oct. 17 the British troops piled their arms in a meadow beside the Hudson, then marched between two rows of Americans while American fifes and drums played "Yankee Doodle."

Thus ended the campaign which is considered the turning point of the American revolution. It might have turned out differently if Gen. Howe had coöperated by moving north as Burgoyne expected him to do. England's incompetent secretary of state for the American colonies, George Germain, had neglected to notify Gen. Howe of the plan after it had been approved by the king.

PISZCZEK SAYS SEWAGE CAN BE FACTOR IN POLIO

Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, Cook county public health director, yesterday told the annual Illinois state conference of the Izaak Walton League of America at Fox Lake, Lake county, that the virus of infantile paralysis can be widely spread in polluted water by improper disposal of human sewage.

The virus, he disclosed, has been recovered in tests from the sewage of many large cities, including Chicago, New York, Detroit, Mich., and Charleston, S. C., and more recently it has been found in the intestinal tract of a fish caught in water having a high concentration of sewage.

Dr. Piszczek urged the league to join its long fought anti-pollution campaign to the poliomyelitis menace and rally its chapters thruout the United States actively in a unified program to clean up all waterways. Other speakers included Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett, who discussed industrial pollution.

WANTS POLICE TO FIND HOME FOR HER SON, 2½

Carrying her son, Walter, 2½ years old, Miss Cecelia Mizanskey, 25, who said she is homeless, walked into the Fillmore st. police station yesterday and announced she wanted to give the child away.

Desk Sgt. Andrew Cannon, whose son is in service, immediately offered to take the boy. The young woman explained she didn't want to lose the child but to find some one to keep him while she finds a home and a job.

Miss Mizanskey said the father of the boy had offered to marry her but that she had refused. Police made arrangements for the child to be kept by the Catholic Home Service bureau while the mother finds work.

KEEP 6 CARRIERS IN SERVICE TO RUSH GIs HOME

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 12 (AP)—Adm. Nimitz told a cheering homecoming throng today that Fleet Adm. King had ordered him to delay laying up six aircraft carriers so high point service men in the Pacific could be rushed home.

"The navy plans to decommission about three-fourths of its fighting ships and release high point men in their crews between now and next September," he said.

Nimitz received the greatest welcome ever planned by Dallas.

Dr. Baer Will Resume Manteno Hospital Post

Dr. Edward Ross, managing physician of the Manteno State hospital, said yesterday he will relinquish that post Nov. 1 to Dr. Walter Baer, who has been on military leave since May 1, 1942. Dr. Baer was superintendent of the institution from November, 1939, until he entered the army medical corps. Dr. Ross said he either will remain at Manteno or be transferred to the welfare office at Springfield.

EX-RED ASSAILS COMMUNISM AS PUPPET BREEDER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12—Communism will not solve the problem of social justice, as it tends to establish a tyranny over the spirit by destroying a person's ability to think, Louis F. Budenz, former managing editor of the Communist Daily Worker, said today on his arrival at Notre Dame university to prepare for a teaching schedule beginning Nov. 5.

Budenz, who abandoned communism to return to the Catholic church and resigned from the Daily Worker, will teach labor problems in the university's department of economics.

"A Communist does not think," he said at a press conference. "He merely acts according to a line laid down by some one else. He tends to become a puppet.

"You can't reconcile communism and catholicism," he asserted. "I tried to do it and know that it can't be done."

RIDER ADMITS HE STOLE BICYCLE AND 12 OTHERS

Thefts of 13 bicycles in south Cook county suburbs were solved yesterday when Chief of Police Joseph B. Dineen of Flossmoor arrested Fred F. Steube, 20, of 76 W. 150th st., Harvey, a former inmate of the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles.

Dineen said Steube, stopped while riding on a bicycle in Flossmoor, admitted it was stolen. He also admitted, police said, that he had sold a dozen other stolen bicycles.

Steube was committed to the state school in 1939 for theft of an automobile. In 1943, he was sentenced to the County jail for theft of a bicycle in Harvey, and in 1944 he was sentenced to jail on a worthless check charge. Chief Dineen said Steube will be taken before the county grand jury today.

16 FEAR 'YOUTH FOR CHRIST' HAS JIM CROW TREND

Sixteen prominent pastors, theology professors, and religious workers have issued a protest against the Chicagoland Youth for Christ, charging an attempt to segregate Negro youths into a "Jim Crow Youth for Christ." The protest was made public by Dr. Homer A. Jack, executive secretary of the Chicago Council Against Racial and Religious Discrimination, 123 Madison st.

Robert Cook, director of the Chicago youth movement, 130 N. Wells st., said he had not seen the protest but explained that a meeting held Monday night at a south side restaurant to plan future Negro rallies was arranged in response to an appeal by Negroes themselves to the Rev. Torrey Johnson, founder of the movement.

CANADA SEIZES PACKING PLANTS ON STRIKE CALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 12—The Canadian government today seized five large packing plants of Burns & Co. in western Canada this afternoon. Workmen had decided to strike at these industries on Monday.

The government also prepared to take over Swift Canadian and Canada packers plants in western Canada where a strike vote will be taken Wednesday.

CIO agents, to which organization the meat packing employes belong, said the union will go ahead with a strike action despite government intervention, but every workman who refuses to work can be fined $20 a day. Twelve thousand workmen are involved. The government acted to insure continuation of supplies being forwarded to Britain and Europe.

CHICAGO HOME AWAITS BOY, 15, NAZIS DOOMED

A 15 year old Jewish refugee who saw his mother and father cremated at Dachau, German concentration camp, may find in Chicago the freedom he enjoyed in early childhood, providing army and Red Cross authorities are able to arrange his passport from Germany.

The boy, David Hoffman, adopted by the United States 925th army aviation engineers when they found him starving in the streets of Munich, is the brother of Mrs. Sheldon Brenner, 2550 E. 77th st. Mrs. Brenner fled the Hoffman home at Chust, Czechoslovakia, in 1940 to come to the United States. Three sisters and five brothers remained at home.

Yesterday, Capt. Patrick J. Kristy, 7439 Maryland av., who returned home Sunday after three years in Europe as a member of the 925th, met David's sister at Red Cross headquarters, 529 S. Wabash av. He told her that members of the engineers' corps had nursed the boy back to health.

The drugstore set — and the reducing problem

EVEN IF she's pounds overweight, a girl just has to have something to drink, when the gang is ordering chocolate sodas and malteds.

And that's only one problem that faces mothers of tubby teens.

"At fifteen, it's so hard to stick to a diet. What do you suggest?"

"Trouble is, girls go to such extremes. Can you give me a well-balanced diet for adolescents?"

• • •

Questions like these have been coming to us—by the hundreds—from worried mothers.

Fond mothers, proud mothers, anxious mothers, mothers who confessed they had agonized through a too-plump youth themselves—and they weren't going to let their offspring in for that. Not if they could help it!

So they wrote to Good Housekeeping. We got to work.

Happily, we knew a charming fourteen year old named Margie, who'd been struggling unsuccessfully to lose weight.

"Come be our guinea pig?" we suggested. And Margie agreed to collaborate.

The making over of Margie

Margie wore a size 16. Her favorite movie star wore a size 12.

Margie's posture was bad. She stooped, to try to conceal her weight.

Margie's gang hangs out at the drugstore soda fountain. What to do?

Many reducing diets wouldn't give Margie all the proteins, vitamins, and minerals an adolescent needs.

Add to this the fact that chops and steaks, which used to be such an important part of reducing diets, may be hard to get—and you have a neat problem.

Our nutritionists and medical experts put their heads together to solve that problem.

Meantime, the beauty department came up with some practical suggestions for prettifying Margie while she was thinning out. Exercise, grooming, and costume ideas designed to make a girl look slimmer during the reducing process. These met with the approval of both Margie and her mother.

How the pounds vanished

The diet our nutritionists and medical experts finally worked out was a riproaring success.

Margie had plenty to eat—but she ate the right foods. Our diet wasn't faddy or extreme. It included desserts a Junior Miss enjoys—even a special soda-fountain drink, so that a girl could be one of the gang, while thinning out.

It works! Parents are almost as pleased as daughters, when the pesky pounds disappear! And the diet needn't cause short tempers, as the case of Margie proves.

And particularly designed lunch-box menus for school days.

In short, we gave Margie a diet a girl could stick to, without taxing her will power.

And it did take off the pounds! Thirteen of them!

Within two months, Margie was wearing the coveted size 12—and beaming! She was standing with a slim-girl stance. Showing surprising poise, for a fourteen year old, moreover. (Wonderful, what exercise and diet can do!)

If you look in Good Housekeeping for October you'll find before-and-after pictures of Margie—together with the exercise routine that will help. In the same issue there's a question-and-answer page addressed to mothers of "tubby toddlers," to help them nip the "tubby-teen" problem in the bud.

For those of you who can't get a copy of October Good Housekeeping, we have reprinted our reducing routine in a special leaflet. We'll be glad to send it to you for 10¢ postage.

The way we tackled this problem of teen-age reducing is typical of Good Housekeeping procedure. Our experts take such things in their stride. For we're accustomed to study and analyze theories, products, and methods. We make it our business to give them a thoughtful tryout, too.

And the products you see in our advertising columns get the same sort of examination and trial-in-use.

At Good Housekeeping Soda Fountain—an impromptu one we set up just for the purpose—we concocted a drink that the drugstore set could sip—and enjoy! Our experts and taste-testers okayed it for flavor and sip.

Costly? Time-consuming? Yes! But such effort has won us your faith, over the years, so we consider it well worth our while.

To show you how much store we set by your faith we make you this pledge:

That at no time, and not for any reason, or any profit, will any page of Good Housekeeping—editorial or advertising—trade unfairly on your trust.

BAPTISTS SET UP BACK-TO-CHURCH WEEK-END DRIVE

Stadium Rally Monday Seeks Aid for Jews

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

Chicago's religious calendar for this week-end schedules two important city wide events. One is the merger of 34 Baptist churches in a neighborhood visitation program tomorrow afternoon in search for new members and Sunday school pupils. Fifty thousand individual visits may be made. The other is tomorrow's special day of prayer in nearly all synagogs preceding a mass meeting in Chicago Stadium Monday night in behalf of the return of homeless Jews of Europe to Palestine.

The Baptist program is a religious census which is part of a 10 day enlargement campaign conducted under the supervision of Dr. Frank E. Johnston, the program's national director. Dr. Johnston will be assisted by 34 teams of visiting leaders composed of pastors and religious educators from eight midwestern states. These teams, being assigned to the 34 local churches, will in turn organize the local visitors and be responsible for following up their visitations of tomorrow.

It's Back to Church Drive

A principal reason stated for the campaign is that "One of history's greatest population shifts has occurred during the past decade, resulting in loss of contact between church and transient members." The Baptist church has found from experience in this campaign in other principal cities that many prospective members have been found who are eager to come back to church again. A report on the visitation will be made at Second Baptist church Monday night.

Monday night's Stadium mass meeting, planned by the combined Zionist organizations and many other community and fraternal agencies, calls attention to thousands of homeless Jews of Europe—many still in concentration camps—who are still barred by Great Britain from Palestine. Announcements of the mass meeting stated that President Truman put the number of the homeless at 100,000.

Gov. Green to Speak

Protest against England's exclusion of these Jews from Palestine will be voiced by Gov. Green, Senators Brooks and Lucas, Mayor Kelly, Rabbi Solomon Goldman, Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Superior court, and other local and national figures, at the mass meeting. Numerous non-Jewish educational, civic, and church leaders have expressed intention to participate in the protest "as world indignation mounts against what appears to be Great Britain's imminent plan to default on its own frequently expressed assurances made by Winston Churchill and the Labor party to permit the establishment of a Jewish home in Palestine," the announcement stated.

List of Parties for Christmas Season Grows

BY JUDITH CASS

THE Christmas holiday season promises to be the gayest in several years. Added to the many party dates are a tea-dance which Mr. and Mrs. John O. Stoll will give for their daughter, Elizabeth Ann, Dec. 27 in the Woman's Athletic club; a dinner-dance Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wirtz will give for their daughter, Cynthia, Dec. 29 in the Saddle and Cycle club, and a tea Mr. and Mrs. Percy E. Wagner of Flossmoor will give for their daughters, Miss Betty Joy and Miss Mary Louise, in the South Shore Country club during the holidays.

The Misses Wagner are the newest additions to this year's large debutante list. Miss Betty Joy Wagner will be a junior at Vassar college in December. She is studying languages and economics for the foreign service. Her sister is a sophomore at Sweet Briar college, where she also is studying languages and continuing with her dance training. She has danced with the Chicago Opera Company ballet. Both young women expect to study in Switzerland for a part of their 1946-'47 school year.

Miss Stoll attends Manhattanville college. The Wirtzes are introducing their daughter at a tea at home Dec. 22. A third holiday party planned for Miss Wirtz is a luncheon which Miss Helen McNair and her sister, Mrs. Alan Lockard, will give Dec. 27 in the McNair home.

Wedding News

Via the 133d General hospital newspaper in the Philippines, Dr. and Mrs. Gustav L. Kaufmann have learned the details of the marriage of their son, Lt. Robert Kaufmann of the army, and Lt. Grace Morris of the army nurse corps, Sept. 13 on Leyte Island. They know that the bride wore her beige army uniform and carried a white prayer book and gardenias, that Lt. Col. Gustav Kaufmann was his brother's best man, that the altar of the chapel was decorated with white candelabra and white camellias against a green background of woven palm fronds, and that delicate lavendar water hyacinths and palm fronds flanked the altar.

Organ music during the ceremony, a huge wedding cake at the large reception following in the officers' club, and two officiating clergymen, Chaplain Albert Muray and the Rev. Juan I. Pia, Filipino minister, are other details which assure the Kaufmanns that the event was everything a bride could wish. However, they will have to wait for their daughter-in-law's arrival here to learn more about her than the facts that she was born in England, that her family home now is in Philadelphia, and that her father is an Episcopal minister. The new Mrs. Kaufmann is expected to precede her husband to Chicago. Lt. Kaufmann, who attended Northwestern university, and his brother both are stationed on Leyte.

In a quiet ceremony at 4 p. m. yesterday, Mrs. Louise Stanton Clemens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Stanton of Wayne, was married to John Van Nortwick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Van Nortwick of Wayne. A small reception followed in the Dunham Woods Riding club in Wayne. Mr. and Mrs. William Forster came from Erie, Pa., to serve as matron of honor and best man. The bride's three young daughters, Tina, Lyndon, and Lucy Hays, were present at the ceremony, but Mrs. Clemens' brothers were absent. Charles and Henry are away in service, and James Stanton and his wife are in Florida following his release from the navy. It was a second marriage for both Mrs. Clemens, who formerly was married to John Dudley Clemens, and Mr. Van Nortwick, whose first wife was the former Sue Beckwith.

News of Births

When Lt. Comdr. J. Dunham Reilly arrives at home from the Pacific soon he will meet the infant son born Wednesday in Lake Forest hospital to him and the former Louise Blossom. The baby, a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. and of Lt. Col. and Mrs. John R. Reilly, has been named James Kimball. He has a little sister, Sheila.

Mr. and Mrs. Winfield T. Durbin II. [Barbara Gay Hess] are being congratulated on the birth of their second child, a daughter, last Monday in St. Luke's hospital. The baby and her 3 year old brother, John, are grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher McCullough Durbin of Astor st. and of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miner Hess of Wayne.

On the Calendar

A forecast of real Indian summer weather for the week-end is good news to the masters of the Longmeadow Hunt, who postponed the group's hunter trials from Sept. 30 to this Sunday, at the Longmeadow stables in Northbrook. Post entries will be taken up to the time of each event, at the discretion of the masters, according to notices sent out this week to hunting circles. Parking spaces and general admission tickets will be sold at the gate.

Leonard S. Smith Jr., M. F. H. of the Camargo Hunt in Cincinnati, and Mrs. Smith are spending the week-end with Col. and Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence in Winnetka, and Mr. Smith with W. Brock Fuller of Milwaukee will act as judges of the trials. Col. and Mrs. Lawrence are giving a small dinner tonight for the Smiths. The Ernest S. Ballards will entertain at tea following the trials tomorrow. Mr. Ballard and Randall E. Poindexter are joint masters of the Longmeadow Hounds.

Chartered buses will carry loyal Dartmouth supporters to South Bend, Ind., today for the Notre Dame-Dartmouth football game. Before the game Dartmouth alumni will have luncheon in the Chain O'Lakes Country club, and there will be a gathering for cocktails in the Indiana club after the gridiron event. Lewis M. Williams is president of the Dartmouth Alumni Association of Chicago.

The Saturday matinee performances of the Chicago Opera company always have attracted a large attendance of the city's distinguished women, and the current season will prove no exception. Among those who have taken season tickets for the Saturday matinees, and who will be present to hear Gladys Swarthout and Giovanni Martinelli today in "Carmen," are Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, Mrs. Charles C. Wells, Mrs. Conrad Poppenhusen, Mrs. Darrow B. Fulton, and Mrs. Clayton A. Dunham.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Photo Finish

She's finished her filing;
Caught up with the mail;
Her books balance now
Every day without fail.

Her desk is in order
And nothing's amiss;
Her work's up to date—
And on top of all this

She's fixed her apartment—
Re-did it like new;
Bought dresses and hats,
Got a permanent, too.

She's shopping for feminine
Frills every noon;
Her husband, you see,
Is due home very soon.

Special Irk

The special irk about putting one's boss on the wire is also mine. Only I'm on the receiving end.

My employers, two men in high executive positions, make their own calls. But when Mr. Jones' secretary calls, I answer the telephone for my bosses. She asks for Mr. Smith, I put Mr. Smith on the wire and then she asks, "Is this Mr. Smith?" After he says it is, Mr. Jones' secretary answers, "Just a minute." Then while my boss hangs on the line she proceeds to dig up Mr. Jones who, by this time, has gone down the hall or up to another floor on an errand. Meanwhile, my employer's time is being wasted.

"We've even had a secretary tell us, "O, I'm sorry, I've called you on the wrong phone—I'll have to call again." She calls and we go thru the same routine once more. So, even tho it is Mr. Jones' nickel, he should have consideration for the other fellow. W. E. B.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

An In-Law Hits GI Bride's Rush to Get to U. S.

English brides of American soldiers may be panting on the docks in London . . . the soldiers may be frantic in their efforts to get their wives home . . . but there is always another side: this time the in-laws'.

The first hint that it will not be all hearts and flowers when the brides come home came from Mrs. Charles Pleva, 5150 S. Francisco av., yesterday after she read a story about her brother-in-law's bride taking part in a demonstration in London to get passage to the United States.

"My brother-in-law [Pvt. Jerry F. Pleva] is still in France," Mrs. Pleva said. "Is there any chance his wife can reach Chicago before he does? Why doesn't she wait? What's the hurry? And if she thinks she's going to move in here . . . well!"

She said Jerry and his English wife were married about a year ago after he had been in England for a year. Jerry has 83 points and wrote recently, she added, that he expected to be home by Christmas.

"O, I hope she waits!" Mrs. Pleva said. Her husband, Charles, is with the army of occupation in Germany.

However, the other side of the war time marital tangle, which assumed international importance when nearly 1,000 English brides stormed the American embassy in London, is exemplified by John C. Ramsey, 37 year old veteran of 1941 Thornwood av., Wilmette.

Told that his wife, Kathleen—"she looks like Gene Tierney!"—was among the demonstrators, Ramsey gave three cheers and said he hoped such tactics would speed her and their two children to him. "I'm lonely; she's lonely . . . and a man should be with his family," he said.

He indicated that he would spearhead any concerted action that other lonely husbands would join, such as petitions to the President, to congressmen, or to whoever is handling the shipping of war brides to America.

To date the policy has been to give priority to returning GIs, many of whom have wives of long standing here in America. The wives married by the men while overseas have lower priorities.

Mrs. Elmer Long, sister of Sgt. Arthur W. Nelson, 30, of the army air forces, who lives with her husband and daughter in a 12 room house on a farm seven miles west of Elgin, said she will welcome her brother's English wife, Joan, whom he married a year ago.

"She'll be able to help out around the place," Mrs. Long said, "and anyhow it won't be long before Arthur is discharged. We hope it's by Nov. 1. But the sooner she gets here the better."

Nelson is assigned to an air field in New Mexico after serving with the 8th air force.

Issue in Parliament

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Parliament will tackle Monday the problem of British wives of American service men who are demanding transportation to join their husbands in the United States.

New disappointment befell the brides—they say there are 24,000 of them with 20,000 babies—when they learned today that the huge British liners Queen Elizabeth and Aquitania no longer would carry American troops and the prospect of early shipping space for wives became dimmer.

Health Aid Up to Community, Experts Assert

Serious public health problems, such as mortality of women at childbirth, venereal diseases, polio epidemics, and child nutrition, can best be solved thru community programs. This was the consensus of speakers who appeared yesterday at an all day health institute sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. The meeting in the club women's headquarters was arranged by Mrs. Frank J. Christenson, chairman of public health for the federation, in coöperation with the state health department.

"Just as fire fighting and policing, public health programs depend largely upon community coöperation for success," said Dr. Ronald R. Cross, director of the Illinois department of public health. He urged the setting up of full time local health departments in all parts of the state and stressed the importance of arousing interest of individuals of each locality.

Dr. Cross told of tentative plans for construction by the state of five state owned hospitalsf or tuberculous patients at a cost of 4 million dollars, one of them to be located in Cook county.

Ignorance, fear, and an attitude of taboo among individuals constitute the most serious handicaps in eradicating venereal diseases, Dr. Leslie W. Knott, executive officer of the state's venereal disease control division, told the women. In this field, too, he said, best results can be achieved by local health set ups.

The fact that the press and the radio no longer shy away from news concerning venereal diseases is a long step forward in stamping them out, Dr. Knott declared. It is up to each citizen to educate himself concerning control of the diseases, he said, and this program should be accomplished thru coöperation of the church, home, school, and law enforcement agencies.

Dr. Henrietta Herbolsheimer, chief of the maternal and child health division of the state public health department, told the institute that Illinois ranks 14th highest among states in mortality of women at childbrith. She advocated that each county have its own public health nurse as a step in combating the condition.

Thru the Looking Glass

If you do your own manicuring, whether regularly or between beauty shop appointments, there are a few time saving and nail saving pointers to keep in mind.

First and foremost, remember to treat the nails gently and handle tools lightly. Force and pressure can harm the nails and utmost caution should be observed, particularly when working around the cuticle.

Before attempting to trim or push the cuticle back, soften it with a softening preparation or soak the nails well in warm, soapy water. When it feels pliable, lift it up and back with an orange wood stick, being careful never to press down against the base or sides of the nail to free stubborn edges. If you must use clippers or scissors occasionally, don't trim too close to the edge or you're courting sore fingers and possible infection.

In filing the nails avoid getting down into the corners and don't go above the edge of the finger tip at any time. Let the finger tips form a cushion under the nails and they'll be stronger and less apt to break. Use an emery board for filing and shaping the nails in ovals, and be sure to do the filing before soaking the nails or they'll be too soft and you might file away more than you intended to.

Polish can be removed quickly by holding a piece of cotton moistened with remover firmly against the nail for a second to soften the polish. It will come off more readily and with less smearing than by swishing an excessive amount of remover around until polish and remover drip messily all over the fingers.

To apply polish evenly and easily plant the hand firmly on a steady surface and apply a light coat first, and after it's dry a second, heavier coat. Wipe the tip of the nail with the thumb to draw a fine line around the edge and clean up any overflow at the sides with an orange wood stick dipped in remover. LOUISE DOOLEY

"Trovatore" Makes It Sounds More Like an Opera Season Over on Wacker Drive

"IL TROVATORE"

Opera with music by Giuseppe Verdi, book by Salvatore Cammanaro. Presented in Italian by the Chicago Opera company in the Civic Opera house Friday evening, Oct. 12, 1945.

Leonora	Selma Kaye
Azucena	Margery Mayer
Manrico	Kurt Baum
Count di Luna	Leonard Warren
Ferrando	Virgilio Lazzari
Ines	Inge Manski
Ruiz	Lodovico Oliviero
Conductor	Nicholas Resigno [debut]

Altho it never fused into true brilliance and often promised more than it delivered, last night's "Il Trovatore" held enough interesting things to suggest that we may yet have an opera season over on Wacker dr. There were some first rate second rate artists, as Mary Garden used to call them, a couple who are on their way to better things, and there was at least one who has been a first rate first rate artist for at least 20 years to my knowledge, and I'm not talking Gertrude Stein. I'm talking Virgilio Lazzari, who is the best Ferrando in the business. His voice is a superb bass in the grand style and he is a versatile actor who would be appearing in his greatest role, Archibaldo in "L'Amore dei Tre Re," if I owned an opera company.

Alongside his quiet authority, a hangover from the lustrous days with Raisa, Muzio, Martinelli, and Formichi, the others in Fausto Cleva's troupe had their ups and downs. Altho Selma Kaye is my nomination for the coming dramatic soprano, she did not arrive in full triumph last night. Nor was any one surprised who knows the trials of singing Leonora, a lady of whom Verdi demands not only a soaring voice of exquisite color, which Miss Kaye possesess, but also the most complete vocal finesse, of which she is still in pursuit. The fioriture of the first act was not up to topflight standard, and Miss Kaye can not be content with less. But the glory of that voice, plangent, glistening, spectacular in range and volume, is going to explode over opera some of these days with international impact. I hope I am there when it happens.

Leonard Warren, the evening's Luna, probably owns the most sumptuous baritone now heard in opera, and tho he belongs to the stand still and sing school, he has the height and general appearance to make an imposing figure on the stage. But last night he did himself scarcely more than half vocal justice. That big thick baritone seemed to lie sluggish in his throat, lowering "Il Balen" from its customary brilliance, and emerging only now and then in flashes of splendor deep piled as the richest velvet.

Kurt Baum, the Manrico, is by no means the world's greatest tenor, and his sense of pitch is far from impeccable, but he was in excellent voice and did some of the best singing he has achieved here. The offstage serenade went well, tho it sounded covered, but some of his later singing was pure and clear in a style that would make him famous if he could sustain it. In the scene sacred to tenors, he sang the love song well and took "Di quella pira" by a last minute rush that came off.

Margery Mayer, who substituted for Bruna Castagna, sang the gypsy Azucena well, because she has been carefully trained and she has a beautiful voice. But she lacked the crest of authority to give the role its full stature either in vocal command or distilled venom. The general stage picture was adequate, and the young conductor, Nicholas Rescigno, rather more than that. He not only has talent, but undeniable flair. "Il Trovatore" is one of the bugbears of the repertory from the conductor's point of view and he solved many of its problems. He has a sense of momentum and a gift for lyricism, and he might even be dramatic if the orchestra would wake up and play. Much of the evening it was almost inaudible.

A Knit Dress Is as Attractive as It's Versatile

BY REA SEEGER

Travelers and football enthusiasts acclaim a good looking knit dress or costume. These are comfortably warm, fit with ease, never wrinkle, and fit nicely into trunks and suitcases. Since they're warm, come in stunning fall colors, and look smart under tweed toppers or thick fur coats, they're the special delight of the grandstand crowd. Good looking knits are likewise accorded a welcome by the women who live in the country, and by the many women who live in rooms and houses that are difficult to heat.

Beautiful hand knits, to be found in a newly unpacked collection in a smart Chicago shop, have some of the most flattering clear, bright colors imaginable. Bright jade green, a chartreuse, three shades of blue—light, French, and navy—a stunning russet color, one of the best neutral cinnamon tones, and a couple of reds assure a wide and easy choice. If you crave pastels there is a flattering pale pink that would be most effective with mink coats or jackets, a subtle dress parade pink.

There are one piece dresses and the popular two-piecers of skirt and jacket top. The one piece dresses have the swank shirtwaist silhouette, with the belt of the same hand knit as the rest of the dress. Skirts are cleverly made, with ribbed stitch so as to flare around the hemline. Blouse tops have contrasting and decorative patterns to make the most of the contrast. Long sleeves promise comfort, and a row of decorative gold metal buttons adds the right glint to complete the dash of the costume. Prices are anything but modest, but each and every costume is worth every penny on the price tag, because they're guaranteed not to bulge, wrinkle, or sag; besides every stitch is hand purled and knitted.

"Rumor Had It"

By Christopher Hale

(Copyright, 1945, by Mrs. Frances Stephens)

INSTALMENT XXX.

IDENTIFICATION

Lt. French came to meet them. Mr. Izenga, looking past him, saw a heap of dark clothes on the ground. This was not a woman. Not Erica!

"I want you to tell me if you have ever seen this man before, Mr. Izenga," French said. "You too, Harrison."

They went forward. The police doctor who had been kneeling by the body, stood up and nodded to Mr. Izenga.

Mr. Izenga gulped, "I . . . I can't be sure. I think this is the young man who came to see me . . . the drug clerk. If I could see his right ear . . . yes . . . it's the same. And his nose. Yes, it's the same type of nose. I . . . uh . . . took particular note of them."

French turned to Harrison:

"You saw the drug clerk, I believe?"

"Yes. I let him in. I am positive this is the man."

Mr. Izenga murmured, "I suppose his name is not Barker? That was the one he gave me."

"No. It's Ed Simpkins. He is a clerk in the drug store in this village. The owner of the drug store is seldom there. Ed ran it. Unluckily he did not confide in any one about the buyer of the chloral hydrate. At least, no one has come forward with such information. It simply means another person has died and his evidence is lost. What's worse, it must have been the right dope or Simpkins wouldn't have been killed to keep it quiet."

Mr. Izenga said, "But how could the . . . uh . . . criminal know this fellow had called on me and offered to sell me his secret? Nobody was at my house, and I haven't told any one." He glanced at Harrison.

"You know I never talk about your affairs, Mr. Izenga."

French sighed. "Well it's possible the poor devil got in touch with the criminal himself, and tried to raise the ante."

Harrison had been thinking. "Lieutenant, if you find a suit of bright blue clothes and a hat about the same shade in this man's rooms, it's positive he is the fellow we saw. There couldn't be two suits like that, I hope."

The lieutenant nodded appreciatively. "That's a good point."

The police doctor was of the opinion that the victim had died in the early morning, between the hours of 2 and 4. Just the time of Mrs. Pomeroy's death!

There had been considerable spade work done by the police since 7 that morning. The body had been found by a young man out for a stroll with his dog.

It was decided, by the police, that there had been a meeting between the victim and his killer somewhere near the gate and that the crime had very likely taken place there. The body had then been taken, perhaps in a car, to this remote spot and tossed down.

The villagers contended the killer must have been a stranger, for any town person would have known that this glen was a favorite spot for picnics, especially on Sunday.

Mr. Izenga did not get home until 3:30. As his car turned in his drive, he saw Erica's maroon coupe parked near the porch.

Remembering that this was the car Erica had lent or perhaps given to Newcomb, Mr. Izenga's first throb of pleasure gave way to annoyance.

The coupe door flew open, banged shut, and Toby Newcomb shot up the porch steps as if fired from a gun. His eyes burned wildly in a face as near white as its tan would allow. He seized Mr. Izenga by his sore arm.

"Where is she? What have you done with her?" he demanded. "Where have you taken her?"

"Erica! Erica?"

"Of course. Who else could I mean? Tell me where you have taken her."

"But I haven't seen her." Mr. Izenga's teeth jiggled together in terror. "Is she missing?" He gave a little moan. "My arm, please."

Harrison came toward them, menacingly. But before he could pull Newcomb's hand from Mr. Izenga's arm, it fell of its own accord. Newcomb leaned over and stared into Mr. Izenga's eyes.

"If you're lying to me, heaven help you," he whispered.

Mr. Izenga was too far gone to care about quibbling. He said, "Let's not waste time misunderstanding one another, Newcomb. I know nothing about it. Come in. Tell me what happened. Maybe I can think of something."

Mr. Izenga sat in his library while the shelves of books seemed to swim round and round like a whirlpool trying to suck him down. Thru a blur he saw Newcomb's face with its anguished eyes.

"She's been gone hours. No one knows how long. Pliny has been trained to let any one sleep late if they want to. Erica always is up early, but he thought this was an exception. I'm not blaming the poor old man. He's about crazy, as it is."

Harrison came in with whisky and soda, but Newcomb waved it aside.

Mr. Izenga would have put Newcomb down for a man accustomed to carry any amount of liquor. But when Harrison reached the door, Newcomb said, "But if I could have a cup of black coffee and a few crackers . . ."

Mr. Izenga wondered when his visitor had eaten last. There was a sort of gaunt ferocity in his face that must be partly due to hunger.

Newcomb was continuing his account in a voice too tight to be unsteady.

"At 11:30, Pliny knocked at Erica's door and went into her room. It was not locked. Imagine! All that time! He could have looked into her room hours before. But I can't blame him. I was waiting for her, myself. We were to have breakfast together at the inn. Finally Pliny called me. It was 12. I went out there and tore the place apart. She wasn't in her room. The bed had been slept in. And that poor sap, Bennet, was just getting up. He said we were fools to get in a panic about her. He said she'd just run over to one of the neighbors, and stayed to breakfast."

Newcomb's opinion was further amplified by his brutal expression. Harrison came in with a tray of sandwiches, coffee and sliced peaches.

After a gesture offering it to his host, Newcomb fell on the food and put it down with dispatch. He had reached the place where hunger was interfering with his efficiency. So he satisfied it as one refuels a needed machine.

"We looked over the house from top to bottom. Then we did the garage, outbuildings and grounds. The gardeners aren't there Sundays, but I got them, anyway. We couldn't find any trace of her in the grounds or near-by woods. Her car wasn't gone . . . that new yellow coupe."

Newcomb swallowed half of a third cup of strong black coffee. He was looking better.

Hard shelled winter squashes are replacing the thin skinned summer beauties like the patty pan and yellow crookneck. Summer squashes we ate with skin and seeds, but the winter varieties must be seeded, and their shells are too rugged for chewing.

Most common now is the little acorn squash, dark green of skin, bright golden of flesh. One of these little squashes serves two, split endwise or cross-wise. Since squash on the halfshell is decorative, this vitamin rich vegetable is more frequently served in its skin than out of it. It may be baked with a stuffing or without. If unstuffed, I suggest leaving the seeds in until just before serving, in order to keep the flesh moist.

Baking time for squash halves ranges from 45 to 60 minutes in a 350-375 degree oven. The most popular stuffing is bulk sausage. Links and bacon are other fat meat choices. It is well to cook some of the fat out of sausages before stuffing the squash cavities, a procedure unnecessary with bacon.

Half a baking apple, brushed with butter and sprinkled with brown sugar may be placed in each squash half. You may even stuff the apple half with a slice of bacon or sausage link, making a three in one dinner special out of the squash.

Squash Baked with Cream

Here's a rather unusual treatment for the little squashes. Pierce the flesh in several places with the tines of a fork, and fill cavities with cream. Bake until tender, then loosen the pulp and mix it lightly with the cream, adding salt and pepper and topping with grated cheese. Return to the oven to melt the cheese and brown.

Mashed Squash

Bake or steam squash for mashing, whether it's the acorn kind or large Hubbard squash which you've hacked into pieces. A seasoning of salt, pepper, and butter is all that's necessary, but some cooks love a little brown sugar, molasses, or maple sirup in addition, and others like the fruit flavor of orange or pineapple juice, even adding diced orange or crushed pineapple on occasion. A dash of nutmeg often is relished in mashed squash.

Squash make a good soup, too. Here's a good recipe.

Squash Soup
[Serves six]

2 cups strained baked or steamed squash
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, chopped
2 tablespoons flour
1 quart chicken stock or bouillon
1 cup cream
Salt, pepper
1 teaspoon sugar

Cook onion lightly in butter, add flour, blend, and add stock gradually, stirring to keep smooth. Add squash pulp, seasonings, and simmer for a few minutes. Add cream and heat just to boiling point before serving.

Another way to make a similar squash soup is to cook the squash in bouillon or stock until tended, strain it with the cooking liquid, and thin with milk or cream, adding a little brown sugar and nutmeg with the salt and pepper.

Squash pie may be made exactly like pumpkin pie, and is just as good.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"How can powdered milk be used and in what proportions?"

Powdered milk can be substituted for fluid milk in any recipe. Four tablespoons powdered milk plus 1 cup water equals 1 cup fluid milk. In recipes which use a large amount of dry ingredients the milk powder can be sifted with the flour using the necessary amount of water as the liquid.

"Can sirup be used in place of sugar in making marmalade?"

Best results will be obtained if only one-third of the sugar is replaced with sirup. It is wise, if using sirup, to seal the jars with regular canning seals and to process in the boiling water bath for 15 minutes as an added precaution against fermentation.

"What causes curdling in tomato soup?"

The acidity of tomatoes combined with milk, overheating, and prolonged cooking of the soup sometimes cause curdling. If a cream sauce is made first, the tomato puree added slowly [stirring constantly], and the soup removed from the heat as soon as it's hot, curdling shouldn't occur.

"Is there any safe test such as the 'silver spoon' for distinguishing edible mushrooms from the poisonous species?"

Absolutely no. There is no sure test that will enable the inexperienced to distinguish them. The only way to know whether a mushroom is edible, is to learn to recognize the different species.

THE QUESTION

What is the most unusual breakfast you have served to a customer?

WHERE ASKED

The Corner House restaurant, 100 E. Ohio st.

THE ANSWERS

Marie Stange, hostess, 1127 Dunlap av., Forest Park—A magician named Chop Chop didn't know what he wanted for breakfast, but said he wanted something fancy and high-class. He finally settled upon caviar sandwiches. I fixed some for him and he ate three of them. He came back later for more caviar.

Edith Hansen, 3434 S. Leavitt st.—When it's early in the morning and a man says, "Give me one scrambled egg and one fried egg with an order of marinated herring," you wonder whether you're hearing right or if that's what he means. I brought what he ordered, tho. Maybe he believes that variety is the spice of life.

Harriet Volakakis, 4353 Flournoy st.—One chubby man glanced at the menu and said, "I want two ice cream sundaes—one of each kind of whatever you have." The next time he came in he said, "Give me three butterscotch sundaes." I lined them up and he ate every bit. That's a cool breakfast!

Fay Wesling, 1317 Ritchie ct.—A customer of ours who has been eating here for several years often orders boiled mackerel with lemon butter and boiled potatoes. I won't say that it isn't good, but as the saying goes, "There's a time and place for everything." Of course, it's his breakfast and not mine.

Lucille Warren, 1911 Dayton st.—It isn't the kind of breakfast that makes this seem unusual to me, it's the quantity. A soldier ordered orange juice, oatmeal, bacon and eggs, toast, wheat cakes, and three cups of coffee. Many of the boys eat large breakfasts, but this is the largest order I have ever taken.

Helen Vargo, 5240 Sheridan rd.—Here it's not uncommon for customers to order spaghetti with meat sauce and a salad bowl for breakfast. Many of them have steaks, too. I couldn't do that myself, but apparently it agrees with them because they keep coming back for more. I prefer breakfast menus in the morning.

Labor's Lunch Is Hardest Hit by Meat Slash

The workman who carries a lunch box, with meat sandwiches the main item of diet, will be the principal sufferer from the government's order to packers to set aside major portions of their lower grade meats for shipment to foreign nations. The order goes into effect tomorrow.

Chicago packing houses and the American Meat institute said yesterday that prime, choice, and good carcasses, which provide the housewife with the best grades of roasts and steaks, are not affected by the new order, and these cuts should be as plentiful as heretofore.

The workman's lunch box fare will be severely affected by the government set-aside of 50 per cent of canner and cutter grades of beef, because these grades are used for making weiners, sausages, canned meat spreads, and other sandwich fillers. One packing house estimated that the result of the order will be a 25 per cent reduction in sandwich meats during the next three months.

The Chicago office of the war food administration said the new order will not decrease the amount of quality meat cuts to be sold over civilian counters this year. It is estimated the supply of all meats will be 148 pounds per capita this quarter, which is 30 per cent higher than the third quarter supply and 28 per cent higher than the amount sold to housewives in April, May, and June.

Other grades of beef affected by the new order are commercial and utility types. About 28 per cent of the beef to be marketed in the next 90 days will be commercial grade, which is the lowest grade of beef now requiring the surrender of ration points, and 30 per cent of this type beef will be set aside for overseas shipment.

Utility grade beef goes directly to the packing houses from western grass lands, and gets no finishing grain feed. Forty per cent of this type beef, now unrationed, also will be held from civilian markets as a result of the new order.

Help Teen-Age Girls to Adjust, Mothers Told

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Are you cherishing a social ideal of your teen-age daughter being the most popular girl in her crowd? If so, and your daughter is not that kind, this article is for you, and it might be helpful for your daughter to read it too, so she can put up a little "sales resistance" to the emphasis on "how to be popular."

Girls in their teens are being deluged with printed advice these days on how to be popular. I have a suspicion that there are many mothers of daughters who read these articles, too.

My reason for thinking this is that there are so many mothers who have a real ambition to see their daughters the center of a cluster of boys and girls. But sometimes they only succeed in making their girls feel inadequate because they are not popular. A very bad result.

What is needed is some sort of perspective on this thing which should make their conclusions something like this:

"Of course I want my daughter to be adjusted to life. I want her to get along with people, young and older. I want her to have real friends.

"But I know that all girls can't be what is known as popular. If I work for her popularity as an important thing, it's a rather empty chase and makes for a lopsided slant on life. A girl can be happy and normally adjusted without being surrounded constantly by a flock of young persons. She may be the kind who always will have a few close friends rather than a horde of acquaintances.

"Besides, the popular girl is not by any means the one who attracts the most interesting boys, nor is she always the one who makes the finest marriage. Many attractive and intelligent young men don't want to be one of a crowd when it comes to being serious about a girl.

"I intend to do everything I can to encourage my daughter to mingle with groups, to learn to dance, to smooth out her manners, to make the most of her looks, and to make her home attractive to her friends. But this is not all of life. In addition, I want to help her to live a full personal life, to develop any talent she may possess, to let her see the world [either near-by or to travel], to open her mind and heart to music and books, and to make our family life of interest and consequence to her. Even if she goes thru a boy-crazy phase or yearns for popularity, I want to keep these aims in mind for her."

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 12—Ginger Rogers had 150 cows on her Oregon ranch, but sold them when a training camp closed up there, then made a profit on her grain this year. Mother Lela tells me Ginger's next will be "The Gibson Girl," but she doesn't believe it will get going until the middle of next year. . . . Hal Schuster and Joan Harwood of the WRENS finally did it—wove a story about our fellows who married British girls, then had to come home without them. It's called "Honeymoon Ship." . . . Col. Philip Cochran, that good natured model for "Terry and the Pirates," is visiting here and heads of three studios are trying to persuade him to make his stay permanent. . . . Remember Actor Leif Erikson? He was once married to Frances Farmer. Leif's done an outstanding navy job, is chief movie camera man on the U. S. S. Missouri, and will steam into New York harbor on her Oct. 27. . . . Paul Kelly's friends are rejoicing over his success in "Beggars Are Coming to Town." . . . Dan Duryea will play a rootin'-tootin' Robin Hood in R. K. O.'s "Come On Along," the Joan Davis-Eddie Canter starring picture.

We Wonder About This One

This goes under "we've heard everything now." Scuttlebutt has it that the makers of "The Robe" have completed a deal with a Bible company in Chicago to reprint that best seller, using colored photographs thruout of the actors who will play in "The Robe." . . . Dick Haymes had some photographs taken of himself sitting on his horse. He killed all but one of the shots—his horse didn't photograph well. . . . Moss Hart has the kind of deal authors dream about. He'll write and direct a picture at Twentieth Century for a paltry $350,000, plus ten per cent of what the picture grosses. The picture could lose money—but Mr. Hart, never.

Louis Is a Happy Boss

Busher's boss, Louis B. Mayer, actually took time out to shout about Clark Gable, Greer Garson, and Joan Blondell in "Adventure." "Nothing strange about it," says Louis. "It's just one of the most solid pictures we've ever turned out." And I said, "Yes, and it didn't cost much money either." "No, only three million," cracked Louis. Shucks, Busher could pay for that in one season. . . . I love this one. Frank Fay in his leaner days attended a little side street church in New York, but after "Harvey's" success he lent his presence to the Fifth av. cathedral. An old pal ran into him and said, "Frank, the father misses you very much." Frank said, "Does he, now? Well, will you tell him that he can announce I will be there for the 9 o'clock mass a week from Sunday." You can take the man out of the rabbit, but can you take the rabbit out of the man?

She Has Them Here Too

Pat Smart out of "Ten Little Indians" and into her Bel Air home for a giant supper party next Thursday. . . . Got a coolie hat from the South Pacific with this note from Barron Polan: "This type hat is worn by everybody who is nobody in the Philippines. The catch is—you have to wear it." Have I got friends! . . . Gene Fowler and E. H. Griffith will produce "Good Night, Sweet Prince," and Laurence Olivier is putting in a plea to play it. . . . On Monday Mervyn Leroy will be 45 and starts his 55th picture. An awful lot of water's gone under the bridge since his first one—"Harold Teen." Arthur [Dagwood] Lake was Harold, Mary Brian his sweetheart, and, heaven help me, I was the blonde heavy. Now Mervyn begins "Thanks, God, I'll Take It from Here." He's been takin' it for lots of years. . . . "The Trouble with Women" is having retake trouble. As I remember, we had a little difficulty with Connie Bennett's first picture, "What's Wrong with Women," too. Say, wouldn't that make a good title for the story of Tommy Manville's life?

V-Mail Love Puts Stars in Girl's Eyes

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

A good man these days is still hard to find. So many a gal, in high school and well past that stage, has found herself a heart interest by striking up a friendship by mail, a sort of love-by-letter arrangement. And most often, the other end of the friendship is a GI, a fellow far away and just lonesome enough to find this kind of make believe interesting, too.

on the SOLID side

The boy and gal may be old friends who got to be better friends thru those weekly letters, but in some cases they were simply introduced by mail, got to know each other by mail, and began to hold hands by mail—without even having said one face-to-face "hello"! And when this verbal friendship is mistaken for real love—well, there's disappointment brewing for some one.

Here's the story of one V-mail female who has gone so far [or is so far gone] as to let letters from a stranger take the place of Friday night dates:

"For the last eight months I have been writing to a boy overseas. I have never met him but he is the cousin of a friend of mine and I feel that I know him very well. We write to each other every week and from our letters have discovered we have so much in common. He is 23 and I am 16, and tho I have never actually said so, I have tried to give him the impression that I am near his own age. I have come to like him very much and no longer go out with boys my own age because of this strong feeling. Altho he has never written anything definite, I believe he likes me, too, and wants me to wait for him . . ."

Why not put the check on these feelings till the boy puts something of his own personal thoughts down in black and white? Or better still, just wait till you see the boy, discover if you really are close friends or if this great attachment is just paper-talk. You're a romantic young character and he's far away, so perhaps you aren't reading the truth because of the stars in your eyes. It's fun to get letters, but let your common sense be the censor of what you're trying to read between the lines.

Ellen M., Chicago—When a splatter of salad oil has left a spot on a garment I can usually remove it by putting the stained cloth between cleaning tissues and then pressing with a warm iron. Or I dust cornstarch over the spot, let it absorb the oil, and then brush off.

Mrs. Ella S., Indianapolis, Ind.—It is easy to remove "kinks" from old yarn if you wind it in a loose skein and let it stand for a minute or two in luke warm water. Then hang it up to dry. After this treatment the yarn reknits as if it were new.

Mrs. Rob A., Chicago—To prolong the life of your electric iron cord never wrap it around the iron until it is quite cool. Insulation can scorch or the cord can crack in course of time from the heat of even a "fairly warm" iron.

Mrs. Fred A., St. Paul, Minn.—When weather gets extremely cold we nail sections of insulating board over our basement windows on north and west sides of house.

BRITISH PROFIT ON GIFT PARCELS TO OWN PEOPLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Oct. 12—The British are profiting on war time gifts to their own citizens, Acting Postmaster General Frederick Jones disclosed today. Food parcels sent from New Zealand to Britons during war time rationing formerly weighed seven pounds, Jones said, but were cut to five pounds at the food ministry's request under the policy of holding down benefits in rationed goods for special classes.

However, the British demanded postal charges equivalent to the old rate on the seven pound parcel, and New Zealand's representations for a lower level were turned aside.

Today a New Zealander still pays 53 cents postage on a five pound parcel, of which the British government and shipping companies receive 37 cents, leaving this country barely enough to cover collection and dispatch to shipping points, Jones said. Representations begun here have drawn no reply.

SEDATIVE FAILS TO END NAVAL MARITAL TANGLE

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 12 (AP)—Discharged from a hospital as "out of danger," Mrs. Claire Earlywine-Burnett today was confronted with a complex marital tangle which developed as her first navy husband returned from a Japanese prison camp. Meanwhile, she had married one of his former shipmates.

Virgil Earlywine [top] and R. E. Burnett

The former navy nurse, 32, received hospital treatment yesterday for an overdose of sedatives she took Wednesday. This followed a conference with her two husbands, which apparently developed no solution to their problem.

She said she remarried because she thought her first husband was dead.

Her first husband is Chief Gunner's Mate Virgil Earlywine and the second is R. E. Burnett, also a navy chief petty officer.

Police Officer Harold J. Bell, said Mrs. Burnett told him she had taken an overdose of sedative because "as long as somebody has to be hurt, it might as well be me. . . . I didn't want to give either one of them up."

OPA FINES MAN FOR ACCEPTING HOUSE 'REWARD'

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 12 [Special]—The office of price administration district office here today said it had levied a penalty of $50 against Oliver W. Angell, Cedar Rapids landlord, for accepting a $25 reward from Mrs. Carl J. Blair of Cedar Rapids for renting a house to her.

Mrs. Blair was so anxious to obtain a house that she advertised she would pay $25 to any person who would tell her where she could rent one. Angell, who had a house to rent, saw the advertisment, offered her the house, and collected the $25 after she signed the lease.

"Accepting the reward money constituted a violation of OPA rent ceilings," said Walter Kline, state APO director. He added that the government will not refund the $25 to Mrs. Blair because she was at fault for having offered it in the first place. Reports from Cedar Rapids were to the effect that Mrs. Blair, satisfied with her house, is not interested in a refund.

CANADA SLASHES PERSONAL INCOME TAXES 16 PER CENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 12—Sixteen per cent reduction in personal income tax, effective Oct. 1, was announced tonight by J. L. Ilsley, minister of finance, in his budget for the fiscal year, ending next March 31.

He also announced abolition of the 10 per cent war exchange tax against imports from nonsterling countries. Applied in 1940 for the purpose of increasing revenues, and curtailing nonessential, nonwar imports, it would have acted in the post-war period as a 10 per cent tariff against imports.

Other tax reductions include reduction of the 100 per cent excess profits tax on 1946 profits, with substantial concessions under the excess profits tax to small businesses. Exemption from the eight per cent sales tax for all machinery and apparatus used directly in the process of manufacturer or production of goods is a feature of the budget. Canadian tourists returning to Canada henceforth may bring in $100 worth of goods from the United States without payment of duties.

SENATE GROUP O. K.'s CREATION OF ATOMIC BODY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—The interstate commerce committee today approved a resolution by Sen. McMahon [D., Conn.] to create a nine member special committee to handle all atomic legislation. The committee, consisting of five Democrats and four Republicans, would be appointed by the senate's presiding officer, Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.].

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said action on the resolution may be sought in the senate Monday. The bill was amended in committee to limit the life of the special committee to the 79th congress, which ends in January, 1947.

Senate approval of McMahon's proposal would permit the members to lift an administration atomic control bill out of a parliamentary jam where it has been snagged since last week.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Oct. 12—Jimmy Londos, who still finds wrestling a profitable profession along the Pacific coast, is the father of a new born daughter, his third. . . . The Illinois Athletic club's amateur boxing meet, whose winners compete in THE TRIBUNE'S annual Golden Gloves tournaments, will be resumed next January, Johnny Behr, assistant manager of the I. A. C., has announced. . . . It was interrupted in 1943 when Johnny, then athletic director, joined the army. . . . Paul Runyan, former national professional golf champion, will forsake the tournament circuit soon to devote his full time to his costume jewelery business in California. . . . Mobile, Ala., citizens have raised $500,000 toward building a sports stadium seating 30,000. . . . Their objective is an annual national high school championship football game a few days before the Sugar bowl contest in New Orleans. . . . Racing Secretary Julius Reeder of the New Orleans Fairgrounds has announced a winter stakes schedule which includes five events for purses totaling $75,000. . . . Everybody seems to be trying to find a job for Gabby Hartnett. . . . Now he's being mentioned as the next manager of the New Orleans Pelicans of the Southern association. . . . Ralph Chmurski, former Marquette university fencer, who was over Normandy on D-day as a navigator on an army bomber, is the new secretary of the school's alumni association. . . . William Helis, owner of Travis stakes, Dixie and Saratoga handicap winners, is said to have offered to call the flip of a coin, double or nothing, with a General Motors executive, for a horse valued at $125,000. . . . The offer was refused. . . .

Bobby Jones is reported doing very well in promoting sales of a popular soft drink in South America. . . . Babe Herman says his 15 year old son will be a major league slugger, too, within five years or so. . . . The youngster is starring on Southern California sandlots. . . . Milwaukee fans and baseball officials are burning these days because two articles in national magazines referred to their Brewers as a link in the Cubs' farm chain. . . . President Bill Veeck says there is absolutely no financial connection between the two clubs. . . . The Brewers' sale of stars to the Athletics, White Sox, Braves, and other big league clubs in the last few years bears out the claim. . . . Dr. Richard J. J. Rohde, Cincinnati Reds trainer, has just completed his 11th season with the club, and his assistant, Larry McManus, has been around for 20 years. . . . Eric Tipton, Red outfielder, has gone back to coaching the William and Mary college football team. . . . Guard Jerry Worcester and Half Back Paul Glasener of the Marquette university football team entertain the boys on long train rides with harmonica-jews harp duets.

Jazbo's Journal

In the Voice of the People there recently appeared a letter from a party signed "June" in which the writer came right out in meeting and placed the full blame of the recent World war right smack dab and squarely on the shoulders of Napoleon. "Well, anyhow," commented Ernie Kretz, "that's a change if nothing else."

A scheduled performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was recently banned by the authorities in Bridgeport, Conn. Land sakes, looks like some of those eastern towns might catch up with "Lena Rivers" and "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" any year now.

Arch, are you listenin'? When I autograph one of my Yearbooks, I usually sign it and then write the year. Yesterday afternoon when I was performing this stint in the book department of a Dubuque store, two ladies, it would seem, were looking over my shoulder, because just after I'd written: "Jazbo—'45." I distinctly heard one woman say to the other: "Good heavens, he's older than THAT, isn't he? I wonder just who he thinks he's kidding." Are you dying?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

New York, Oct. 12—The University of Michigan's youthful football squad swept into New York early this morning to make final preparations for the battle tomorrow afternoon in Yankee stadium with undefeated Army. These young men have come on a mission which probably requires far more experience and maturity than they possess, but 65,000 will see the game despite the consensus that Army is easily the better squad.

In two victories Army has gained almost 750 yards from scrimmage and five of the seven Michigan linemen, who will face this power, are 17 year old freshmen. Here is sufficient reason, in all probability, why the Wolverines should not entertain victory hopes seriously, but Head Coach Fritz Crisler told his reception committee of sports writers today, "Michigan didn't come all this way to play dead. We'll give Army a battle."

Top Game in Sector

Crisler is no new hand in the eastern sector of collegiate football. His success as director of Princeton's football teams from 1933 until he was employed by Michigan still is a bright chapter in the Tigers' history. Here also is a reason why the footloose sports fan prefers to attend the Michigan-Army game instead of the competing attraction between Yale and Columbia.

Michigan's reputation for having soundly coached teams offsets to some degree acknowledged inexperience, so Crisler's words today have been accepted at full value.

"We have a good freshman team," he said candidly. "It's very good considering age and it should improve steadily. We didn't play well against Indiana, but the boys kept their heads in last week's game with Northwestern after Dick Conners scored on a long run. They came back to gain control. We'll do our best and that may make it interesting for Army."

Cadet Corps to See Game

Michigan checked in at the Concourse Plaza hotel and shortly after lunch visited Yankee stadium for a brief drill which merely reviewed the fundamentals of football. The Wolverines were followed by the Cadets who came in from the Knollwood Country club at White Plains, N. Y. Army brought 38 players. The corps of 2,600 cadets will arrive in the morning and parade to the stadium.

While return of Art Renner, end, and Bob Derleth, tackle, has strengthened Michigan's line, the loss of John Lintol, guard, by injury offsets this.

Michigan's attack, which centers around Capt. Joe Ponsetto, is said to concern Col. Earl Blaik, army coach.

Walter Teninga, 17 year old freshman from Chicago, or Pete Elliott, Bloomington, Ill., may start at left half back altho Michigan has Jack Weisenburger, a letterman, available for the position. Warren Bentz has been nominated for the other half back spot but here, too, there are competent replacements. Dan Dworsky, altho only 17, has proved himself at full back where his 206 pounds are used as threat when Ponsetto shifts to an air attack.

On defense, Michigan will face two of the best backs in the nation, Glen Davis and Felix [Doc] Blanchard. No team has stopped them in two years but Michigan's young men hope to have more success.

MARQUETTE AND KANSAS STATE BATTLE TONIGHT

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 12—The Marquette university Hilltoppers, beaten in their first three games, make their home debut tomorrow night against Kansas State, a member of the Big Six conference, in what promises to be a battle of the air lanes.

The Hilltoppers, coached by the veteran Tom Stidham, will be attempting to improve on the 5 to 4 edge which they hold over L. C. [Lud] Fiser's outfit from Manhattan, Kas., and at the same time protect their coach's record of four consecutive victories over Kansas State while he directed the Oklahoma university Sooners in his Big Six coaching days.

Five Freshmen Start

The starting Marquette eleven, which lost to Purdue, 14 to 13; Wisconsin, 40 to 13, and Villanova, 6 to 0, again probably will include five freshmen and six veterans, with Tackle Eddie Castans, Guards George Geers and Jerry Kwilosz, Quarter Back Bill Hickey, and Full Back Denny Pantziaff as the newcomers. Veterans who probably will start include Ends Carl Kaminski and Orlando Palesse, tho the latter may give way to Dick Scherer because of a sore arm; Tackle Frank Romeo, Center Bob Fritz, and Half Backs Johnny Rudan and Paul Copoulos.

Kansas State will present a young, fast, and rugged squad which thus far has defeated the University of Wichita and lost to the Olathe [Kas.] Navy eleven.

It's Fiser's First Year

Fiser, the Wildcats' coach, took over the varsity reins this fall after several successful seasons as a high school coach in Kansas. As a left half back, Fiser was a star on the Kansas State eleven of 1929.

Bearing the brunt of Kansas State's wing back attack will be four letter men in the starting lineup with a fine group of freshman stars. The Wildcats are especially proud of their forward passing tricks and will use a freshman tosser, Half Back Ted Grimes, whom Fiser coached in high school last year at Manhattan, Kas.

CAHILL RETURNS TO NOTRE DAME AS TICKET CHIEF

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12 [Special]—The Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C. S. C., vice president of the University of Notre Dame, today appointed M. Robert Cahill as ticket manager of the Athletic association. Cahill, recently discharged from the navy with the rank of full lieutenant, returns to the same position he held when he enlisted three years ago.

A native of Dixon, Ill., Cahill was graduated from Notre Dame in 1934. He spent 18 months in the South Pacific including several months on the staff of Rear Adm. Audrey W. Fitch, U. S. N., the new superintendent of the naval academy. Cahill will assume his duties on Monday.

Columbus, O., Oct. 12—Ohio State will be trying to make it a dozen straight victories and two straight in 1945 Big Nine football competition when the Buckeyes meet Wisconsin's Badgers before 65,000 in Ohio stadium tomorrow afternoon.

Perfect Indian summer prevailing today and a promise of fine but cooler weather for tomorrow stimulated interest in the clash between the two teams which never have been more than 13 points apart at the finish of any of their football battles, except 1915, when the Badgers won, 21 to 0.

Close Games the Rule

Only twice have the Buckeyes beaten the Badgers, good years and bad, by as many as 13 points. In 1917 Ohio State conquered by 16 to 3 and last year a 20 to 7 victory over the not too sparkling 1944 Badgers was one of the Buckeyes' steps in a march to the Big Nine championship in an undefeated season.

Those who are touting a continuation of the nip and tuck tradition tomorrow are taking the tackle situation as their theme. On the campus here it is said that Ohio State's two regular tackles, Russ Thomas and Thornton Dixon, are so weak they have to eat their soup thru a straw. On the other hand, great respect, even terror, is expressed over the brute strength of the two Badger first string tackles, Clarence Esser and Martin Meyer. By the way, Chuck Fazio and Bud Hamilton will get Coach Widdoes' nod if Thomas and Dixon prove as lowly as advertised.

Amling May Be Shifted

Then, too, there's Warren Amling. He has been named acting captain of the Buckeyes for tomorrow. Tentatively he's listed as the starting left guard but may be moved over a notch to take Thomas' place at left tackle. There are other suggested shifts that may see the Buckeyes start with four freshmen in the line, a high ratio in this haven of mature football players.

If there is a kid line, the Ohio back field probably will balance things in the matter of age. For the first time this season it is planned to work an all-veteran back field simultaneously. Robin Friday, back from the navy to remind Ohio fans of his part in the winning of the national title for the Buckeyes in 1942, will start at quarter. Paul Sarringhaus, another former sailor and a star here in 1942 and Dick Fisher, still another ex-gob, and a veteran of the 1941 team, will be at the halves. Ollie Cline will be at full and they do say he is greatly improved over last year.

PURDUE BATTLES IOWA; BIDS FOR 4TH STRAIGHT

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12—Purdue's Boilermakers, even tho addicted to conference championship ideas, aren't above doing a little high class fearing about the job they have on their hands here tomorrow. They are going to play football with the lads from Iowa and, altho the latter had a rather uncomfortable weekend with Ohio State last Saturday, the Boilermakers profess to see no reason to feel relaxed. Iowa lost by merely 42 to 0 but maybe the Boilermakers suspect the real score was concealed from them.

Outside of the fearing, which of course, is just another illustration of the time honored Friday afternoon running amuck of campus press agents, it seems this is to be the 24th meeting between the two institutions. It will also be the feature of the homecoming didoes and is expected to draw about 18,000 into the Ross-Ade stadium. Incidentally, the Boilermakers will be seeking their fourth straight victory of the season.

Hint Dave Shaw Is Ready

Some of the local fear may be due not to the thoughts of a beating at the hands of the Hawkeyes but just how well the Boilermaker back field will function if Dave Shaw continues to be a bench sitter. Latest reports indicate that his idleness, a matter of three weeks, is at an end and that he will be at right half tomorrow, a fair part of the time, but even if he continues to relax, it may be a real basis for fretting because Ed Cody, No. 1 full back, can handle the right half chores and Freshman Ernie Dobrzykowski is available for whatever work there may be for a full back.

The Boilermakers are expected to show off their fancy Bob De Moss to the Hawkeyes, who believe they have a choice passer in Jerry Niles. Freshman De Moss has tossed 12 passes in each of Purdue's games this season. Nineteen of his pitches were caught for a gain of 248 yards.

The Line Will Do

Despite the fears hereabout, there doesn't seem to be much worry about the class of the Purdue forward wall. At least, it will not be changed much if any from the combination that pushed Wisconsin's Badgers around a week ago. There is one freshman up front and you'd hardly say the young man hasn't had experience. He's Left End Bob Heck who picked up three battle stars while a marine in the South Pacific. Ned Maloney, the right end, also is a marine corps graduate.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12—Twice beaten Dartmouth and undefeated Notre Dame will renew their intersectional rivalry tomorrow before a crowd that is expected to reach 35,000.

Dartmouth hoped on this Columbus day it can discover how to win a game. The Big Green, coached by one of football's most widely known leaders—Tuss McLaughry—lost to Holy Cross, 13 to 7, and to Pennsylvania, 12 to 0, in its previous starts this season. Notre Dame staved off three Illinois touchdown drives to win, 7 to 0, and last Saturday rolled up a 40 to 7 score on Georgia Tech.

The Dartmouth squad didn't reach Elkhart until this afternoon. McLaughry sent the players thru a limbering up drill and they will remain in Elkhart until noon tomorrow. The game will begin at 2:30 p. m., Chicago time.

Brennan Replaces Angsman

Hugh Devore who is carrying on as head coach of the Irish until Frank Leahy is released from the navy, plans one change in Notre Dame's starting lineup. Terry Brennan of Milwaukee, youngest member of a famous football family, will be at right half back in place of Elmer Angsman, who was injured last week. Ansgman can be used, if his services are needed.

McLaughry plans to make three shifts in the Dartmouth battle front. Two of the changes will bring men named O'Brien and Sullivan into the Indians' back field, a move designed, no doubt, to divide the support of the Irish in the stands. O'Brien, a full back, has been impressive in practice, eastern correspondents with the team report, Sullivan will replace Bob Albrecht and Deutsch will relieve Meryll Frost at quarter back. Both Albrecht and Frost were injured in the Pennsylvania game.

The Irish Backs Can March

While Notre Dame has no ball carrier with the speed and agility of Bob Kelly of the 1944 eleven, the 1945 backs have turned in very respectable averages against Illinois and Georgia Tech. Their collective record is 547 net yards in 86 trips, an average of 6.3 per carry. The team's defense, jolted severely by the pre-season loss of Frank Szymanski and Marty Wendell, has been braced somewhat by the acquisition of Stan Krivik, a full back recently discharged from the army air corps.

Krivik won a monogram at Fordham in 1940. He received both the silver star and the soldier's medal for heroism in the European theater. The latter honor was awarded him when, as a pilot of a B-24 Liberator, he was forced to crash land in England after three motors cut out on the return from a bombing mission over Germany. Krivik was thrown out of the plane. After he regained consciousness he went back into the burning ship and rescued three of his trapped crewmen. He was shot down five times in 22 bombing raids.

Krivik hopes some day to be a major league catcher. So does his teammate, Bill Walsh, who has earned a regular job at center on the Irish varsity.

The result was a 10 to 2 Bear victory and extension of the series at least thru tomorrow night. The Colonels won three straight in the eastern phase of the play.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12 — Indiana's Hoosiers, possessors of two victories and one tie in their 1945 gridiron endeavors, will celebrate homecoming tomorrow by meeting a youthful University of Nebraska eleven before an anticipated crowd of more than 15,000 in Memorial stadium. It will be the tenth contest between the Hoosiers and Huskers, the former holding an edge of four triumphs to three and two ties having been registered.

Col. Alvin Nugent [Bo] McMillin is suspected of having a football team which may yet figure notably in the Western conference championship picture. His young men, boasting an aerial attack fashioned around such veterans as Quarter Back Ben Raimondi, Ends Ted Kluszewski and Bob Ravensberg, and a pair of new hands in Mel Groomes and George Taliaferro, have conquered Michigan and Illinois, with a tie against an inspired Northwestern team sandwiched in between.

Hoosiers Don't Expect Trouble

The homecomers who packed Bloomington on this Injun summer afternoon are not expecting overly much difficulty with the visitors who have succumbed to Oklahoma, 20 to 0, and to Minnesota, 61 to 7. Considering the fact that Indiana is scheduled to battle Minnesota in Minneapolis on Nov. 10 in what should be one of the conference's vital games, tomorrow's doings can be regarded as a relative test of the strength of Hoosiers and Gophers.

The game tomorrow also marks a kind of homecoming for George [Potsy] Clark, Nebraska's new coach. Potsy who has served in two world wars, as a lieutenant commander in the recent one, has a background of 29 years of coaching, much of it in the central states.

He's Surrounded by Freshman

In all those 29 years, Potsy allowed on the train-and-bus journey from Chicago this morning, he has never really had an opportunity to be a genuine freshman coach. He admitted to a brief spell with yearlings when he served as an assistant to his old college tutor, Bob Zuppke. This new assignment, however, makes him a full-fledged frosh coach, for of the 35 Huskers who made the trip only three won letters last year. One is senior Willard Bunker, 200 pound end from Lincoln, the others are Half Back Ed Gradoville and Guard Fred Lorenz.

Tuskegee Is Beaten, 6 to 0, on Pass Play

Wilberforce university's football team last night defeated Tuskegee, 6 to 0, on a first period touchdown before 15,000 in Comiskey park. It was the 17th game of the series between the two Negro elevens since 1928 and the victory gave Wilberforce a 7 to 6 edge. They tied in four other games.

Fred Hall, sophomore quarter back of Washington, D. C., tossed a 25 yard pass to Roy McClellan, Toledo, O., half back, and the latter ran an additional five yards for the winning score. Thurman Boddie, Wilberforce end, attempted to kick the extra point, but missed.

Tuskegee marched to the Wilberforce 19 yard line in the final period, but lost the ball on downs. Wilberforce completed 10 first downs to Tuskegee's 4. The winners also made 187 yards to Tuskegee's eight. Wilberforce attempted 11 passes and completed two, while Tuskegee tried 15 and was successful in only four tosses. Lineups:

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 12 (AP)—Harry Givan, whose 66 yesterday wasn't quite good enough to take the lead in the $10,250 Seattle Open, went hot after Byron Nelson today and came within a stroke of overhauling the Toledo star with a five under par 65. Nelson lost three strokes to Givan with a 35 on the par 36 front nine, and both came home in 33. Nelson's first round 62 made his 36 hole total 130 and Givan closed the day at 131.

Trippi Out of Army; Critics Cry Politics

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP)—Staff Sgt. Charley Trippi, former University of Georgia football star, was released from the army tonight on 41 points.

The back field ace, whose release brought protests from Tampa's newspapers and charges that Georgia politicians had brought pressure on the war department, left Drew field without any statement as to his immediate intentions. It was reported at the field, however, that he would report at once to the University of Georgia as a student. That will make him eligible for the football team.

In Washington, the war department announced that Trippi was being discharged from the air forces because his commanding officer here declared him surplus.

The department said an army order, made public last Saturday, made Sgt. Trippi eligible for discharge.

Trippi left the University of Georgia after his sophomore year, following Georgia's triumph over U. C. L. A., 9 to 0, in the Rose bowl Jan. 1, 1943.

Trippi, whose wife and seven months old daughter are living at Clearwater, Fla., said today he applied for discharge as a hardship case a month ago because he has a dependent mother and a father in Buffalo, N. Y.

Joyce Starts Workouts for Stadium Bout

Willie Joyce, Gary lightweight, who defeated Ike Williams, National Boxing association lightweight champion, in an overweight bout last March to become a leading contender for the 135 pound title, opened workouts in C. Y. O. Center gymnasium yesterday for his 10 round contest against Joey Barnum of Los Angeles in Chicago Stadium next Thursday night.

Joyce, 1937 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight title holder, will start boxing drills today. He will be given a rest tomorrow, but will resume sparring Monday and continue Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday he will confine himself to light loosening up exercises, his trainer, Lou Gross, said.

Jack Hill, Bloomington, Ill., middleweight, and William Johnson have been matched to meet in a five round supporting match to an eight round event between Tony [Cianciola] Martin, Milwaukee middleweight challenger, and Benny Droll of Peoria in Marigold Gardens Monday night.

STEELER BACK FINDS WORK TOO HARD AND QUITS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP)—Bert Bell, co-owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers, said today Art Van Tone, newly acquired right half back, had left the Hershey, Pa., training camp after complaining that the work was too hard and too much.

Bell, issuing a statement thru his office here, said Van Tone reported at the camp about 4 p. m. yesterday, watched a workout, received his uniform and number and took part in an after dinner squad meeting.

The Steelers had bought Van Tone from the Detroit Lions. He is a graduate of Mississippi Southern college.

MAJ. ANDERSON TO RESUME IOWA COACHING IN '46

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 12 (AP)—Maj. Edward N. Anderson, released from the army after 32 months with the medical corps, said today he plans to return to his position as head football coach at the University of Iowa next season.

Anderson said that Frank Carideo, former back field coach now in the navy, expected to be discharged by the first of the year and will return here.

SCHURZ ELEVEN ROLLS ON; BEATS AMUNDSEN, 40-6

It's Three Straight for North Siders

Schurz High school's football team yesterday boosted its point total in the City league to 159 for three games as it scored a 40 to 6 triumph over Amundsen in Lane stadium. It was a north section game.

The undefeated Bulldogs started the touchdown parade on the second play when Dick Redman raced 75 yards. Before the period ended, Johnny Miller had scored and Schurz led, 13 to 0.

Adolph Planck scored a touchdown in the second quarter, and in the third Bob Downey added two when he came thru with runs of 45 and 15 yards. Ronny Ziemek made the final touchdown by returning a punt 45 yards.

Taft Wins, 27-0.

Taft scored in every period to defeat Waller, 27 to 0, in Winnemac park in another north section game. Earl Wurthman scored twice for Taft, both touchdowns coming in the first half. Other touchdowns were scored by Jim Molley and Bob Ray.

Al Berry's point after touchdown gave Calumet a 7 to 6 victory over Chicago Vocational last night in a south section meeting on Shewbridge field. Berry kicked the point after George Keenan took a pass from Joe Schultz for the touchdown in the second period. Dick Sterling scored for Vocational. It was the second league victory in three starts for Calumet, which erroneously was reported in yesterday's TRIBUNE as losing to Harper in an earlier game. Calumet beat Harper, 12 to 0.

Fenger Beats Harper, 25-6

Fenger won its second game in the south section in Shewbridge field last night by defeating Harper 25 to 6.

Marshall, which has waited long for a west section triumph over Crane Tech, came thru yesterday in Key Branch stadium with a 20 to 13 decision. Gene Siegal passed to Phil Molo for all the Marshall touchdowns. Leon Zdeblick and Frank Monachino scored for Crane.

Steinmetz and Foreman battled to a 6 to 6 tie in Hanson park in another west division contest.

In the central section Phillips defeated Gage Park, 13 to 0, on touchdown runs by George Townsend and Herb Jones, while Kelly beat Dunbar, 8 to 0. Both games were in 83d-Yates stadium. Lineups:

Oak Park Meets New Trier

The Suburban league will have three games today with Oak Park, New Trier, Proviso, and Waukegan opening their league schedules. Morton beat Evanston, 9 to 0, in the opener last week.

Interest today will be shared by the Oak Park-New Trier battle in Winnetka. The Terriers are defending champions in the league, but in its series with Oak Park has triumphed only twice. Last year, New Trier won, 14 to 7, and the Villagers will be attempting to avenge that loss. Oak Park reportedly has another strong eleven and will be a slight favorite.

PLAYS ROUND OF GOLF; HAS BABY 6 HOURS LATER

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Howard H. Starrett, fourth ranking American woman badminton player, and the 8 pound baby girl born to her six hours after she finished a round of golf with a score of 89 were reported doing well today.

Mrs. Starrett, the former Patsy Donovan, also hold the title of Canadian woman badminton champion. She finished her golf game at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday and the baby was born at 10:30 that night.

Notre Dame Wins from Purdue in Cross Country

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12 [Special]—Ashley Hawk of Purdue captured individual honors, but Notre Dame had too much balance and scored a 24 to 33 victory in a cross-country meet today. Hawk covered the three and one-half mile course in 18:26.2, finishing 300 yards ahead of Bill Tully, who finished second for Notre Dame.

Duck Hunting Season Gets Started Today

BY BOB BECKER

Just 10 ducks per day with 20 in possession, one wood duck as daily or possession limit, and waterfowl hunting until sundown each day of the open season are three of the things that duck shooters have to keep in mind starting today, the opening day of the 1945 season in Illinois and all states in the central zone.

Altho no big flight has moved into the Illinois marshes from the northern lakes to furnish top notch mallard hunting, blinds are at a premium today and tomorrow and reports from down state indicate that the public and daily fee spots frequented by shooters have been sold out for some time.

Good News on Shells

With a comparative shortage of ducks along the Illinois river for this first post-war duck hunting opening, those who do not get many shots today still will have something to cheer about for the good news has just come that more shotgun shells are about to be released for civilian shooters.

The office of surplus property, department of commerce, says that the 40,000,000 rounds of 12 guage shells, frozen for military use since the start of the war, will be sold to dealers this month. [The sale begins this morning.]

Effective at Short Range

Most of these shells are loaded with only 3 drams of powder and 1⅛ ounces of number 8 shot, and therefore are more suitable for quail hunting than anything else, but if no other ammunition is available they can be used and if shot at ducks within a reasonable range, they'll drop birds.

In addition to these light quail loads the government is selling 12 guage shells loaded with buckshot which will give the southern deer hunters a big break, for the boys use buckshot to kill their deer down south.

Parker and Segura Reach Pan-American Net Finals

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12 (AP)—Frankie Parker, United States champion, and Francisco Segura, Ecuador's title holder, breezed into the finals of the Pan-American tennis tournament today with straight set victories. Parker beat Alejo Russell of Argentina, 9-7, 6-1, 6-1, while Segura eliminated Bob Falkenburg of Hollywood, 6-2, 7-5, 6-0. Patricia Canning Todd of Lafayette, Cal., and Mary Arnold of San Francisco will meet for the women's title.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

LOANS MAY GIVE BRITAIN EDGE IN SHIP BUYING

Roth Warns Senate of U. S. Stake

BY PHILIP DODD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12—A senate commerce subcommittee was warned today that current negotiations for a United States loan to Great Britain may result in the British being able to buy surplus American ships at better terms than those available to Americans.

The warning came from Almon E. Roth, San Francisco, Cal., president of the National Federation of American Shippers, at a hearing on a bill providing for disposal of surplus war-built ships.

"The shipping industry," said Roth, "has a great stake in the form and terms of loans to maritime nations if any part of those loans are to be used to purchase vessels. I am informed the British intend to buy a considerable number of our ships if they succeed in obtaining the loan for which they are negotiating."

Americans Pay 25% Down

Roth recalled that recently a 140 million dollar loan to France was proposed which would enable that nation to buy American ships with no down payment and to pay for them over a 30 year period with annual interest at 2¾ per cent. He said Americans must pay 25 per cent down for ships and pay the balance in 20 years with annual interest of 6 per cent.

Roth said Assistant State Secretary Clayton stopped negotiations for the French loan when members of congress showed him the inequities in the terms.

Reconversion Director Snyder today backed down on his insistence that foreigners be given concessions in the purchase of American ships. In a letter to the subcommittee, he withdrew his suggestion that foreigners be permitted to turn in their old ships on the purchase of American surplus vessels.

Would End Bans on Sales

Snyder said he and Adm. Land, maritime commission chairman, agreed that other White House suggestions for the ship sale bill should stand. They included removal of other restrictions on the sale of vessels to foreigners, foreign charters for vessels not purchased, and repeal of a 1934 act requiring products obtained for export under American loans to be carried in American ships.

Later Roth told reporters there was no reason for permitting foreigners to trade in their old ships and that they never have had the privilege. He said the turn-in privilege for Americans is needed to rehabilitate the American merchant marine.

Asks Priority for Americans

Roth said Americans should be further protected in the bill by a provision giving them a six month priority on the purchase of fast C-type fraters. Foreign sale of P-2 passenger vessels, of which this country has 19, and of the 26 bulk cargo vessels, should be prohibited, he said.

In his testimony on the ship sale bill, Roth asked that companies which already have purchased war built vessels from the government be permitted price adjustments which will give them the same benefits obtained by those who purchase ships after passage of the bill.

Hearings on the bill ended today. Sen. Radcliffe [D., Md.], chairman of the subcommittee, said the measure was "so complicated" that he could not forecast when a redrafted bill would be presented to the full commerce committee.

Predicts Vast Purchases of Foreign Bonds

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 12 [Special]—Within a decade more than 9 billion dollars of private money in this country may be placed in foreign bond issues, J. Clifford Folger of Washington, D. C., president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, said tonight.

J. Clifford Folger

"Few people realize the importance or imminence of this development, which is just around the corner," he asserted.

Compared with Rail Bonds

An outflow of funds of that magnitude would mean the absorption of as large an amount of foreign bonds as the railroad bonds outstanding after more than 100 years of public financing or as much as the public utility bonds after 50 years, Folger explained.

Altho a large part of the foreign offerings will be in the form of bonds guaranteed by the Bretton Woods bank, Folger told the Mississippi valley group of the I. B. A. that "wherever possible we should strive for privately placed credits."

"The 'do good' spirit and sound banking are both needed to get world trade moving," he warned.

Inducement for Private Funds

Bretton Woods bonds may sell to yield as low as 3 to 3½ per cent, Folger predicted, but, allowing for payments by the borrowers to the banks the money would cost them 4 to 5 per cent. Countries with good credit would thus have an inducement to appeal to private investors direct.

Recalling the unsatisfactory experience with foreign bonds sold in this country during the 1920s, Folger said "international banking can really be different this time."

TWO RAIL CHIEFS INSIST ON RIGHTS TO RATE PACTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12 (AP)—Gustav Metzman, New York Central railroad president, said today railroad rate making would "bog down in confusion and public disservice" unless the roads are permitted to discuss initiation of new rates among themselves and with shippers.

Metzman and C. McD. Davis of Wilmington, N. C., Atlantic Coast Line president, appeared before a house interstate commerce subcommittee supporting legislation to immunize carriers from anti-trust suits in rate and service conferences.

Davis said the railroads would find it virtually impossible to maintain a rate structure satisfactory to themselves or to shippers without the conference method of rate making.

National Tea Sales Rise 20 Per Cent in 4 Weeks

An increase of 20.5 per cent in National Tea company sales to $8,846,157 in the four weeks ended Oct. 6, compared with the 1944 period, was reported yesterday by H. V. McNamara, executive vice president. He attributed the gain to enlargement of stores into super markets, elimination of other smaller units, and more aggressive merchandising methods.

250 Covered Steel Hopper Cars Ordered by Santa Fe

The Santa Fe railway has ordered 250 covered steel hopper cars of 70 ton capacity from the General American Transportation corporation of East Chicago, F. G. Gurley, president of the road, announced yesterday.

EXPORTS RATED KEY TO END OF MEAT RATION

Food Chain Group Hears OPA View

How long meat rationing will continue depends to a large extent on the amount of meat shipped abroad, James E. Kelley, food rationing director of the office of price administration, said yesterday.

Many "ifs and buts" exist on just what supplies will be earmarked by the government for foreign relief, Kelley told a closed session of the annual meeting of the National Association of Food Chains in the Drake hotel.

"When it is definitely known how much meat will be shipped overseas, OPA will be in a better position to determine the length of time that rationing should continue," he said.

Resume Meat Set-Aside

The government announced Thursday it will resume mandatory meat set-asides Sunday to obtain supplies for Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries.

Kelley said current live stock marketings are 10 to 12 per cent below the level set for domestic consumption. Hog marketings should increase in the "near future," he said, on the basis of fall marketing records. The butter and fats supply has improved and the recently announced turning back of 80 million pounds of butter into civilian channels by the government will do much to bolster supplies.

Face Competitive Era

The association's meeting had a record attendance of more than 750 representatives of food chains and food manufacturers. Among large chains represented were National Tea company, Kroger Grocery and Baking company, and the New York Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company. Among manufacturers represented were General Foods corporation, National Biscuit company, Quaker Oats company, Corn Products Sales company, William Wrigley Jr. company, and the major Chicago packers.

Clarence Francis, chairman of General Foods, said the food industry faces the most competitive era in the history of food merchandising.

"What the manufacturers must do now is create a demand for better food products," Francis asserted. "The field for improvement of products and packaging is unlimited."

PNEUMATIC TOOL

Please give me statistical information on Chicago Pneumatic Tool company. What is the sales outlook?—A. E.

During the first half of 1945 the company's net earnings before deducting income taxes decreased 47 per cent from the 1944 level but, after sharply reduced provision for taxes and renegotiation of war contracts, net income showed only a nominal decline. The profit was equal to $1.95 a share on the 335,320 common shares, compared with $1.98.

With war demands at an end, Chicago Pneumatic's sales for the full year are expected to fall well below the 1944 peak of $52,731,000, and profit is likely to be less than the $4.25 a share for that year. The outlook for 1946 is considered good, however. Domestic and foreign demands for portable air tools, compressors, and electric tools are expected to hold sales and possibly profits above the immediate pre-war level. Surplus aviation and shipbuilding tools are not considered a serious problem.

The company's pre-war earnings were subject to wide fluctuations, dropping from $2.50 a share in 1937 to 59 cents in 1938 and recovering to $1.16 before foreign exchange charges in 1939. Sales for those three years averaged $12,288,000. After 1939 yearly profits ranged from $3.01 to $6.15. Common dividends subsequent to 1942 have been $2 a year.

Outstanding are 60,489 $2.50 cumulative prior preferred shares, 181,135 $3 cumulative preference shares, and $517,000 long term debt to a Canadian subsidiary. Both classes of preferred are convertible into common. Net working capital last Dec. 31 was $11,582,000.

Standard of California Plans Domestic, Foreign Expansion

BY ANTHONY WIRRY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 12—With "relatively simple" reconversion problems solved, the Standard Oil Company of California is entering the post-war period with a program calling for foreign and domestic operations, 33 million dollars for new facilities and tankers, and new products.

H. D. Collier

The company's plans were disclosed today by H. D. Collier, president, to newspaper writers who are visiting 17 American industrial centers to report industry's progress in reconverting from war time to peace time production.

Arabian Project Big

The largest project in the foreign field is the development of a 200,000 square mile tract in Saudi Arabia thru the Arabian American Oil company and Bahrein Company, Inc., both Standard subsidiaries, and the Texas company. The property will yield an estimated 2 billion to 20 billion barrels of oil and will be tapped by a 1,000 mile 26 inch diameter pipe line extending from the fields to Port Said or some other near-by Mediterranean port, Collier said.

To ship the oil to the United States all the way by tanker would cost about 35 cents a barrel, including Suez canal tolls, compared with 10 to 11 cents a barrel by use of pipe line and tanker, Collier said.

The companies pay the Arabian government 21 cents a barrel for the oil, and plan, at least for some years, to ship only to New Zealand, Australia, and certain sections of Africa, Asia, and Europe. Concessions expire in about 50 years.

Thru wholly and jointly owned subsidiaries, Standard also is carrying on exploration or production programs in Venezuela, Colombia, and Alberta, Canada.

Standard and its domestic subsidiaries have mapped out a 33 million dollar expansion program, including 20 million dollars for new construction and 13 million dollars for five new tankers. This is in addition to heavy anticipated expenditures for repairs and maintenance of existing plants and facilities.

Will Operate Richmond Plant

The company reported it has made a contract with the Reconstruction Finance corporation to operate a major portion of the government owned 100 octane gasoline plant at Richmond, Cal., near San Francisco.

New products include chemicals, fertilizer bases, detergents for soaps, glues, and synthetic impregnants for plywood, transparent plastics, and a paint base, which will make finishes twice as wearable as those in general pre-war use. The company also will market several war developed products.

When Standard gets into full production in a month or two, it and its domestic subsidiaries will employ 21,500 persons, compared with 18,718 in 1939.

Besides its foreign operations, Standard is selling, producing, or exploring thru itself or its subsidiaries thruout the west and south.

END OF RESTRICTIONS MONDAY ON BUILDING VIEWED BOOM SIGNAL

BY AL CHASE

Removal of all war time restrictions on the construction of homes and commercial buildings, effective Monday, is expected to touch off the largest volume of construction in Chicago's history, builders reiterated yesterday. The war production board's order L-41 which banned all except essential war construction, will be extinguished.

Besides removing controls on home building WPB has canceled credit restrictions which blocked owners from repairing or modernizing their residences.

Removal of building and repair restrictions puts the prospective home builder in a pre-war position. He needs no priorities or approval from any government bureau.

He also may sell his house for any price he can get. The builder contractor is no longer compelled to rent part of his homes. There will be no price ceiling on homes, altho new residential units built to rent will come under federal rent control.

STEADY PRICES PAID FOR MOST MEAT ANIMALS

Live stock prices were mainly steady in the Chicago stock yards yesterday. Receipts were moderate for a Friday and demand was heavy enough to absorb quickly all offerings.

The department of agriculture said in Washington, D. C., the total of beef cattle to be fed this winter may be about the same as last season. Cattle on feed then totaled 4,173,000 head.

CASTINGS LACK REMAINS SNAG TO CONVERSION

The slowing of reconversion of heavy industries to peacetime production was emphasized yesterday by the inability of Goss Printing Press company, one of the largest producers of newspaper presses, to obtain castings, J. A. Riggs, vice president, said Goss is receiving only about 50 per cent of the castings it expected and that efforts to hire more employes and catch up on orders are being delayed.

"Our suppliers tell us that their labor does not want to work at the wages offered and that the suppliers cannot grant raises and make anything while the OPA keeps their prices down rigidly," Riggs said.

Labor trouble has affected for weeks the foundries making castings. On July 25 some 2,000 union workers in 39 of these foundries in the Chicago area went on strike and remained out until Aug. 21, when they agreed on a 4 cents an hour raise and an extension of vacation time. This was less than had been demanded and experience of employers has indicated, it was reported, that production is well below the war time levels.

APPLIANCE FIRM SETS UNIFORM PRICING POLICY

Consumers will be able to purchase major electric appliances at uniform nationally advertised prices for the first time in the industry's history, Ward R. Schafer, vice president of Edison General Electric Appliance company, said yesterday. He said all his company's appliances would reach consumers at a uniform price anywhere in the country instead of at the varied prices existing before the war based on f. o. b. factory pricing policy.

The new policy covers the company's refrigerators, home freezers, washing machines, ironers, dish washers, dryers, ranges, water heaters, and other products. Previously the company had said its electric stoves and water heaters would sell at 1942 prices. Schafer said the move was designed to protect the public against "unauthorized overcharges" that possibly would result from the company's low price plan.

He said possible changes in wiring on the consumer's premises could not be included in the advertised prices.

MARKET RECESS

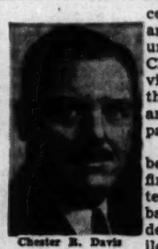
The New York Stock and Curb Exchanges and the Chicago Stock exchange, closed yesterday for Columbus day, will remain closed today. Banks and commodities markets, including the Chicago Board of Trade, will reopen today.

DELAY ON VETS' LOANS DRAWS BANKER'S FIRE

End Law Conflicts, Chicagoan Urges

BY WILLIAM STRAND
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12—Legislation to correct flaws in the procedure for veterans' loans was urged today by Chester R. Davis, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company.



Chester R. Davis

He told members of a senate finance committee that national banks are being denied the privilege of fully serving returning soldiers because of conflicts in the banking laws and the newer laws covering loans to veterans.

Complain of Time Required

Davis, who is chairman of the American Bankers' association committee on service for veterans, criticized the complexity of the loan regulations and the paper work necessary to process each transaction. The biggest single complaint from 3,797 banks thruout the country, he told the subcommittee, has been the length of time needed to get the certificate of eligibility and the loan guaranty certificate from the veterans' administration.

"Information furnished by these banks indicates that it takes 11 days on the average to obtain a certificate of eligibility," he said, "and that it takes an average of 17 days to obtain a loan guaranty certificate, making a total processing time of 28 days."

Time Factor Termed Important

Davis asserted that the time factor is important in making loans. Banks told of veterans' business and real estate deals failing because of the time lapse, he said.

He warned that this problem will become more acute as more soldiers and sailors return to civilian life.

Davis said the solution is both administrative and legislative. Congress could pass a law making the guaranty on veterans' loans automatic, he explained, and the veterans' administration could shorten the length of time required for processing by simplifying its regulations.

AM. BRIDGE UNIT CHANGES IN GARY TO HIKE OUTPUT

American Bridge company, United States Steel corporation subsidiary, yesterday said its Gary, Ind., plant will be modernized and expanded to meet increasing demands for fabricated steel in midwestern and western states. Working area will be increased nearly 10 per cent. Other changes will include rearrangement of fabricating facilities and production equipment, and centralization of the welding area. This will substantially increase output of the plant, which will produce steel for all types of construction.

ACTION URGED ON COMPLAINTS AT TB HOSPITAL

Sanitarium Doctor Says Charges Are True

CALL HOSPITAL EDITOR

Person who have been kept on the waiting list for entrance into the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium for more than 10 days are requested to call the Hospital Editor of The Tribune today between 10 a. m. and 5 p. m. Telephone Superior 0100.

Dr. Clarence Payne, department surgeon of the Illinois Veterans of Foreign Wars and an attending physician at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, yesterday told representatives of 15 civic organizations that "complaints about conditions at the institution are valid and the city administration should do something about them."

He spoke at a meeting called by the Woman's City Club of Chicago in its headquarters at 410 S. Michigan av. Mrs. T. H. Ludlow, chairman of the club's public health committee, presided. She said the meeting had been called because of recent bitter complaints that the meals at the sanitarium were not fit to eat and that charges were made for medical service which should be free.

Many Letters Received

"I am speaking not only of complaints in the press but of charges contained in letters from patients and others to me and to the club," Mrs. Ludlow said. She said she has received a number of letters since her organization turned its attention several weeks ago to charges against the food and medical care in the M. T. S.

"I was prepared to break off with the sanitarium for the last 15 years," Dr. Payne said. "Up until eight years ago there were no complaints about the food or anything else, and there couldn't very well be for conditions were all right. Since then it has been different. Certainly the recent accusations—including those Mrs. Ludlow outlined to us—are valid. The administration must do something about it."

A Two Day Investigation

While the meeting was in progress, Mayor Kelly's office made public a report on the sanitarium by Doctors Harold Coon, Ernest O. Mariette, and Henry S. Willis of the Mississippi Valley Tuberculosis conference. The three had been appointed to make the report by Dr. John Towey, head of the Pine Crest sanitorium in Powers, Mich., at the request of the mayor.

They made a two day investigation while the conference held an annual meeting in Chicago and then reported to the mayor personally as he had requested.

Where Does Money Go?

"Chicago gets $60,000 a year of federal funds," Mrs. Ludlow said. "This is intended for case finding. Year after year it goes direct to Dr. Frederick Tice, 74, president of the M. T. S. board. The city board of health has no control over it. We feel the board of health should have some control.

"One of the things we intend to find out is what happens to that $60,000."

The report of Dr. Towey's committee recommended that from 500 to 800 beds be added to the 1,340 in the sanitarium, employment of a full time food director, four to eight additional trained dietitians, and bedside radios.

The report said the doctors believe the food difficulties "which existed up to a month ago have been met satisfactorily" and that "food complaints are no longer justified."

The Towey committee met charges that patients have long been made to pay for certain medical attention which should be free at the institution by recommending improvements in the sanitarium professional department. It said "this would avoid the criticisms currently voiced in the press concerning the acceptances of gratituities for extra services.

Not a Definitive Survey

"The committee makes this statement," the report said, "even tho it was entirely unable to substantiate a single one of these criticisms."

The committee said: "This report touches in broad outline several aspects of the problem which you [Mayor Kelly] placed before us. It is not in any sense a report of a definitive survey, which if made, would obviously require more time . . . and a much more detailed analysis than has been made."

The doctors said their "recommendations are general and do not imply any criticism of the present personnel. They represent an attempt at changing the system rather than the individuals. However, to accomplish this satisfactorily . . . the board of directors should be a policy making board only. 'The umpire doesn't play ball.'"

Ruled for Many Years

The committee here apparently referred to the fact that Dr. Tice has for many years ruled the sanitarium with an iron hand.

The report, however, did not coincide with statements of hundreds of patients, nurses, employes, and former sanitarium physicians, nor with the statements in several hundred detailed letters received by THE TRIBUNE after publication of bitter accusations.

Neither did the committee's recommendations for additional beds square with the statement of a Chicago doctor who, after an independent inquiry, told THE TRIBUNE Wednesday that 200 to 300 beds are constantly vacant in the sanitarium for some unknown reason, while at least 60 persons constantly are on the waiting list for admission.

Tells of Slaying

(Acme Telephoto)

Donald J. Cook, 16, Chicago, held in the Jefferson parish prison at Gretna, La., for the slaying last May in the Stevens hotel of another youth, yesterday said he was "just a little sorry it all happened." Cook was being questioned by Lt. Phil Breitzke, head of the homicide bureau, who flew to Louisiana to return the prisoner here for trial.

Questioned about the fatal stabbing of his friend, Morton Stein, Cook said the fight started when he refused to accompany Stein on a proposed jewelry store robbery.

"I was prepared to break off with him anyway," Cook said. "When we were in New York he began drinking. He had nightmares and was always saying queer things. I knew then that something was wrong and wanted to get away from him."

He agreed to waive extradition, saying, "I'm in enough trouble already."

DAILY DELIVERY MAY BOOST MILK COST 1c A QUART

If dairy companies return to daily deliveries when the war time restrictions are raised Nov. 1, milk costs will increase from 1 to 1½ cents a quart, Thomas Gilmore, attorney for the Associated Milk Dealers, said yesterday.

He said this estimate was based on surveys made by the companies. In some instances, he asserted, the increased cost would be more than 1½ cents.

Members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL], will meet Oct. 25 to decide on the union's position on returning to daily deliveries. The milk dealers previously had agreed to consult with the drivers before changing back to the old system.

May Favor Daily Deliveries

It is expected the drivers, who have been making more money under the present setup, will vote for daily deliveries to provide jobs for 450 men in service who will be returning to work.

Tom Haggerty, secretary of the union local, asserted dairy companies have made ample profits during the war on deliveries every other day. He said these profits were not passed on to the customer and that a return to daily deliveries would not necessitate increases in milk prices.

He added that with skip deliveries many women buy milk at stores on nondelivery days. When competition between store purchase and door delivery becomes keen again, Haggerty asserted, the housewife will be looking for pre-war service at home.

Favor Skip Deliveries

The companies favor retaining the skip deliveries and have raised the question of whether the consumer or dealer will absorb the extra cost of daily deliveries. Atty. Gilmore said the dairies actually passed on reduced delivery costs to the public during the war in the form of no increase in price as other expenses rose.

Farmers' subsidies for cattle feed which expire in April, 1946, also figure in the future price of milk, Gilmore said. In the winter months, when the rates are the highest, the subsidy amounts to as much as 60 cents a hundred pounds on raw milk. This amounts to approximately 1½ cents a quart.

If the subsidy is removed, farmers will ask that the difference be paid by the milk dealers, Gilmore said.

Goldblatt, Inc., Fined $1,000 on Food Charge

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday assessed a $1,000 fine against Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., on a charge of adulterating food in connection with their bakery at 2608 Lexington st. Attorneys for the company said the bakery had been remodeled since the violations were brought to their attention.

BAKERS REQUEST OPA O. K. FOR PRICE BOOST ON BREAD AND ROLLS

Seven Chicago wholesale bakeries yesterday asked office of price administration approval for increases in the prices of bread and rolls. The increases, the amounts of which were not specified, would be effected by reducing the sizes of loaves and rolls or by raising prices.

The requests were made after William A. Quinlan, a Washington, D. C., attorney representing the Associated Retail Bakers of America and other bakery groups, conferred with Henry Shabsin, OPA food price attorney here. Rae E. Walters, regional OPA head, also sat in the discussions.

Firms requesting the increase, which would require approval of the agriculture department as well as the OPA price division here, were the Continental Baking company, Vienna Model bakeries, John's Bake shop, H. Piper company, Interstate Bakeries corporation, Ward Baking company, and Gordon Baking company.

SLAPS BY WIFE RULED 'CRUELTY' IN DIVORCE CASE

The century old assumption that a husband must figuratively be beaten to death to accuse his wife of cruelty in the divorce courts is no longer valid.

That was the opinion yesterday of attorneys and judges after studying a recent Illinois Supreme court ruling which held in effect that if a couple of slaps are sufficient for a wife to obtain a divorce on the ground of cruelty they also are sufficient for her spouse to get a decree.

Verdict Given in Two Suits

The Supreme court ruling was handed down by Justice William J. Fulton in the case of Dr. Julius Levy, 4010 Madison st., and his estranged wife, Elizabeth, an attorney. Dr. Levy sued his wife for divorce on the ground of cruelty and she countered with a suit for separate maintenance on the same ground.

In Superior court, Judge Joseph Graber granted Dr. Levy a divorce. The Appellate court subsequently reversed Judge Graber and directed him to reconsider the wife's counterclaim of cruelty. It was on a further appeal to the state Supreme court that Justice Fulton made his ruling.

Governed by Same Statute

"In suits for divorce on ground of cruelty," Justice Fulton's opinion stated, "no different principles of law or rules of evidence can be applied where the husband is plaintiff than where the wife is plaintiff. Both parties are governed by the same statute, which draws no distinction because of sex."

In his divorce bill, Dr. Levy charged his wife with [1] striking him with a book, [2] scratching him on the face and using profane language in the presence of patients in his office, [3] striking him with a folding chair, [4] kicking him, and [5] throwing a statue at him—which missed its mark.

Need Not Be "On Alert"

The acts of Mrs. Levy were not slight in any sense, Justice Fulton ruled and added, "A husband is not required to spend his domestic or professional hours on the alert for slaps, clawing fingernails, flying objects, and humiliating scenes."

Justice Fulton ruled that the Appellate court erred in reversing the divorce decree granted Dr. Levy but ordered both Dr. Levy's divorce action and his wife's bill for separate maintenance dismissed.

VETERANS OF WAR II. PLACE LOYALTY TO COUNTRY ABOVE ALL

Executive and resolutions committees of the American Veterans of World War II., an organization of former service men and women known as Amvets, recommended yesterday the adoption of a statement of policy that listed as its first demand "loyalty to the United States of America," and asserted that "the welfare of the nation be placed above the interests of any individual, group or organization." They met in the Stevens hotel.

The proposed statement of policy also asserted that "both labor and industry have a paramount duty to the American people to reëstablish their faith by removing from their ranks and leadership professional racketeers, labor haters, labor baiters, and agitators, regardless of what names they go by or positions they occupy."

The veterans, who said there are delegates from 136 posts in 36 states, heard advice on how to run the organization. Col. Jacob L. Arvey, issuing greetings in behalf of Mayor Kelly, told them to stay out of politics; Secretary of State Barrett, veteran of both wars, greeted 146 of them in behalf of the state, told them to get into politics with both feet. Then both Arvey and Barrett joined the organization.
